THE following despatch from the Secretary of State on the subject of the Registration of Trade Marks in the Argentine Republic is published for general information:—

CIRCULAR.

Downing Street,
31st August, 1905.

Sir,—I have the honour to communicate to you, with a view to the attention of traders in the Colony being drawn to the matter, the following representations made by His Majesty's Consul in Buenos Aires in a despatch to the Foreign Office, respecting the registration of Trade Marks in the Argentine Republic.

Mr. Consul Ross suggests from what has come under his notice, that the importance of registration in the Republic of marks well known and therefore valuable, is not understood or appreciated by British Merchants either in the United Kingdom or in the Colonies. He states that, according to the Argentine law, it is permissible for anyone to register in the Republic a trade mark for one class or for any number of different classes of goods, provided that mark has not already been registered in that country; that the cost of registration including agents' fees is about £10 and the time necessary to obtain registration about six weeks and that registration gives protection for ten years.

Attention is called to the serious disadvantage which may result from non-registration. A person not necessarily being the real owner of a particular trade mark, but having registered that mark in the Argentine, can lay an embargo on any goods he may find bearing that mark, although such goods may have been made by the original owner of the mark and have been legitimately introduced into the country. An instance is given of the case of a Canadian, firm which has been selling for some years under a special mark and now finds that it may not import its own goods into the Argentine Republic under that mark because it has been registered by a firm of importers in Buenos Aires; and so far as the Consul can learn there is no remedy except for the original owners to buy up the local registered owner of the mark, unless the manufacturer is prepared to invent and push another trade mark.

Registration in the Argentine Republic can be effected by an agent acting under a power of attorney in the form enclosed, which should be certified to by an Argentine Consul; and His Majesty's Consul at Buenos Aires has declared his willingness to furnish the name of a reliable patent agent in that city.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient, humble Servant,

ALFRED LYTTELTON.

The Officer Administering the Government of British Guiana.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 26TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1905.

ALGOO & ANOR.
versus
WATSON.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate convicting the appellants of the larceny of sugar.

The reasons of appeal argued before me are:—

1. That the Magistrate's Court had no jurisdiction in the case (a) because in the evidence at the hearing there was proof of breaking and entering and (b) because there was no evidence that Pln. Cane Grove was within the East Coast Judicial District.

2. That the decision is erroneous in law (a) because the ownership of the property was not proved as stated in the charge and

3. That there was no proof of any larceny.

The Magistrate has found that there was not sufficient evidence adduced to show that the windows and doors of the sugar store were securely fastened on the night in question and that there is no evidence to show that the accused broke and entered the sugar store that night. It is contended on behalf of the appellants that as it was clear the sugar alleged to have been stolen must have been taken from the sugar store and there was some evidence of the sugar store being locked up that night and the only way of entrance was through a window that had been broken, that the Magistrate could not come to any decision as to the truth or sufficiency of such evidence to prove a breaking and entering, but was bound to take depositions. I cannot agree with this contention. A Magistrate is not bound to send a case for trial by a jury if he is convinced that the evidence is of no value and that no jury would believe it and that the evidence is of such a nature that no jury could possible be of opinion that an indictable offence had been committed, see the case of Seepersad and others v McKenzie, 25, Nov., 1901, and the authorities therein cited. The Magistrate was of opinion that there was no evidence of breaking and entering on which a jury could convict, and he was not bound to send the case on for trial, he has exercised his judgment in the matter and this court sees no reason to interfere with such exercise of judgment. I think there was ample evidence for the Magistrate to arrive at the conclusion that Pln. Cane Grove was in the East Coast Judicial District. Even if the local jurisdiction had not been properly proved, it is not competent for this court to entertain such a reason of appeal as objection to the jurisdiction on this ground was not formally taken during the progress of the case (Sec. 9 (1) of Ordinance 13 of 1893).

In the complaint the property of the sugar stolen is laid in A. J. McConnell and others. From the copy of the proceedings it appears that Counsel for the appellants stated that Mr. Watson, in his evidence, gave the ownership of the sugar in A. J. McConnell. Counsel also made the same statement before me. I refer to this because in the evidence of Mr. Watson, there is no actual statement that the sugar belonged to A. J. McConnel, he says, "I charged them with 3 "bags sugar of A. J. McConnell." It is however clear from Counsel's statements that he stated the sugar belonged to A. J. McConnell. It is contended that there is a failure of proof in a essential of the charge. It appears to me, however, to be a mere variance between the complaint and the evidence adduced in support thereof, and that such variance cannot be now raised, Sec. 2, Ordinance 15 of 1889. It is not suggested that the appellants were in any way deceived or misled by such variance. The case of Hodge v McBurnie, referred to by Counsel on appellants behalf, does not appear to be in point. In that case the property was laid in "Browne Gilbert & Co." it was held that, as the Ordinance distinctly provided that where property is owned by more than one person it should be laid in such person and other or others as the case may, it was not competent to lay the property in "Browne Gilbert & Co." This case was decided on the 24th of April, 1869, long before the passing of the Ordinance, 15 of 1898.

The evidence shows that the buildings on the night of the alleged larceny stopped working at about 11 p.m., after that hour the appellant Algoo was seen in the rum store: about 2.30 a.m. three bags of sugar were seen by the watchman about two rods from the sugar store and one rod from the trench, the appellant Algoo was seen holding one of the bags, a bateau was in the dock where the overseer says no bateaux are allowed, on the watchman calling out Algoo jumped into the bateau in which the other two appellants were and shoved off into the trench. The accused said they had been to the rice fields but no rice was in the bateau. I think this evidence is sufficient to justify the finding of the Magistrate. It is said that when the accused were called by the overseer they did not run away but came to him, and that fact shows they were not guilty. Of course this is a circumstance which the Magistrate must have taken into his consideration in coming to a conclusion, but it is not of such great weight that this Court can say because of it the Magistrate's decision is erroneous.

For these reasons I dismiss this appeal with costs.

DUMONT

BERBICE FOUNDRY.

This case is similar to the case of Dumont v. Berbice Steam Saw Mill Co. and as stated by Counsel for the appellant the same arguments and reasons apply. For the reasons mentioned in that case I dismiss the appeal with costs.

versus

D. W. A. McKinnon.

In this case the Magistrate gave judgment against the appellant for the sum of $25 being amount of cash lent, he dismissed the claims against her for goods sold and delivered. The appeal is only in respect of the judgment against the appellant for cash lent.

The appellant's husband applied to the respondent for a loan of $25 on account of his wife. The respondent gave Mr. Dumont a cheque for $25 payable to the order of the appellant who indorsed the cheque. I have no doubt that there was evidence in this case both of the mandate and of ratification. The appellant certainly ratified the act of her husband by indorsing the cheque.

The appeal is dismissed with costs.

A. V. Lucie Smith, Actg. C.J.

versus

BERBICE STEAM SAW MILL CO.

This is an appeal from the judgment of the Magistrate in favour of the respondents against the appellant for $53 96 for goods sold and delivered.

From the evidence it appears that Hermann Dumont is married to his wife A. J. Dumont, the appellant, by ante-nuptial contract excluding community of property. By the contract Mrs. Dumont has the full right to manage and administer her own property without the interference of her husband and also to appoint Attorneys and Agents. Mr. Dumont was employed by the respondents, or one of the partners, in the balata bleeding business and was paid certain commissions in connection therewith. In August or September, 1903, he purchased for and in the name of his wife from Mr. McKinnon, a partner in the respondent company, Mud lot No. 25, New Amsterdam; no buildings were then on the lot but since the purchase buildings have been erected thereon. Some time in 1904 Mr. Dumont asked for credit from the respondents in his own name for materials for the property so purchased. This was refused because the property had been bought in Mrs. Dumont's name and the materials were wanted to build on the property. Mr. Dumont then agreed that the goods should be charged to Mrs. Dumont. The land was bought for $250; $200 was paid by Mr. Dumont, being charged to his account, a cheque from the Building Society for $88 21, being money raised by Mrs. Dumont was also paid to Mr. McKinnon. For some reason which does not appear the Registrar also sent Mr. McKinnon $250 amounting in all to . . . $538 21. The money was applied in payment of the purchase money—$250—saw-mill account, $54 02, $11 62 cost of transport, two loans of $58 and $25, respectively, to Mrs. Dumont, and the balance was given to Mrs. Dumont in an open cheque. The two loans were made by cheques to Mrs. Dumont's order and were indorsed by her, the money was borrowed by her husband. No objection appears ever to have been made by the appellant to the goods used in building on her property having been obtained by pledging her credit. In January and February, 1905, the goods for which the present suit was brought, were taken by Mr. Dumont on same account as the previous ones. Mr. Dumont swears that none of these goods were used on Mrs. Dumont's building, but were given by him to a woman whose name he refused to divulge. The Magistrate states he does not believe Mr. Dumont's evidence on this point. J. Romney, clerk in charge of the saw-mill, says the goods were delivered to the Tannery in the Strand, which appears to be on the property bought from Mr. McKinnon in Mrs. Dumont's name and to be her property. The appellant never took any part in any of these transactions except indorsing the two cheques received by her husband on loan from McKinnon. Mr. Dumont states that he told his wife to write her name at the back of the cheques and she did so and that his "wife never questioned him over these things." Mrs. Dumont was not called as a witness although present in Court.

On these facts the Magistrate has found in effect that Mr. Dumont had a tacit mandate from his wife to conduct her business and to pledge her credit and also that the appellant has ratified the act of her husband as her agent by taking the benefit of it inasmuch as the goods were used at the Tannery which is her property. The whole question for decision is whether there is evidence sufficient to justify the Magistrate's finding. There were other reasons of appeal argued relating to the admissibility of certain evidence. It appears to me, however, the evidence objected to was admissible as tending to show there was a tacit mandate. If the husband was the agent of the wife then the evidence is admissible, if he was not then the respondents failed in the proof of their case.

The true test is whether there is sufficient evidence for a judge to leave to a jury to decide on. Mr. Dumont states that although there is a man in charge of the tannery, "I go there but I am not there "all day or every day. I am at the Tannery leather "store." There appears to be some evidence showing that in the purchase, equipping and carrying on of the Tannery the appellant allowed her husband to act as her general agent. I think although not without some doubt and hesitation that the evidence ought to be left to the jury to say whether there was a tacit mandate from the appellant to her husband to conduct generally the affairs of the Tannery. In coming to a conclusion of course the absence of the appellant in the witness-box would be of great weight.

I do not consider that the question of satisfaction arises in this case. To constitute a ratification of previously unauthorized acts there must be evidence of a full knowledge of the facts and an unequivocal adoption. The fact that the goods were used in building or repairing the appellants premises would not be an unequivocal adoption by her of the previous act of an unauthorized agent in pledging her credit. She could not be expected, if she did not adopt the act of pledging her credit, to pull down the portion of the building built or repaired with the goods so obtained.

Holding as I do that there is evidence to go to a jury I cannot interfere with the decision of the Magistrate and the Appeal must be dismissed with costs.

A. V. Lucie Smith, Actg. C.J.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

This 2nd Day of October, 1905.

PEREIRA

versus

CHESTER.

The plaintiff by this action claims from the defendant $250 as damages for slander.

The plaintiff, who carries on business at Enmore, used to buy yams from the defendant who is a provision grower. In November last year the plaintiff bought from the defendant six barrels of yams which he stored with others under his shop. The end of March or the beginning of April this year, the plaintiff began to use these yams, he found them mostly in a bad or rotten condition, he sent for the defendant and had a barrel emptied in his presence. The defendant said it was plaintiff's fault that he ought to have adopted some other measures for keeping the yams. After some conversation the plaintiff said, "Yes, it is "my fault, I took you for a gentleman and did not

Digitized by Google

"examine the yams but you have acted to me as a "scamp. You rob me, I will live to see you rob many "more," or words practically to that effect. There is no doubt the yams were rotten in April, but whether this was caused by the keeping or whether they were an inferior lot of yams supplied is not very clear. I think the yams were not as good as they might have been, but I do not think that the defendant was justified in saying that the plaintiff had robbed him. Allowance, however, must be made for the plaintiff. He was no doubt very put out in finding the yams bad which caused a great loss to him. The plaintiff has pleaded the truth of the slander. If it were not for this plea I should be inclined to hold that the words were mere abuse, in any case the whole matter appears to me a most trival one. The words, however, justified as they have been impute to the plaintiff dishonesty and fraud in the conduct of his trade and on the authority of Thomas v Jackson, 3 Bing, 104, the plaintiff is entitled to damages. In that case the defendant justified the charge made by him and the Court assessed the damages at 40s. The plaintiff has proved no actual damage. I allow $10 as damages and costs.

OPPOSITION TO FIAT.

This 2nd Day of October, 1905.

BERBICE DRAINAGE COMMISSIONERS
versus
PROPRIETORS OF E. ½ LOT No. 7.

The plaintiffs have proceeded against the defendants under Ordinance No. 19 of 1903 by parate execution for the amount alleged to be assessed on the defendants for the cost of the construction of certain work done by virtue of that Ordinance. The defendants object to a fiat being granted on certain specified grounds.

The work, the cost of which is sought to be recovered by these proceedings, is the throwing up of what are called the eastern wing dam at lot No. 25 or Industry and the western wing dam at lot No. 5, and wiring in the dams. It is alleged that this work is not for the efficient drainage of "the district" as defined by the law but for the benefit of the individual owners of lots Nos. 25 and 5. "The district" is defined by the Ordinance to mean the estates situate between the Grand Canal from and exclusive of Gibraltar up to the Berbice River and includes any other portions of land which the Governor-in-Council may, by order, declare shall be subject to the provisions of the Ordinance. It appears that Mr. Patoir, who owns the land from Gibraltar to Industry, was allowed on certain terms, as stated in the letter of the Chairman of the Commissioners of the 29th December, 1904, to contract out of the East Berbice Drainage Scheme. The Commissioners also by an agreement made with the proprietors of Kintyre, Seawell and Palmyra on the 25th March, 1905, agreed to allow the proprietors of those estates "to contract out of the East Berbice "Drainage Scheme and to exempt the said planta-"tions from taxation as and from the 1st day of "April, 1905." These proprieties being excluded by the Commissioners from the scheme it was necessary, in order to drain the remaining block of land, to throw up the east and west wing dams on lots Nos. 25 and 5 respectively. The grievance in the minds of the different proprietors of this block of land appears to be that the digging of the trenches to throw up the dams and the wiring of the dams bestows a distinct benefit on the proprietors of lots Nos. 25 and 5, who happen to be Commissioners. It appears to me that if Mr. Patoir's and Haly's blocks of land are lawfully excluded from the scheme the wing dams were necessary and it is unfortunate, as stated by the Chairman, that the two end estates should belong to the Commissioners.

I do not think that the Court has anything to do with the question whether the scheme which the Commissioners are carrying out is a good and beneficial one or not. The Court has only to see that the law has been complied with. If any person considers he has any grievance against the Commissioners his remedy is, as laid down by the Ordinance (section 16), to appeal to the Governor-in-Council.

It is clear that the law gives no power to the Governor-in-Council nor to the Commissioners to allow any estate in the district to be excluded from the scheme. The Chairman explained that the letter of the 29th December, 1904, to Mr. Patoir and the agreement of the 25th March, 1905, with the Halys did not exclude the estates owned by them from the scheme but the meaning was that these parties should carry out their own drainage and do certain work and as long as they kept their agreements they would not be assessed for any cost of works which the Commissioners might in future carry out: that the scheme for the drainage of "the district" was that Mr. Patoir and Mr. Haly should at their own cost do certain work or give up certain rights and the rest of the district should drain by the trench by the public road discharging through the Seawell koker. The Chairman says, and I have every reason to think that he is right, that by this scheme the cost of the works is lessened. It appears to me that the real effect of the agreements with Messrs. Patoir and Haly are to exclude them from the scheme, in fact, the western wing dam is only necessary to prevent the sea water from Mr. Haly's estate coming on to lot No. 5 getting into the trenches of the block. It appears as if the Commissioners have in effect amended the Ordinance; they are draining a portion of the district, the proprietors of Plns. Kintyre, Seawell and Palmyra can drain their plantations or not as they pleased so long as they do not drain into trenches under the control of the Commissioners and give up their right to or control of the dam between Pln. Palmyra and lot No. 5. The question whether the Commissioners have the right under the Ordinance to act in this manner appears to be one of considerable difficulty. I am not prepared as at present advised to hold that the Commissioners are not entitled to drain the district in the way they propose; nor am I prepared to say that the Ordinance prevents the Commissioners draining the district in more than one block, if, as stated, they find that the district as a whole cannot be efficiently drained at a reasonable cost.

It is objected that the provisions of section 7 were not carried out nor was the assessment for this particular work approved by the Central Board of Health as required by sub-section 4 of the Ordinance. Sub-section 4 of section 7 provides that no assessment shall be recoverable until it has been approved by the Central Board of Health who shall have power to alter it as they may think fit and such assessment when approved by the said Board shall forthwith be published in the Gazette. Two Gazettes have been put in evidence, one of the 14th of January, 1905, and the other of the 22nd March, 1905, containing advertisements of the approval of the Board to assessment on lot No. 7 amongst others. The approval is of the assessment of No. 7 as a whole and the detailed assessment as put in is on lot No. 7 as a whole. Under sub-section 3 every assessment shall be made on an estate as a whole, and "estate" is defined to mean any one of the "estates" as defined or any sub-division of any one of such estates. The assessment could have therefore been on a sub-division of one of the estates but the Commissioners assessed on the whole of lot No. 7 and not on any sub-division thereof. The Central Board of Health approved that assessment and published it in the Gazette. The Central Board of Health have not approved of any assessment of the E. ½ of lot No. 7. Possibly, for some reason or other, if the estates were assessed in halves the Board might have altered the assessment or might not approve of the two halves being assessed at the same amount, or might consider that some sub-division of one of the estates should be partially exempted from assessment. That this is the true reading of the law is borne out by section 12 of the Ordinance. By that section the Commissioners shall keep a book showing the names and areas of the estates liable to be assessed, that is to say, the estates mentioned in the schedule to the Ordinance and such other estates which the Governor-in-Council may by order declare shall be subject to the provisions of the Ordinance. If an estate has been sub-divided and a proprietor wishes that his portion of the estate shall be liable only for a portion of the assessment sub-section (2) provides that he may register his address thereby giving notice to the Commissioners of the sub-division of the estate and allowing them to assess and proceed against such sub-division under section 7 sub-section 3. The procedure adopted is a most summary one, in which execution is issued without any judgment and the law allowing such a procedure must be most strictly complied with before a "fiat executio" should be granted. The law, in my opinion, has not been complied with and I do not think I should grant the fiat asked for. It is said that the halves of the estates were proceeded against at the request of the respective proprietors. I do not think the request of the proprietors can override the distinct requirements of the law.

It appears doubtful from the Ordinance whether the proceedings contemplated should be in rem or in personam.

The East Berbice Sea Defence Ordinance, 1891, section 9, provides that the Receiver General may proceed by parate execution against such plantation, &c. The Ordinance of 1903, section 8, provides that the Commissioners may recover all assessments against the proprietor of such estate, and section 12 provides for the Commissioners keeping a book in which shall be entered from time to time the names of areas of the estates, and the names of the proprietors thereof, and any proprietor of any estate, which includes a sub-division of an estate, may require the address of such proprietor to be entered and that any legal process required to be served on any proprietor may be served through the Post Office at the registered address of such proprietor. Reading these sections together, and considering the different wording used in the Ordinance of 1891, there appears to me to be some doubt whether the legislature intended the proceedings under Ordinance of 1903 to be taken against the registered proprietors of the estates or against the estate itself. One would have thought if it was the intention of the legislature that the estate should be proceeded against in rem they would have used similar language to that used in the Ordinance of 1891 and other Ordinances giving the right to proceed in rem and there would be no necessity to provide for the service of legal process on the proprietors at their registered addresses. I think, however, although there is some doubt caused by the wording of the Ordinance, that the Ordinance gives the right to proceed in rem, the assessment is made on the estate (section 6 (4)) and it is in the nature of a tax on the land. It is certainly more convenient to proceed against the estate itself.

For the reasons, however, that I have already given, I must refuse the fiats asked for. The opposer is entitled to his costs.

THE following Regulations, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,

CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

REGULATIONS FOR OIL-FUEL AND MOTOR LAUNCHES PLYING ON THE RIVERS BARIMA, BARAMA AND WAINI, AND THEIR TRIBUTARIES.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the North Western District Oil Launches Regulations, 1905.

2. In these Regulations the words "petroleum" and "volatile petroleum" shall be deemed to have the meanings assigned to them in the Proclamation issued by the Governor on the thirty-first day of August, 1904, under the Authority of the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

3. Except as is hereinafter provided, these Regulations shall apply to every vessel and boat propelled by reciprocating engines the fuel for which is petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol, or by internal combustion engines in which petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol is used, which ply on the Rivers Barima, Barama and Waini in all their parts or tributaries within the limits of the Colony.

4. Petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol carried in any vessel or boat for any of the purposes enumerated in the last preceding Regulation must be contained either in the service tank or tanks of such vessel or boat, in unopened tins or drums, or in tins or drums which having been opened are securely stoppered.

Digitized by Google

5. The service tank or tanks of any vessel or boat so using petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol for fuel must be constructed to the satisfaction of the Officer.

6. Open tins or drums containing petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol, and tins or drums containing petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol, which having been opened are not securely stoppered shall not be carried on any vessel or boat using petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol for the purposes enumerated in Regulation 3 : Provided that petroleum for illuminating purposes may be carried either in unopened tins or drums, in tins or drums which have been opened and are securely stoppered, or in separate glass, or earthenware vessels each of which contains not more than one gallon and is securely stoppered.

7. Smoking is prohibited in the vicinity of the engines and storage tanks of every vessel or boat using volatile petroleum as fuel.

8. These Regulations shall not apply to any vessel or boat using as fuel petroleum which when tested in the manner laid down in the Proclamation referred to in Regulation 2, does not evolve an inflammable vapour at a temperature below 200° Fahrenheit.

9. Nothing in these Regulations shall be deemed to exempt any vessel or boat to which they apply from complying with the North Western District Boat Regulations, 1901.

Made by the Officer in charge of the navigation of the Rivers Barima, Barama and Waini and their tributaries, under Section 7 of the Rivers Navigation Ordinance, 1891, and approved by the Governor and Court of Policy on the day of , 1905.

3. Between each bed there shall be a clear space of three feet, and where the beds are placed in rows there shall be a clear space of six feet between the rows.

4. Each hospital shall be provided with the following articles:—

(1) A Clock which shall be kept in order.

(2) A small locked press for poisons in the Dispensary.

(3) An enclosed lamp in each Ward, to be kept lighted from sunset to daylight; and to be suspended out of the reach of the patients.

(4) Such tables as may be necessary for meals.

(5) Such chairs, desks, presses as the Surgeon General may from time to time require; there shall be at least two movable night chairs in each ward.

(6) A Microscope of a pattern to be approved by the Surgeon General.

(7) One tell-tale Clock.

The Government Medical Officer.

5. The Government Medical Officer shall at every visit in the case of In-patients enter on the Medical History Card the following particulars:—

(a) Date of visit.

(b) Any alteration of the treatment, diet, or extras. Should there be no alteration, the word "continue" must be entered.

(c) Notes on the progress of the case.

6. The Government Medical Officer shall at least once every month visit the yard an ranges and shall report on their condition to the Surgeon General.

The Manager.

7. The Manager, or an Overseer deputed by him, shall visit the hospital daily and shall record the date and hour of each visit with any remarks he may think proper to add in the Visitors' Book.

The Dispenser or Principal Sicknurse.

8. No person shall be employed as Dispenser or Sicknurse unless he is on the Register of Dispensers and Sicknurses.

9. The Dispenser or sicknurse shall:

(a.) Reside on the premises and not absent himself without the permission of the Manager of the estate.

(b.) Carry out all orders and instructions of the Government Medical Officer.

Digitized by Google

(c.) Be present during the visits of the Government Medical Officer.

(d.) Whenever a patient is admitted to the hospital provide him or her with hospital clothing; and, when the case permits, have him or her bathed. The patient's own clothes shall be taken away, scalded, and a ticket attached to them, with his or her name or number.

(e.) Take care of all money, jewels, or other property brought into hospital by a patient, and enter such property in a book to be kept for the purpose by him.

(f.) Report to the Government Medical Officer any deficiency in quality or quantity of the articles required to be provided for by these Regulations.

(g.) Enter every birth of a child occurring on the estate in the Register of the hospital.

(h.) See that the diets are issued at stated periods in proper quantity and quality.

(i.) Take care that patients are visited by their friends only between the hours of six and seven in the morning and four and six in the afternoon, except by special permission from the Government Medical Officer.

(j.) Have the wards and galleries swept every morning, and also every afternoon if necessary: and the floors scrubbed or mopped at least twice a week.

(k.) See that the bedding and bed linen are always kept clean.

(l.) Maintain quiet and order in the wards and at the same time be forbearing, gentle and kind to the patients under his care.

(m.) Permit smoking in the hospital only with the permission of the Government Medical Officer, and then at such places and times as he may direct.

(n.) Keep the latrines and latrine passages and bathing rooms clean and free from any offensive odour.

(o.) If he finds it necessary to treat any person as an In- or Out- patient, in the former case enter the treatment and other particulars on the Medical History Card and record the name in the Case book; in the latter case, enter such treatment and the reason in a book to be kept for that purpose. These entries shall be shown to the Government Medical Officer at his next visit and be initialed by him.

(p.) When it is necessary to take the temperature of any patient, record it on the Temperature Chart.

(q.) Visit all confinement cases daily for the first nine days after confinement and record their condition in the Casual Book.

Digitized by Google

(r.) At once report fully to the Government Medical Officer any case that he may admit which appears to be of a serious nature, or any fresh symptoms of a serious nature in a patient already under treatment.

(s.) See that all patients discharged by the Government Medical Officer, but who may be too weak to work, report themselves daily at the hospital; and, in the event of their neglecting to do so, visit their dwellings and ascertain the cause of their absence.

The Female Sicknurse or Nurse-Midwife.

10. The Female Sicknurse shall reside on the premises.

11. No person shall be employed as a Female Sicknurse unless she possesses a certificate of competency as a Nurse-Midwife to the satisfaction of the Surgeon General.

12. The Female Sicknurse shall, subject to the directions of the Government Medical Officer, be under the control of the Dispenser or Principal Sicknurse.

Patients.

13. Patients must submit to the treatment prescribed by the Government Medical Officer and must obey his directions and those of the Principal Sicknurse in carrying out such directions.

14. Patients shall behave in a quiet and orderly manner and shall when required keep to their beds and shall not disturb or annoy any of the other patients.

15. Patients shall wear the hospital clothing and shall keep it clean and shall not wilfully injure or destroy it.

16. Patients shall not wilfully soil the flooring or any other part of the hospital.

17. Patients shall not on any account leave the hospital without the permission of the Government Medical Officer.

18. Patients shall not receive spirits, food, or any other article other than those supplied at the hospital, without the consent of the Government Medical Officer.

19. On no account shall patients have matches in their possession or in the beds.

20. Patients or other persons shall not smoke on the hospital premises without the permission of the Government Medical Officer.

21. All persons without any exception admitted to hospital shall be bound by these Regulations.

22. Any infraction of these Regulations on the part of the patient shall be at once reported to the Manager and the Government Medical Officer by the Dispenser or Principal Sicknurse.

DIRECTIONS: DIET SCALE.

1. The Medical Officer shall use his discretion in prescribing the diets and extras, and his directions are to be strictly adhered to.

2. Care is to be taken that no change of diet is made until the previous one is struck off the Medical History Card.

3. During the absence of the Medical Officer, the Principal Sicknurse shall have power to order such diets and extras as he may think necessary; the Medical Officer's attention to be drawn to this at his next visit. Stimulants are not to be ordered by the Principal Sicknurse unless they are absolutely necessary; if it is done then a full report stating the reason for so doing is to be made on the Medical History Card and shown to the Medical Officer at his next visit.

4. When possible all diets and extras for the following day shall be ordered before 4 p.m. in order to give the Dispenser time to prepare the Summary.

5. Condensed milk may be used with the consent of the Medical Officer, and of such a strength as he may direct.

6. Should occasion arise where a patient's diet requires to be changed at once, an exchange of diet with another patient is, if possible, to be resorted to for that day, and the requisite diet ordered for the following day.

7. Extra nourishment for the use of serious cases during the night must be specially ordered on the Medical History Card of each patient requiring it with directions as to the way it is to be given.

8. Patients placed on "Milk" and "Spoon" Diets for medical reasons should be carefully and daily watched so that the addition of beef or chicken tea and bread (or biscuits) either separately or together may be made the moment their condition will admit. These diets are "sick diets", and are based on a minimum scale, and if care and attention be not daily and regularly bestowed with a view of making the above additions to them the moment the necessity arises, dissatisfaction will invariably result. So also when the further improved condition of a patient will allow of a change to any of the fuller diets it should be done without delay. The Nurse shall call the Medical Officer's attention to cases requiring extras or change of diet.

9. The following stimulants and extras may be ordered in such quantities as may be requisite, but to be decreased or discontinued the moment the medical necessity occurs, namely, Whisky, Brandy, Rum, Meat Extracts, Eggs and Ice.

Digitized by Google

10. The Medical Officer shall have power to order such other extras and stimulants as he may consider necessary for any patient, but must give his reasons in each case to the Surgeon General, if required.

11. The existing Dietary Table is hereby repealed.

Framed by the Surgeon General under Section 79 of the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, and approved by the Governor and Court of Policy on the 3rd day of October, 1905.

Packing.—A Parcel must be packed and enclosed in a reasonably strong case, wrapper, or cover, fastened in a manner calculated to preserve the contents from loss or damage in the post, to prevent any tampering therewith, and to protect other postal matter from being damaged thereby.

Prepayment of Charges.—All charges, whether postage, re-direction or express delivery, on a parcel (including public service parcels) must be prepaid at the time of posting by means of postage stamps affixed to the parcel, or to an official label supplied free at the Post Office. The sender or his messenger must affix the stamps, Officers of the Postal Department being prohibited from doing this. Should a label be used the sender should see that it is affixed before he leaves the office.

Mode of Posting.—In order that a packet may be sent by Parcel Post it must be presented at the counter of a Post Office for transmission as a Parcel and must bear the words "Parcel Post" written or printed conspicuously on the left hand top corner.

Prohibitions and Restrictions.—The following articles are not permitted to be sent through the Post:—Fish, meat, and all articles of a perishable nature; glass bottles or glass in any form, unless enclosed in boxes or tins, or otherwise securely packed to prevent fracture; anything of a greasy or oily nature; live birds, animals and insects: bladders or other vessels containing liquids or semi-liquids such as jelly, paint, and varnish (these latter can however be sent in tins or cans securely fastened); gunpowder, matches, or anything of an explosive or inflammable nature; razors, scissors, knives, forks, or other sharp instruments, unless they are packed and guarded in such a manner as to afford protection to the contents of the mail bag; and parcels which bear on the outside or contain within any writing, drawing, or thing of indecent or offensive nature.

To secure return if not delivered.—In order to secure the return of a parcel which cannot be delivered, the name and address of the sender should be printed or written outside in the left hand bottom corner, where it may not be mistaken for the address of the parcel. The parcel will be subject to a fresh charge for postage if returned or sent to the sender to another address.

F. W. COLLIER,
Postmaster General.

The Official Gazette
OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21ST, 1905.

I assent.
F. M. HODGSON,
Governor.

BRITISH GUIANA.

[COURT OF POLICY.]

ORDINANCE NO. 24 OF 1905.

An Ordinance to amend the Immigration Ordinance, 1891. A.D. 1905.

[21st October, 1905.]

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows:—

Short title and construction.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, Amendment Ordinance, 1905, and this Ordinance and the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, hereinafter called the Principal Ordinance, shall be read and construed together as one Ordinance.

Interpretation. No. 6 of 1905

2. In this Ordinance "The Official Receiver" means the Official Receiver appointed under The Official Receiver's Ordinance, 1905.

Amendment of Section 180 of No. 18 of 1891.

3. Section 180 of the Principal Ordinance is hereby repealed and the following shall be deemed to be inserted in the said Ordinance in lieu therefor:—

Removal of immigrants.

"180. If at any time it appears to the Governor-in-Council, on sufficient ground shown to his satisfaction that all or any of the Immigrants indentured on any estate should be removed therefrom, he may, at his discretion, cancel their indentures and grant them certificates of exemption from labour, or cancel their indentures and re-indenture them, with or without the payment of commutation money, to some other employer, for the remainder of their respective terms of service, such other employer, if required, paying therefor in cash or by promissory notes as the Governor-in-Council may direct.

Such transfer shall not cancel the obligation of the original employer to pay the promissory notes given in respect of such immigrants, but he shall be entitled to the commutation money if paid as provided in section 176 of the Principal Ordinance and in section 3 of the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, Amendment Ordinance, 1895.

No. 11 of 1895.

Repeal.

4.—(1.) The following words in section 86 of the Principal Ordinance are hereby repealed :—

"Provided, also, that no employer shall be liable to the Re-"ceiver General in respect of any immigrant admitted into a Public "Hospital who has deserted from his plantation and for whose "apprehension he has taken out a warrant as hereinafter provided."

(2.) Section 175 of the Principal Ordinance is hereby repealed.

Administration of Immigrants' Small Estates.

Administration of small estate.

5. The Official Receiver shall, in the manner hereinafter provided, administer the estate of every immigrant who

(a.) dies intestate, or

(b.) dies testate, but without appointing an executor, or whose executor, if appointed, refuses, neglects, or is unable to act, where in his opinion such estate does not exceed in value two hundred and forty dollars.

Realisation of small estate.

6. The Official Receiver, without any previous legal formality shall enter into and take possession of such immigrants' estate and realise the same.

Report by employer of death of immigrant.

7. The employer on whose plantation or premises or in whose service any immigrant labourer not under indenture dies shall without delay, notify in writing the decease of such immigrant labourer to the Official Receiver, and, in default of so doing, shall on being convicted thereof, be liable to a penalty of twenty-four dollars.

Making of inventory.

8. The employer on whose plantation or premises or in whose service any immigrant labourer not under indenture dies shall, with the notification of his decease, and under the like penalty in case of default, transmit to the Official Receiver a short inventory in writing, duly signed by such employer, of all the goods, chattels, personal effects, wages, and other assets which, to the knowledge of the employer, belonged or were due to such deceased immigrant

Digitized by Google

Making of inquiry as to property.

9. The Official Receiver shall make inquiry whether the deceased immigrant possessed other effects or property of any kind, and in case of any such being discovered by him, he shall prepare a short inventory thereof.

Sale of moveable property.

10. The Official Receiver shall cause the goods, chattels and effects belonging to an immigrant's estate to be sold in a summary way, and all such sales may be made at any place which may be deemed suitable and convenient, and either with or without previous advertisement, except in the case of articles of jewellery or of gold or silver apparently exceeding in value fifty dollars, which shall be sold after previous advertisement.

Sale of immoveable property.

11. Immoveable property belonging to such estate shall be sold in the manner prescribed in section 10.

Disposal of balance.

12. All balances belonging to the estates of immigrants shall be paid over forthwith by the Official Receiver to the Receiver General, and the Receiver General shall give notice thereof to the Immigration Agent General, in order that the heirs of such immigrants may, if possible, be ascertained without delay.

Case of indentured immigrant. See Ordinance No. 18 of 1891.

13. Where an immigrant under indenture dies, the provisions in that behalf of the Principal Ordinance or of any other Ordinances for the time being in force relating to Asiatic immigrants shall apply.

Commission payable for administration of estate.

14.—(1.) From and out of all moneys realised by the Official Receiver for or on account of any estate administered by him under this Ordinance, he shall deduct a commission at the rate of eight dollars on every one hundred dollars received or realised, and no commission shall be payable on any sums disbursed or paid out.

(2.) The amount of all commissions received by the Official Receiver under this section shall be paid to the Receiver General for the use of the Colony.

Application of preceding sections limited to certain immigrants only.

15.—(1.) The provisions of the last ten preceding sections (sections 5 to 14 inclusive) shall apply only to the estates of immigrants who die before they have become entitled to a return passage to India or before they have surrendered their right to such return passage, under any Ordinance for the time being in force relating to the return passages of immigrants to India and the surrender of the right to such passages.

(2.) A certificate purporting to be signed by the Immigration Agent General that any immigrant is entitled to a return passage as aforesaid or has surrendered his right to such return passage shall be prima facie evidence of such facts, and shall be received in evidence as such in all Courts without proof of the signature of the Immigration Agent General.

Interpretation of term. No. 1 of 1905.

2. In this Ordinance "distiller" means a person to whom a licence has been granted under the Spirits Ordinance, 1905, to have, keep or make use of any distillery apparatus for the purpose of distilling spirits, but shall not include a person to whom a licence has been granted under section 15 of the said Ordinance.

Amount of distillery tax.

3. Every distiller shall pay annually to the Receiver General on or before the thirty-first day of March in every year, the sum of one-half of a cent for every proof gallon of spirits manufactured by him during the year ending on the last day of February last preceding.

Comptroller to inform Receiver General of quantity of spirits manufactured by distiller.

4. The Comptroller of Customs shall as soon as possible after the last day of February in every year furnish to the Receiver General a statement in writing under his hand showing the quantity of proof spirits manufactured by every distiller during the year ending on such last day of February.

Demand and recovery of tax.

5. The Receiver General shall before the thirty-first day of March in every year demand from every distiller the amount of the Tax due by him under section 3 of this Ordinance, and if the said amount is not paid on or before the said thirty-first day of March it may be recovered by the Receiver General by parate execution.

Temporary provision for year 1905-6

6. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Ordinance, the tax payable by a distiller for the year ending on the last day of February in the year 1906 shall be at the rate of one-third of a cent for every proof gallon of spirits manufactured by him during such year.

(d.) has passed the Junior or Senior Cambridge Examinations in Honours and has gained a distinction in one of the following: French, Latin, Greek, Mathematics or Chemistry;

(e.) produces a certificate attested by his principal instructor or instructors during that period that his moral character and general conduct have been satisfactory, in the following form:—

"I consider A.B. to be qualified as regards moral character and general conduct to enter the of (Signed) C.D."

(f.) produces a Medical certificate to the effect that he is medically and constitutionally fitted to undergo the course of studies incident to a University career.

4. The examination will be conducted by the Cambridge Syndicate who will appoint examiners and prepare and send out the printed papers. The subjects set will be those for an open Scholarship at Oxford or Cambridge, as for example:—

Classics.—Translation from the best Greek and Latin Authors; Composition in Greek and Latin; Critical Paper

Mathematics.—Arithmetic, Geometry, Algebra, Trigonometry, Elementary Statics and Dynamics, Conic Sections treated both geometrically and analytically, and the elements of the Differential Calculus.

Natural Sciences.—Physics, Chemistry, Zoology, Botany, Physiology and Geology. Of these subjects each candidate must offer three. In the award, excellence in one subject or in two subjects will be taken especially into account.

There will also be a paper of General Questions in Natural Sciences which must be taken by all candidates who offer Natural Sciences.

English Essay.—A paper containing alternative subjects for an English Essay will be set to all candidates.

5. The examiners after perusal of the answers returned will report in order of merit such of the candidates as in their judgment would have been eligible at their College for open Scholarships or Exhibitions, and the candidate if any that stands highest amongst those reported to be qualified will be elected the British Guiana Scholar for the year.

6. The British Guiana Scholar will be required as a condition of holding his Scholarship, to enter at the University College or Institution to which he is to be attached as soon as possible after his election, and to keep his terms continuously until his Scholarship expires, unless he be dispensed from doing so by the Governor-in-Council.

7. The holder of a Scholarship shall transmit quarterly to the Governor, through the Crown Agents for the Colonies, a certificate from the proper authority of the Institution at which he is pursuing his studies that he is thoroughly well conducted and has made good progress in his studies.

8. The Scholarship will be forfeited :—

a. By expulsion from the University or the College.

b. By failure to pass any Public University examination.

c. By failure to obtain honours in Moderations at Oxford, unless the Governor-in-Council be satisfied by the College authorities that the Scholar has been prevented by reasons in their judgment sufficient, from obtaining them; or by failure to be placed in the second Class at least at any annual College Examination at Cambridge, unless the Governor-in-Council be satisfied by the College authorities, &c.

d. By entering on any course of study or accepting any appointment, which, in the opinion of the authorities of the College, is incompatible with the studies prescribed by the University for Candidates for honours.

e. If the holder of the Scholarship fails to fulfil any of the conditions imposed upon him by the preceding Regulations without furnishing satisfactory evidence that the cause of such failure was beyond his control.

9. The Governor-in-Council may in lieu of declaring the Schoarship forfeited withdraw the whole or a part of the Scholarship for a time only, if the circumstances of the case are such as may, in the opinion of the Governor-in-Council, be sufficiently met by the adoption of such a course.

10. The Regulations made by the Governor and Court of Policy of the 26th day of August, 1901, are hereby repealed, without prejudice to anything done or any right acquired thereunder.

Made by the Governor and Court of Policy on the day of , under authority of a Resolution of the Combined Court passed on the 12th day of March, 1890.

Board of Agriculture Notice.

Georgetown, Demerara,
19th October, 1905.

THE following Hints on planting Fruit and other trees are hereby published for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary.

HINTS ON PLANTING FRUIT AND OTHER TREES.

These few notes are published to satisfy the frequent requests that are addressed to me by purchasers of young fruit and other trees, as to the best method of planting the same.

Selection of Places for Planting.—See that the land is properly drained and that the drains are clean and dug to a sufficient depth. In selecting places to plant the trees, sufficient room must be allowed so that when the trees are fully grown they will not be interfered with by any other trees. Two rods apart is a convenient distance for most trees and allows crops of ground provisions to be grown between the trees.

Preparing Holes.—The holes should be 3 feet across and at least two feet deep. Take out the earth and mix it with about half the quantity of well-rotted manure, or leaf-mould and then put it back into the hole and pile it up so that it forms a mound above the hole. This heap should be left for at least a fortnight before putting in the plant, and if it sinks down much in the meanwhile, some more soil taken from somewhere else should be mixed with it.

Planting.—In putting in the plant, great care must be taken not to disturb or break the ball of earth round the roots. If the plant is in a basket, remove it by cutting down the basket on two opposite sides; if it is in a flower pot, place the hand over the top of the soil so that the stem of the plant comes between the third and fourth fingers, turn the pot upside down and then gently tap it against a table or a tree so as to loosen the ball of earth which will usually come out whole into the hand. To remove a plant from a bamboo pot, split down the pot carefully with a cutlass or a strong knife.

Make a hole in the prepared mound large enough to hold the ball of earth and put in the plant. Fill up the space round with loose soil and then press the earth well down around the plant.

N.B.—Be careful not to bury the stem of the plant too deeply in the earth.

Afterwards put a strong stake into the ground close to the plant and tie the plant firmly but not too tightly to it. Except in wet weather, the plant will be required to be watered daily for a few weeks until well established. Keep the land round the tree free from weeds and do not allow bird-vine or any other parasitic plant to grow on the tree; the bark should be cleaned of mosses and lichens by brushing with a hard brush.

The application of well-rotted manure, leaf-mould, or compost and wood-ashes spread round the roots of the tree at least once a year will make it grow better and improve the yield of fruit.

Pruning.—The yield of a tree is often much increased by careful pruning. Pruning varies for each kind of tree and can only be learnt by experience and by observing on which branches the fruit is usually borne. Branches which are never likely to bear fruit may be removed, such as the "water-shoots" (especially noticeable in orange trees), which spring from the main stem or branches and grow straight upwards. Pruning should also aim at removing the branches which grow towards the middle of a tree and interfere with the free passage of light and air. When the branches grow too close together and overlap each other some of them may also with advantage be removed.

In pruning, make the cuts with a sharp knife, or with a saw in the case of large branches, as close to the main stem or branches as possible. If a saw is used, cut the surface smooth afterwards with a sharp knife. All the cut surfaces should afterwards be tarred or covered with clay.

NOTICE is hereby given that an order of the Supreme Court was made on the 29th day of September, 1905, that the Estate of Pang Kie, deceased, late of Kitty Village, in the county of Demerary, be administered in Insolvency.

Dated 3rd October, 1905.

W. A. PARKER,
Official Receiver.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

THIS 14TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1905.

MARIA LUSIE FERREIRA, Widow,
versus
MANOEL C. RODRIGUES.

In accordance with the Order of the Court, accounts have been filed by Manoel C. Rodrigues. To these accounts objections were made and answers filed.

The objections are to all the items, on the ground that the plaintiff never authorised the defendant to incur the expenditure, which, if made, was made on defendant's own account and not on the joint account, and that she never was consulted as to any of them.

There is, of course, a conflict of evidence as to whether the authority to incur the expense was given or not, but from the statement of the plaintiff herself that she never disputed the accounts of repairs rendered to her by those who collected the rents, coupled with her requesting the defendant to pay her her share, and the fact that she lived opposite and saw all that was going on. I am of opinion that she authorised the repairs which were undoubtedly for the benefit of the property. The defendant has never paid plaintiff her share. Three items were specially referred to in the argument, items 11, 17 and 19.

As to item 11, a voucher produced is an account for $23 85 on which $10 20 were paid in cash. There is an endorsement to the effect that the balance was paid by contra account. This is not satisfactory and I disallow $14 65, the amount charged is $24 85.

Item 17 for $59 45; I see no reason to doubt and I allow it.

Item 19 for $21 52 is vouched for and I allow.

There is an amount owing to one Joshua Cust of $7 32 which I disallow.

The account, as amended, will show a balance of $333 60 divisable between plaintiff and defendant. I give judgment for plaintiff for $166 80 with costs.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

SEEBARUTH,
BOODHOO.

The plaintiff claims to be entitled to the possession of a piece of land containing 25 acres, the value of which is $250, being part of a tract of land situate on the right bank of the Barima River as described in licence of occupancy No. 2,707 dated 6th June, 1901, which said piece of land was let by the plaintiff to the defendant for the term of two years from the 11th day of September, 1902.

The defence is shortly a denial of the right to possession and the letting with an allegation that it was agreed the plaintiff would permit the defendant to occupy the land in question for the purpose of cultivating it during the term of the grant of occupancy.

From the evidence it is clear that the plaintiff became indebted to the defendant in the sum of $42 30 about the time when the grant of occupancy was obtained. This sum was not paid and the defendant was given 25 acres or half of the land granted to cultivate. I do not believe there was any agreement as to a term of years such as is alleged in the statement of claim. A dispute arose between the parties in 1902, but what about is not clear. They went to the Government officer of the district who reported a non-compliance with the conditions of the grant as to sub-letting. This was communicated to the plaintiff who applied for the requisite permission which was granted. The permission was to sub-let to Boodhoo 25 acres of the grant and was to remain in force to the 15th April, 1920, the end of the term.

The defendant was called on to pay the half of the acreage money and did so. The 25 acres have been planted up with permanent cultivation such as cocoanuts, cocoa and the like as well as with ground provisions and has been drained. It is therefore of some value now and it cannot be believed that any one would have done such work for a short tenure, such as is alleged, even if the premium as it may be called, of $42 30 had not been paid.

I give judgment for the defendant with costs.

Packing.—A Parcel must be packed and enclosed in a reasonably strong case, wrapper, or cover, fastened in a manner calculated to preserve the contents from loss or damage in the post, to prevent any tampering therewith, and to protect other postal matter from being damaged thereby.

Prepayment of Charges.—All charges, whether postage, re-direction or express delivery, on a parcel (including public service parcels) must be prepaid at the time of posting by means of postage stamps affixed to the parcel, or to an official label supplied free at the Post Office. The sender or his messenger must affix the stamps, Officers of the Postal Department being prohibited from doing this. Should a label be used the sender should see that it is affixed before he leaves the office.

Mode of Posting.—In order that a packet may be sent by Parcel Post it must be presented at the counter of a Post Office for transmission as a Parcel and must bear the words "Parcel Post" written or printed conspicuously on the left hand top corner.

Prohibitions and Restrictions.—The following articles are not permitted to be sent through the Post:—Fish, meat, and all articles of a perishable nature; glass bottles or glass in any form, unless enclosed in boxes or tins, or otherwise securely packed to prevent fracture; anything of a greasy or oily nature; live birds, animals and insects: bladders

THE following Hints on Planting Cocao are hereby published for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary.

HINTS ON PLANTING CACAO.

Preparation of land.—Plant only on well drained land. The beds should be high in the middle, advantageously not more than two rods in width and the drains between should be 2 to 3 feet deep. The beds should be well forked to begin with.

Shelter.—As cacao trees will not thrive when exposed to strong winds, the first thing necessary, unless the place is already protected from the wind, will be to provide a shelter belt. For this purpose, quick-growing trees such as Oronoque, Mango, Casuarina, or Eucalyptus may be used. A single row of the two first mentioned, planted at a distance of a rod apart will usually be sufficient, but of the two last at least two rows alternating with the trees one rod apart will be required. If the area is much exposed the shelter belt may with advantage be double or three times as broad.

Selection of Seed.—Three principal kinds of Cacao are cultivated but there are many crosses between these:—

(a). Calabacillo, with small, smooth and rounded pods and flat beans having a bitter taste, this is a hardy variety but yields a very inferior cocoa and so should be avoided.

(b). Forastero, with red or yellow, oblong, thick-skinned pods and somewhat rounded beans swollen on one side, which yield a good variety of cocoa.

(c). Criollo, with thin-skinned pods which are narrowed at the base into a distinct neck and the beans are rounded and slightly pointed at one end. This variety yields the best cocoa but the trees are not so hardy as the Forastero and require good soil.

Either Forastero or Criollo may be selected, but the two kinds should not be planted together in the same field as the pods are liable to get mixed in picking and the beans of the former take longer to ferment than those of the latter.

The seeds for sowing should be taken only from the best and largest pods selected from the healthiest and most prolific trees and they should be sown as soon as possible after they are removed from the pods.

Sowing.—Sow the seeds in well-drained and raised beds of good loose soil mixed with leaf mould or cocoanut fibre at distances of about 6 inches apart and one inch below the surface of the soil. The beds should be protected from the sun and regularly watered in dry weather. When the young plants are between 10 and 12 inches high they will be ready to plant out.

Preparing Holes.—At distances of 15 feet apart, holes are to be dug two feet deep and about two feet across. The soil is to be taken out, mixed with plenty of well-rotted manure, leaf-mould or compost and wood-ashes and then put back and piled up so as to form a mound above the hole. It is advisable to leave the holes for a fortnight to settle before planting out.

Planting Out.—This should be done in rainy weather and when the sun is not shining. The young plants must be very carefully removed from the seed-beds with a ball of earth around their roots. (A good watering before the plants are removed will help the earth to stick together.) A hole is made in the top of the mound deep enough to contain the tap-root of the young plant without bending it, then the earth is carefully filled in round the roots of the plant and pressed well down. A lump of soil put against each plant on the leeward side will help materially to keep the young plant upright against the wind.

If any roots happen to be broken or injured, the broken part should be cut off cleanly with a sharp knife.

Care must be taken not to bury the stem of the young plant any deeper than it was in the seed bed; also no hollow must be left round it where water can remain.

If planting is done when the weather is dry, the young plants will require to be watered daily for the first two or three weeks.

Planting at Stake.—In this method, the seeds are planted directly in the places where the trees are to grow. Holes with raised mounds are prepared as before and on each mound two or three seeds are placed about 6 inches apart and covered by an inch of soil. When the young plants come up all but the strongest one are removed.

Shade.—Cacao appears to require some protection from the direct sun, at least when the trees are young. After planting, the young trees are best protected for the first two years by planting a sucker of the fig or the apple-banana about a yard away from them, but until this puts out enough leaves, the young plants may be shielded from too much sun by palm or plantain leaves supported on bamboos.

Pigeon peas, tannias, eddoes, cassava or corn may also be planted between the young plants to give them temporary shade, but should not be too close to them.

For permanent shade, the Oronoque or "sand-koker" tree is about the best. These trees should be planted at distances of 60 feet from each other and will easily grow from branches stuck in the ground.

Pruning and Care of the Trees.—The land for some distance around each tree should be kept clear of weeds by weeding at frequent intervals.

Proper pruning is essential to bring and keep the trees in a good shape for bearing. There should be a single stem and 3 or 4 (never more than 5) primary branches given off from the top of it and spreading outwards. These will give off other branches and these again still smaller branches. The branches must be pruned so that they do not grow too thickly so as to shut out light and air, and all the shoots which arise from the trunk or from the branches and go straight upwards must be pruned away. Pruning should be done often and not too many branches should be taken off at one time, and one should endeavour to trim the tree evenly on all sides.

In pruning, it is important to cut the branches with a clean cut as close to the stem or main branches as possible, with a sharp pruning knife or a proper cacao-pruner. Big branches must be cut with a saw, the wounds made smooth with a sharp knife and the scars afterwards covered with tar or clay. A cutlass must never be used for pruning, unless it is in first-class order and used by an experienced hand.

Further Hints.—Keep the beds rounded and do not allow them to get low in the middle and keep the drains between them clean and dug out to a sufficient depth.

Keep the trees free from bird-vine and other parasites and clean off mosses and lichens from the trees periodically by brushing them with a stiff brush, such as a scrubbing brush.

In picking the pods, do not cut too close to the tree so as to injure the flowers of the next crop.

Always burn or bury the empty pods after the beans have been removed; if left in the plantation, they form places where fungus diseases may breed.

Watch for the first traces of any disease, especially the harmful "witch-broom" disease (known by the twigs becoming thickened and growing in clusters.) Should any disease appear, apply at once either to the Board of Agriculture or the Botanic Gardens for advice in getting rid of it.

A. W. BARTLETT,
Government Botanist.

IMMIGRATION AGENT GENERAL and Anor, versus
JUGNEE.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate giving judgment for the respondent, defendant in the Court below, in an interpleader in which the appellants claimed a cottage that had been levied on at the instance of the respondent by virtue of a judgment obtained by him against one Premraj.

The claim by the appellants is in form a joint one, but they are two distinct claims and inconsistent with one another, and I shall deal with the claims separately. I will take first the claim of the Immigration Agent General. He, as guardian of the minor children of Kanchani, claims the cottage as having been pledged to him by Premraj. These children, I understand, are not the children of Premraj.

The evidence in the Court below, as it appears in the copy of the proceedings, is not very clear, but it appears that the house in question belonged to Premraj. Kanchani was living in the house with Premraj as his concubine in 1899, and her children lived in the house with her. The Immigration Agent General lent $200 of the minors' money to Premraj and obtained from him a promissory note, dated 20th June, 1899, in which Premraj states, "I "also pledge as security for the said amount, my "building occupied by me as a shop, situate at "Friendship Village, E.C.D., the said building being "erected on the land of one Mrs. Williams, the said "land being leased by me." Premraj and Kanchani appear to have lived in the house until four months before the hearing of the interpleader.

The law, as to the effect of a pledge, is clear. A mere pledge of movables not by public instrument, does not, without any actual or constructive delivery, create a lien but merely gives a creditor a right of action against the debtor to obtain possession. Stratford's Trustees v. London & S. African Bank 3 E. D. 439. A mere written agreement of pledge gives no security as against other creditors, there must be delivery of the property and retention of possession. Vander Ventor v. Moss 4 E. D. 222. It was decided in Exors. Forshaw v. Watt 2 B. G. Rep. N. S. 116, that the instrument pledging movables in order to be binding on other creditors, must, in this colony, be passed before a Judge. Was there then an actual or constructive delivery of the cottage to the Immigration Agent General? It is contended on his behalf, that he put Kanchani and her children in the house and thus obtained possession through his agent, Kanchani. There is no evidence whatever of this. Kanchani was living in the house with Premraj when it was pledged and no change whatever was made. There was nothing done by which persons could know that Premraj had delivered the cottage to Kanchani or any one else, such, for instance, as making a transfer in the village books. The Roman Dutch law recognises, in certain cases, delivery of a fictitious kind. It is not necessary in every case that there should be actual delivery for the purpose of passing property. If the goods are already in possession of a person and by a subsequent contract of pledge, the property is intended to be passed to such person, there need not be an actual fresh delivery. Assignees of O'Callaghan v. Cavanagh 2 Juta 122. The cottage, in this case, was not in the possession of the pledgee, it was in the possession of Premraj at the date of the pledging. The property and the goods may pass even, though they remain in the possession of the pledgee, provided they do so by virtue of a contract between the parties, which makes the custody of the pledger the custody of the pledgee. Myerstein v. Barber L. R. 2 C. P. 38. In this case, there is not the slightest evidence of any such contract. The law is clearly laid down in Voet ad Pand. 20. 1. 12, he says: The delivery is rendered invalid if the chattel be left in the hands of the debtor, commodato aut precario, as that is a fraud on the custom, requiring delivery, and tends to cheat the other creditors. "An agreement of that "character cannot by our law be sanctioned any "longer because of the rule that movables cannot "be followed and the creditor ought therefore "himself to secure possession of the movable thing, "in order to be able to assert his right of preference "in it for an agreement of that kind could now be "considered to have been interposed only in fraud, "of the custom requiring delivery of movables for a "pledge and for the purpose of circumventing other "creditors."

The case of Lean's Trustees v. Curuti, Buch. 1869, p. 313, seems to me very similar to the present one. In that case, the debtor gave a document in which he stated he was indebted to Lean "for the due pay- "ment of which I hereby cede transfer, sell and "make over to the said Lean the articles enumerated "in the following inventory, the said Lean allowing "me the use of the said articles." It was held, there had never been a legal and complete delivery of the goods. On the evidence, I have no doubt that there never was an actual or constructive delivery of the cottage to the Immigration Agent General and his claim is not valid as against other creditors.

The claim of Kanchani is, that she bought the cottage from one Ramgoolam. It appears that the cottage was transferred in the village books to Ramgoolam. If Kanchani's claim is correct, then it is clear that the Immigration Agent General could not have had possession of the cottage. The evidence, as it appears in the copy of the proceedings, is extremely difficult to follow. It appears that Kanchani states she owned a house in the village and that she owed some money to Ramgoolam's son and that she came to an arrangement with Ramgoolam by which she gave him her house and Ramgoolam gave her the cottage now in dispute. A document was drawn on 21st November, 1904, in the form of a receipt by Ramgoolam for $400 paid by Kanchani and her children in full payment of the cottage. Premraj swears he sold the cottage to Ramgoolam, there can be no doubt that he transferred it to Ramgoolam in the village books, and he also swears that Kanchani transferred her house to Ramgoolam. On the 15th February, Kanchani obtained a lease of the land on which the cottage stands, from Mrs. Williams. The Magistrate, in his reasons for decision, states that he is satisfied that Premraj and Kanchani have put their hands together to indulge in a little more rascality after Premraj's success in securing a loan of $200. He proceeds to state "the "evidence of the alleged sale by Premraj to "Ramgoolam of the house in question for $300, and "then the resale of the said house by Ramgoolam to "Kanchani, on 26th November, 1904, carries with it "that ingenuity which is so common among this "class of litigants and I have no doubt, in my mind, "that Premraj never made a sale of the house to "Ramgoolam nor do I believe that the receipt from "Ramgoolam to Kanchani is genuine, especially "when I see it witnessed by S. Doobay, that well "known East Indian Village lawyer and tout." It is contended, on the appellants' behalf, that the Magistrate founded his decision on extraneous evidence, that is to say, his personal knowledge of S. Doobay. This is not quite correct. The Magistrate states he does not believe that Premraj ever made a sale to Kanchani and that the receipt is not genuine, especially as it is witnessed by Doobay. Whatever decision I may have come to myself, I cannot say that the Magistrate, who has seen the demeanour of the witnesses in the box, is bound to believe them when they say there was a bona fide sale. The reason for appeal is really that the decision is against the weight of the evidence. I have already held in Santos & Co. v. Nunes, 22nd March, 1902, that the Ordinance does not allow an appeal on that ground.

For these reasons I dismiss this appeal with costs.

BOODHOO & ANOR.,

BELL.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate convicting the appellants of unlawfully and wilfully damaging the defence against the sea at Plantation Canefield by cutting trees and bush on the foreshore of the said plantation and removing an old iron koker therefrom.

It appears from the evidence in the Court below that there was an iron koker about 20 rods outside the Canefield sea dam, which had evidently settled in the mud and some bush was growing over it, and a cork tree growing against it. The appellants dug out this koker, clearing off the bush on it and carried it to Retrieve. This bush, tree and koker, it is said, would form a substantial part of the sea defence. The koker was a disused one and was near an old side line trench between Canefield and Retrieve. R. Williams, the proprietor of Retrieve, swears the koker belongs to him, no claim is made to it by the owners of Canefield who gave evidence. The appellants were employed by R. Williams to remove the koker, and it was necessary to cut the bush and tree in order to remove it. The question for decision is whether the appellants can be said to have wilfully damaged the sea defence so as to be criminally liable.

I do not think the appellants can be held to have wilfully damaged the sea defences; they were employed by someone to remove a koker which they might reasonably suppose their employer had a right to do and they cannot be held criminally liable. The case of White v Feast, L. R. 7, Q.B. 353, was referred to on behalf of the respondent. That case, however, appears to me most strongly to support the decision I have arrived at. That case decided that a special proviso in the statute overrode the usual proviso that a bona fide claim of right ousted the jurisdiction of the Justices, and that the employee could be in no better position than the employer and the employer did not act there under a reasonable supposition that he had the right to do the act complained of.

Blackburn J. stated "I am far from saying that "there may not be many cases where orders of a "superior might well afford fair and reasonable "ground, as where a farmer in occupation of a farm "orders one of his labourers to grub up an adjoining "fence, the labourer might very fairly and reasonably "suppose the farmer had a right to do this though in "fact he had none. But where a man says: Go and "dig a ditch in my neighbour's garden, the labourer "cannot fairly say he believed he had the right with-"out enquiring." In this case Williams owned the koker, at least no one else claimed it, which was lying adjoining his side line trench, the labourers might very fairly and reasonably suppose that Williams had a right to remove the koker. I do not think these labourers could fairly be presumed to have known that this koker formed a substantial part of the sea defence.

The appeal must therefore be allowed and the Magistrate's decision reversed with costs.

FRASER,

HOTCHKIS.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate convicting the appellants of being found in licensed premises within a period during which business could not therein be lawfully transacted contrary to sub-section 1, section 36, Ordinance 2 of 1861.

Objection was taken to the first reason of appeal and I decided it was not arguable as it does not state particulars as required by Section 10 of Ordinance 13 of 1893. it states that illegal evidence was admitted without particularising what that illegal evidence was.

The second reason to my mind is also bad on the same ground, see Santos & Co., v Nunes, 22nd March, 1902, but as no objection was taken counsel for the appellants advanced certain arguments under that reason.

The evidence shows that the appellants were found between the hours of 8 and 9 in the morning in the provision shop of F. W. Hutson, and one of them Liverpool had a loaf of bread and an onion in a plate. There is a board over the tavern with "F. W. "Hutson, Licensed tavern" on it but no board on the provision shop. It appears both the tavern and provision shop are on the same premises and there is a inner door leading from tavern to the provision shop. Mr. Hutson, who was called for the defence admits that he has a shop licence. It further appears that the appellants and others were labourers of Mr. Hutson and were entitled to rations. On this day which was a Sunday they were getting their rations, beef pork, &c., through the window and bread, biscuits, &c., in the shop. Isaac says bread is sold in the shop, if you don't want bread you can take biscuits. There is no evidence that any biscuit was sold or given out as rations on that Sunday.

The Magistrate in his reasons for decision, states that there is evidence to show that the defendants were found on licensed premises within a period during which business could not therein be lawfully transacted.

It is contended that, under section 202 of Ordinance 17 of 1893 no business can lawfully be transacted in a licensed shop on any Sunday. Section 203, however, provides that nothing in the last preceding section shall extend to the sale or delivery of any bread, &c. The learned counsel for the respondent urged that section 203 is quite distinct from section 202 and that a person who opened his shop for the sale and delivery of bread, fresh meat, &c., on a Sunday before nine o'clock in the morning would be liable to a penalty under section 202 if his shop had goods in it other than those allowed by section 203 to be sold and delivered because such other goods would be exposed for sale. I cannot agree with this argument. The other goods are not exposed for sale because the shop is opened for the sale and delivery of bread, fresh meat, fresh fish, &c., &c., such other goods may be exposed in the shop but there must be some evidence to show they were exposed for sale or barter. Business so far as the sale of bread, &c., &c. could lawfully have been transacted in Mr. Hutson's licensed shop at the period when the appellants' were found therein, that is to say, on a Sunday before 9 a.m. Ordinance 20 of 1902 was referred to on behalf of the respondent to show that no business could be lawfully transacted in licensed premises between the hours of 11 p.m. on Saturday and 5 of the following Monday morning. That Ordinance, it is clear by section 2, refers only to places licensed to sell spirits, malt, liquor or wine. The charge is brought under Ordinance 2 of 1861, section 3 of which provides that the Ordinance shall not apply to licenses for the sale of wine, malt liquor or spirituous liquor.

I consider that the Magistrate's decision is wrong and it must be reversed with costs.

THIS 19TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1905.

JAIPUL.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant trespassed on his land, cultivated it and dug a trench on it and claims $1,000 as damages and an injunction.

It appears that the parties are adjoining grant holders. The plaintiff started his side line from the paal placed by Mr. Bayley, Crown Surveyor, but did not run it straight but ran it considerably within his land. The plaintiff's step-son says this was done on purpose, some of their land was left outside their dam "so as not to encroach on other people's land." The defendant subsequently made his side line and trench also starting from Mr. Bayley's paal, but his side line followed more or less the direction of the plaintiff's side line. Accord ng to Mr. Cunningham Mr. Bayley's direction paal encroached on plaintiff's land ·18 of a rod. It is perfectly clear that the plaintiff never used or intended to make use of any land outside his side line dam. I do not believe the plaintiff's step-son when he says he cleared the land outside his side line. In Mr. de Weever's letter of the 4th February, 1905, it is stated that the land was used for piling wood; the wood piled must have been cut on the land, they would not bring wood on the land to pile it there. The whole land said to belong to the plaintiff that has been encroached on, if Mr. Cunningham's measurements are taken as correct, is 65 square rods, if Mr. Bayley's paal is correctly placed 32½ square rods. The plaintiff claims $1,000 damages. To buy these few square rods of land in bush outright would not cost, I suppose, more than $5 or so. The plaintiff has suffered no damage whatever, in fact if he wishes to use this land he has had it cleared for him. I think that the evidence shows that the encroachment was made by Abdool Karim. He appears to have been in possession and had the use of the land, but the grant is in the defendant's name and it appears that the defendant said that Abdool Karim represented him. I think that Abdool Karim had the beneficial use of the land although the license was granted in defendant's name. The defendant has left the colony and returned to India, and I do not consider it is necessary that an injunction should be granted against him.

There will be judgment for the plaintiff for $1 damages without costs.

IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 19TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1905.

In re McGOWAN & CO., LTD.;

Ex parte SIMON MAY & CO.

This is an appeal from a decision of the Liquidator of McGowan & Co., Ltd., rejecting a proof lodged by Simon May & Co.

Two preliminary objections to the hearing of the appeal have been taken on behalf of the Liquidator;

(1) that the proceeding is not properly intituled under Rule 5 of the Companies Winding-Up Rules, 1905; and

(2) that notice of appeal was not given within the time prescribed by Rule 106 (2) of the same Rules.

The proceeding is not intituled as required by the Rules. This is, however, a matter of form only, and the objection can properly be met by amendment, which if this were the only objection, would be allowed by the Court.

It is not contested that Simon May & Co. appealed against the rejection of their proof after the date mentioned in the Liquidator's notice of intention to declare a dividend as the latest date upon which proofs must be lodged and that no formal notice of appeal was given within seven days from the date of service on the appellant of the notice of the rejection of the proof. It is, however, admitted on behalf of the Liquidator that he received within the seven days a letter from the attorney of Simon May & Co., and it is contended on their behalf (1) that such letter conveyed notice of an intention to appeal, due service of which was a sufficient compliance with Rule 106 (2), and (2) that under Rule 96 notice of the application to the Court to reverse the Liquidator's decision can be given (as was done in this case) at any time within twenty-one days from the date of service of the rejection of the proof.

Rule 106 (2) is a special provision for cases where an appeal from the Liquidator's rejection of a proof would delay the declaration of a dividend which might otherwise be at once declared, and sub-clause (3) of that Rule treats it as fixing the time for appealing in the cases under it. In my opinion in all cases where Rule 106 (2) is applicable, the period for appealing mentioned in Rule 96 is (subject to the power of the Court to extend it) reduced from 21 to 7 days. This construction is in accordance with the principle that where there is a general and also a special provision in an instrument which conflict, the special must be construed as a qualification or exception to the general one, and is supported by the language of Form No. 61 and the side-note thereto and by the practice under the analogous provisions of the English Bankruptcy Rules. The only question, therefore, which has to be decided is, what was the effect of the service on the Liquidator of the letter from the attorney of Simon May & Co. That letter was undoubtedly a notice of an intention to appeal and was so regarded by the Liquidator in his application to the Court for leave to employ a solicitor. But the Rule in my opinion requires service of notice, not merely of an intention to appeal, which intention might subsequently be abandoned or its prosecution delayed indefinitely, but of appeal itself. (cf. In re Blyth v. Young, 13 Ch. D. 419, 420: In re New Callao, 22 Ch. D. 484). Rule 106 (2) therefore has not been complied with, and that Rule being applicable in this case, the objection taken must prevail. No reason has been urged or appears why the time for giving the required notice should now be extended and the other creditors of the Company deprived of the benefit or protection afforded by the non-observance of the Rule, and the appeal is, therefore, dismissed with costs.

Board of Agriculture Notices.

Georgetown, Demerara,
23rd October, 1905.

THE following Report on a visit to the Missions of Orealla and Epera on the Corentyne River, by E. Beckett, Esquire, Agricultural Instructor, is published for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary, Board of Agriculture.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE,
Experimental Fields,
September, 1905.

Sir,—I have the honour to forward herewith a report of a trip to the Missions of Orealla and Epera on the Corentyne River.

2. In accordance with instructions I accepted the kind invitation of Mr. Archdeacon Heard to accompany His Lordship the Bishop of Guiana and himself on a visit to these outlying missions.

3. On 14th August I left for New Amsterdam, and on 15th arrived at Skeldon. On the following day, through the kindness of Mr. P. G. Fulton, who was at the time acting Manager of Skeldon, I rode around the whole of the cultivation on this estate. It was gratifying to note that the crop gave evidence of being an excellent one. Mr. Fulton showed me some seventh ratoons of Bourbon, which looked quite as good as any third ratoons I have seen elsewhere in the colony. Quite a large area of land has been thrown out, and I expressed surprise that this area had not been put in cultivation with some of our better seedlings; a few of our seedlings have been grown on the estate, but they were practically abandoned. Nevertheless, I belive that this land could be planted at a profit with seedlings like 625, 145, 2468, 1087. Should, however, the estate authorities not see their way to do this, I should advise that an acreage, large enough for experimental purposes, be planted with the following rubber trees: Hevea brasiliensis (the supposed Para rubber of commerce), Funtumia elastica (West African rubber), and Castilloa elastica (Central American rubber). The experiment would be well worth carrying out, and beyond the preparation of holes for planting and the care of the young trees, supplying, &c., the usual cultural work would not be very expensive. It would be necessary to keep around the trees weeded (not necessarily to weed the whole of the beds), to mulch occasionally, and to practise judicious fork moulding about twice a year. Once the trees grew up the weeding operations would be reduced. Should the experiment be tried, it must be borne in mind that every effort must be made to plant the trees correctly and to give them in their very young state of growth the best possible care and attention.

The following day the Bishop and the Archdeacon arrived and we left Skeldon by boat immediately for Orealla some 60 miles up this broad and imposing river, navigable for small vessels up to 150 miles from its mouth. This was the first visit of an Instructor up this river, and I cannot say that there is much chance of his services being in any great request, as there are but few grants on the river used for agricultural purposes. The largest agricultural grant is owned by Mr. Franck of Pln. Skeldon, but as the Archdeacon's boat did not call there I regret to say that I was unable to see this place. On our way to Orealla we called in at Mr. W. J. Phillips, ex-Manager of Pln. Springlands. This gentleman has in three months erected quite an elaborate saw-mill, including planes, tongue and groove machines, etc., all driven by steam power. He is able to saw boards down to one-sixteenth inch in thickness. During that time, too, in addition to all his machinery he has erected labourers' logies and quite a dainty little dwelling house for Mrs. Phillips and the children. There is no doubt that the Corentyne River is rich in good timber, and this pioneer attempt of Mr. Phillips deserves success.

4. Continuing on our way we reached Orealla at three o'clock in the morning. This mission lies at the bottom of a fairly high and massive sandhill, the Arawaks living below, as usual close to the waterside, and the Warraws, following the instinct of their old habits, living at the top of the steep hill forming the background of this picturesque mission. The houses are all thatched with the leaves of the dealibanni palm (Geonoma baculifera) as troolie is not found in these parts. With the exception of one young man suffering from consumption all the Indians appeared in excellent health. About the mission Archdeacon Heard has planted some Sea Island cotton, a few grafted mangoes and one or two Para rubber trees (Hevea brasiliensis). All of these are looking fairly satisfactory and have been carefully planted. The Sea Island cotton appeared free from disease, but the fineness of the fibre, natural twist and elasticity of this cotton, qualities so absolutely necessary to the manufacturer, seem to be drawbacks to the primitive manner of spinning practised by our aboriginals, hence the ordinary thick, coarse, unelastic fibre of the local Buck cotton is more useful to them than the commercial fibre of English cotton spinners. Dotted here and there about the mission are old mango trees, planted evidently by those sturdy Dutch planters, who, with the instinct of the true agriculturist, wherever they settled left trees to mark their stay, for almost all time. An aged tamarind tree, under whose shade some seventy years ago the Rev. T. Blood, one of the early Missionary clergymen, preached his first sermon to the wondering, if not amused, Indians, still stands to mark this early attempt at Christianizing these people. Of more importance is the vigorous growth that Breadnut trees and Coconut palms have made, in addition to groves of Bananas. Were these trees planted liberally and tended, there would be no more harrowing tales, which sometimes filter their way to the local press, of the distress and starvation of Indians should their cassava crop fail them.

Cacao and Coffee trees have been stuck in here and there by one or two of the Indians, but have been allowed to grow in their own way and are practically of no value. Sugar, Custard Apples and Star Apples are also met with, which shows that in spite of the apparent infertility of the soil, were the Schoolmaster and Catechist in charge anything of an agriculturist something might still be made of the soil, though it consists of only a poor, sandy clay, very deficient in humus. I should advise that the Indians be taught the habit of burying in a large hole all their kitchen sweepings, offal, night soil, &c., and so form a good compost heap for manurial purposes. This would do away with the, at present, dangerous practice of throwing all such refuse away at the water-side, thus encouraging the visits of perai, of whose disastrous onslaughts, the lack of a finger or toe or worse, the bodies of some of the Indians give ample evidence.

5. On 21st we left Orealla for Epera, the second Mission Station, situated about 150 miles from the mouth of the river. On the way thither the river takes a mighty bend, so that it is possible to save 10 hours pulling by leaving the boat and walking across the savannah. This we did, being met by another boat under the charge of "Capt." Alexander, reaching Epera at about 1 p.m. This Mission is situated at the top of a steep sandhill, stretching upwards straight from the landing place. The soil here consists of pure sand, but here and there at the bottom of the hill fertile bits of soil are to be found, which could be planted at a profit with Coconuts, Breadfruit, Breadnut, Jackfruit, Bananas, &c.

At mid-day the heat radiated by the white sand is terrible, and it would be impossible for any European to do any out-of-door work during that time. The mornings are cold and bracing. On 23rd we started for Orealla again; leaving Epera at 6.15 a.m., we arrived at Orealla at 12.20, a run of six hours. The next morning we started at 4.45 a.m. for Skeldon, and, with a rest whilst waiting for the tide from 6 p.m. to 12.45 a.m. at Mr. Phillips' house, we reached Skeldon at about 5 a.m. on Friday.

The Bishop remained behind at Skeldon, whilst the Archdeacon and myself journeyed to New Amsterdam. On Saturday I returned to Georgetown.

6. It is interesting to note that in the forests behind these missions Vanilla planifolia, the Vanilla of commerce, grows quite luxuriantly and is really very common. A number of orchids of interest I collected I handed over, according to instructions, to Mr. R. Ward. I regret I saw nothing of the centipede orchid (Lockhartia Wightii), found around the Epera district several years ago by Mr. Jenman.

7. Both at Epera and Orealla there are day schools, under the same conditions that exist for other schools. The Teachers' payments depend upon the "results" of the examination of scholars,—hence naturally the aim of the Teachers cannot be to secure the most useful and efficient information for the children, but the largest amount of Government grant. This instruction gives the Indian children the power to read newspapers, to more or less write a letter, add up a few figures and so forth; but it certainly does little to train and mould their natures so as to fit them for the life that they have to lead. With the Indians, individual tribes and individual families of these tribes have the art and practise the manufacturing of basket work, pottery, hammock making, &c., &c., &c. The art of making many of these unique articles is dying out and in many cases has already died out. It becomes important, therefore, that mechanical training of eye and hand be encouraged in these schools. Then, and not till then, will it be possible to train these young aboriginals to take to practical agriculture and to grow things other than the usual cassava and a stray stool of sugar-cane and a bunch or two of inferior pine-apples. Were these outlying mission schools allowed to change the character of the teaching so as to make it more educative and less instructive, the dormant powers of hand and mind, ready to be drawn out of these bright little children would bring about from every standpoint an improvement really surprising. Instead of this, the memory now is trained to the exhaustion and decay of the reasoning faculties, whilst the innate capacity for useful action which these children possess, is caused to shrivel and shrink until little of it remains. Such a change need in no way interfere with the Inspector of Schools' report and recommendations. The test of efficiency and thoroughness could still easily be made. The influence of the method of inquiry into the mere mechanical manipulation of the ordinary text-books by a few docile Indian children, well drilled by a black schoolmaster, cannot claim any educative force but only that of its beggarly substitute, instructive.

The vegetation of this river is interesting. The usual mangrove (Rhizophora mangle) was by no means so prevailing a feature as it is in many other of our rivers. The effect of the flowering of the Long John (Triplaris surinamensis) was to temper the prevailing green colour of the river vegetation, as was also the bronzy-red foliage of many other trees. Foremost amongst trees of great interest must be mentioned trees of Parkia pendula only a few hundred yards below Orealla. One specimen of this most beautiful tree is growing also at Maccaseema, in the Pomeroon river, planted there by Mr. im Thurn. At this time these trees were just, or rather not quite, passed the flowering stage, still here and there a globe of crimson flowers hanging in fringes at the end of a long whip was to be seen, and again some of the trees with its dark foliage and long whips hanging from each branchlet with a drum-like head at the end, gave a picture of a huge Christmas tree with innumerable dainty drumsticks hanging from each branch. Other trees of interest were the Hackia (Tecoma sp.), the Incense tree (Icica heptaphylla), the Kakaralli (Lecythis ollaria).

8. I cannot express too heartily my sincere thanks to Archdeacon Heard and the Bishop for the many kindnesses shown me on this trip.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,

THE following Report on a visit to the Potaro River District by E. Beckett, Esquire, Agricultural Instructor, is publihsed for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary, Board of Agriculture.

BOARD OF AGRICULTURE,
Experimental Fields,
May 29th, 1905.

Sir,—I have the honour to report that having left Georgetown on the 9th of May for the Potaro River, according to instructions, after a short stay in that district, I returned to town on the 20th instant.

2. In arriving at the Potaro landing, I found I was unable to get my baggage in on that day, so I was compelled to walk to the house of Mr. Garnett's agent, Mr. J. Percival, to whom I had a letter of introduction from The Hon. George Garnett. This gentleman received me very kindly and after a walk of over fourteen miles to his house, through a continuously heavy downpour of torrents of rain, a warm welcome was most appreciated.

I stayed in this part of the district for two days during which time I inspected Mr. Garnett's farm and others in the neighbourhood and spoke to the "pork-knockers," attempting to instil into them some ideas of how, if they were to conscientiously attempt some agricultural work in the district, the chances would be that, in spite of the extreme poverty of the soil, they would make a better living and lead cleaner and healthier lives than they could under the conditions of their present happy-go-lucky mode of existence.

For those who persisted in leading the life of a "pork-knocker," I pointed out to them how they might at least, every man of them, grow a few plantains and ground provisions around their homes; they, of course, spoke of the want of time, but as the "pork-knocker" finds plenty of time in the morning for gambling or sleeping in his hammock, if so inclined, an excuse such as this, is, of course, not worth considering.

There is practically no agricultural work at all carried on in the district. Mr. Garnett's farm of ground provisions and plantains is the only pretentious cultivation, together with Messrs. Trim and Thomas, both of whom have made attempts to grow provisions, the former, I believe, living entirely on his agricultural efforts and taking no personal interest in gold washing. In all cases there was little or no attempts at drainage. Any agricultural work in the Potaro District is bound to bring ultimate disappointment, unless a sensible system of manuring and rotating of crops is practised. The soil at the landing consists of an ochreous red, stiffish clay with about 30% of quartz sand, and as one goes further into the road, the percentage of quartz sand seems, in many cases, to increase and the clay to diminish. In some parts, the soil consisted of pure sand, while here and there the red clay changed into a yellow coloured clay. On the whole, the land around the Potaro road seems to have been derived from granitic rocks; throughout the whole district there was a lamentable deficiency of any humus and I should consider all the soils I examined unless the judicious application of artificial manures, containing fair proportions of nitrogen and phosphates was practised, would certainly negative any agricultural ambitions that might be in the breast of even a better man than the average "pork-knocker."

On the other hand, it must be mentioned that poor as the soil seems, it gives an excellent first crop in ground provisions and plantains and great inducement is held out to the man of active mind and body, by the fact that the highest prices in the whole of the West Indies for ground provisions, plantains and the like, prevail. In Mr. Garnett's stores, plantains are sold at six cents per pound and ground provisions at ten cents; hence a single well-grown bunch of plantains will fetch sometimes as much as four dollars. The question as to whether it would pay to artificially fertilise the soil, attract labour by the offer of good wages, and to attempt the growing of provisions on a large scale for supplying "pork-knockers" throughout the district, is a very doubtful one. Already labour in the Potaro is exceedingly expensive, cartmen and others obtaining as much as two shillings per diem and in addition to this, a daily ration of substantial food. The attacks made by cushi ants, are also often expensive and troublesome.

3. One Sunday and a Monday, I pushed into the bush with an Indian guide and collected a fair number of orchids for the Botanical Department, several seed cases of different varieties of Kakaralli (Lecythis sp.) and several strange seeds and one or two ferns.

4. Tuesday, 15th, was spent with Mr. Roberts, the Government Officer in charge of the Potaro-Konawaruk road. This officer has done some excellent work in planting various fruit trees, ground provisions, plantains, &c., &c. He has laid out all his grounds very neatly and effectively. He has also established a healthy, vigorous stock of feathered birds, fowls, turkeys and pigeons seeming to thrive excellently in this district.

I would most respectfully suggest that Mr. Roberts be furnished with a few sturdy Plymouth Rock cocks and hens, and that this desirable breed be systematically spread throughout the district. A few Plymouth Rock cockerels would be of great use, as when crossed with the mongrel hen a consequent breed of strong birds is generally the result, these hens being very often better layers than the pure-bred birds.

What Mr. Roberts has done with his place stands out as characteristic proof of the fact of the station being inhabited by an Englishman.

The rainfall at this station for the year, has been as follows:—

	Inches.	Parts.
January	14	52
February	9	21
March	15	99
April	21	09
May to 15th	10	95

i.e., in four months and a half the rainfall has been 71¾ inches.

On my way up to Potaro, having reached Tumatumari late in the night and having made an early start next morning, I was unable to see anything of this district, until when I arrived there when on the way back to Rockstone.

The soil is a poor, loose, quartz-sandy soil, and a red clay. It is remarkable that throughout the whole of this district, limes (Citrus limonum) seem to do excellently, producing large and well-formed fruits.

5. A day was spent at Omai, proving one of extreme interest, but here again the soil practically prevents any cultivation of ordinary crops on a large scale, unless judicious manuring is practised. My sincere thanks are due to Mr. Seidler, the acting manager of the Mines, for making the visit as useful as possible and for his kindness and courtesy.

6. Some of the Indian Settlements along the Potaro road are, for them, comparatively extensively planted in cassava. The tribes seem to be some sub-tribe of the Macusis. No one in the camp, except the guide, was able to speak English, the women wore hardly anything but the well-known "queyu" and the men, laps of blue cloth. The lower lips of the men and women were pierced with two holes, through each of which had been passed an ordinary brass pin. I saw no troolie palms (Manicaria saccifera) in my walk through the bush, the houses were all trashed with leaves of the palm Geonoma baculifera. The men were all marked with the well-known hunting "beenas," the chief plant used being a species of caladium. The small mats about half-a-foot square made of strips of the bark of a reed (Ischnosiphon) fashioned like a miniature blind, were very much in evidence; between each strip, ants are inserted and the huntsman puts the mat against his chest and allows the insects to mark his chest with their painful bites. With people such as these, there was no chance of getting them to grow anything else but the usual large crop of cassava and a plantain tree or two. After getting orchids through their guidance I left them as soon as possible.

7. Reference should be made to the numbers of beautiful butterflies and other insects seen. Indeed the district seems exceptionally fertile for the entomologist. There were few flowers in bloom, chiefly noticeable was the beautiful blue star flower, Petrea martiana, already a favourite in gardens in Georgetown and New Amsterdam.

THE following Report by the Government Botanist on a caterpillar which has lately been causing considerable damage to coconut and other palms in British Guiana, is published for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary,
Board of Agriculture.

GOVERNMENT BOTANIST'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, British Guiana,
5th September, 1905.

Sir,—I have the honour to report herewith on a caterpillar which has lately been causing considerable damage to coconut and other palms in British Guiana. A coconut cultivation of about 40 acres at Pln. Grove, near Clonbrook, has suffered very severely from this insect and very many of the coconut and cabbage palms in the counties of Demerara and Berbice are showing signs of its attacks. In Georgetown I estimate that quite half of the various kinds of palms scattered about the city, excluding those growing in the Botanic Gardens where I am glad to say that so far the caterpillar has not appeared, have been more or less injured by this pest, some to such an extent that they have died. On a recent visit to Suddie I noticed no traces of the caterpillar so that to the best of my knowledge the pest has not yet spread to the county of Essequibo.

2. The insect which causes this damage is a caterpillar 2¼ inches in length when full grown, covered with short, soft hairs and of a dark brown colour with longitudinal lines of a lighter brown running the length of the body. The head is brown in colour and bears two large, dark spots. These caterpillars crawl very quickly and as they crawl they spin a stout brown thread. They are essentially social in their habits and when they move from one place to another they do so in long processions of a few individuals in width. When they come to rest, they form closely packed masses with their heads all pointing in one direction. Another peculiarity about them is their habit of forming long cylindrical pockets open at either end, by joining together a number of the leaflets of a palm-leaf to form a tube by means of their silken threads. These pockets may be seen on nearly every tree attacked by the insects, and are rendered very conspicuous by the fact that frequently they are the only green parts of the leaves that have remained undevoured. In these the caterpillars appear to rest during the daytime and they leave them during the night to feed. They usually contain many hundreds of individuals and may weigh several pounds.

3. The voracity of the caterpillars is remarkable. By reason of their numbers when they attack the leaf of a coconut palm every portion of the green part is devoured, leaving only the thick mid-rib and the fine lateral veins. They proceed thus from leaf to leaf until the tree is reduced to a leafless condition and may succumb to repeated attacks, which has been the fate of some cabbage palms in Waterloo Street in Georgetown. On Pln. Grove, already mentioned, the greater number of the trees in the cultivation of 40 acres have had every portion of the green part of their leaves devoured and present the appearance of brown skeletons of trees. Many other species of palms, in addition to the coconut and cabbage palms already mentioned, fall a prey to the insect.

4. The other stages in the life-history have been studied, but there are several facts as to the duration of some of the stages, the number of broods in the year and the months in which they occur which still require to be ascertained.

5. The eggs are laid in patches consisting of 100 to 150 or more in close contact with each other either on the stem of the coconut palm or on the under side of the leaves and I have found them on the leaves of neighbouring plants. They are smooth and shiny, pink in colour and in shape nearly round with the exception of the equator which is slightly flattened where it is in contact with other eggs; they measure nearly

1/32 inch in diameter. Whether on the stem or on the leaves of the coconut palm these patches of eggs are very conspicuous and are easily found on searching for them.

6. Out of a quantity of eggs collected on 27th June, the first began to hatch on the 7th July and by July 11th all had hatched except those in one patch from which the larvae emerged on July 13th. As I do not know the date when the eggs were laid it is impossible for me to state definitely how long they take to hatch, but assuming that some of the eggs may have been laid within a day or two of the time when they were found, as the butterflies were then plentiful, I can roughly assign the period as a little over a fortnight. I have had many of the butterflies of both sexes in captivity together but they have laid very few eggs and none of these have proved fertile. A short time before the eggs are going to hatch, their apices turn a slate colour owing to the dark-coloured head of the young larva showing through the translucent eggshell. The larva escapes by cutting a circular piece or lid out of the top of the egg, just in the same way as one opens a tin of tinned meat, except that the lid is cut completely off in most cases. Then the dark shiny head of the insect is seen filling the aperture. In most cases all the larvae in a patch emerged simultaneously.

7. The newly-hatched larvae slightly exceed 1/8 inch in length, they are reddish in colour with pale yellow lines running the length of the body and they have large smooth dark reddish heads quite twice the width of the body. From the beginning they show the habits of the adult in crawling in procession or resting with their heads all pointing in one direction. For the first 24 hours they refuse to feed but they make up for it afterwards by their astonishing voracity and they grow rapidly in size. The duration of the larval stage is unknown: of those hatched before the middle of July the majority have reached the length of nearly an inch at the time of writing this (August 30th), and they are proportionately thicker, i. e., in about six weeks their bulk has increased to about 500 times as much as it was at the time of their birth.

The appearance and habits of the adult larva have already been described in paragraphs 2 and 3.

8. When the larva is about to change into the pupal state, it ceases to eat and becomes listless and inactive. Then it attaches itself by its tail end to some surface and remains suspended head downwards with its body in a humped position. In a short time, the larval skin is thrown off, disclosing the pupa.

9. The pupae are of two distinct sizes, male and female respectively. The female which is the larger averages about an inch in length, is thick-bodied and somewhat curved. The general colour is a dingy pink with five irregular brown lines bordered on either side with white, running the length of the body along the back and sides; there are two additional brown lines on the under side of the abdominal part. On the head and thorax are a few scattered brown hairs. A distinct ring devoid of markings separates the thorax from the abdomen. Even on the first assumption of the pupal state, the outlines of the head, eyes and wings of the future butterfly are clearly marked out and gradually become more distinct.

10. The pupae are mostly found on the under side of the leaves of the coconut palm, but they are also to be looked for on neighbouring trees and shrubs, under beams in sheds and houses, under dead coconut husks lying on the ground, in the old nests of the caterpillars, etc., in fact in almost any situation in the neighbourhood of the infested trees where the larvae are able to find a place to suspend themselves.

11. About a fortnight after the beginning of the pupal stage, the butterfly emerges. The difference in size of the two sexes which has already been noticed in the pupae, is still more conspicuous in the butterflies. The females usually measure 3¼ to 3½ inches across the expanded wings and the males 2½ to 2¾ inches. The wings are of a dark brown colour relieved by a broad irregular band of a dull orange colour running obliquely across the forewings and a less conspicuous band of a dingy orange colour running parallel with the outer margin of the hind wings. In the male the orange markings are somewhat brighter and larger than in the female. The under side of the wings is of a light brown colour speckled with minute white dots, the oblique orange band is plainly visible under the fore-wings and under the hind-wings are 2 or 3 round spots outlined with black. The thorax is of the same brown colour as the wings, but the abdomen is a rusty brown. The antennae are dark.

12. During the day-time these butterflies rest motionless on the trunks or under the leaves of the palms, where they may be easily picked off by hand. About 4.30 p.m., when the sun is getting low they begin to fly about. The flight is swift but of short duration. How long the butterflies live is unknown, and is difficult to determine when they are in captivity, but there appear to be several broods in the course of the year.

13. Enemies:—Many chicken-hawks, "Old-witch" birds, "carrion crows," kiskadees, corn-birds, etc. were observed feasting on the insects. Evidences were found of three different parasites attacking the insect in its various stages:—

(a.) Several patches of empty eggs were found, every egg in the patch bored by a minute round hole on one side, much smaller and differing in form from that by which the young larva emerges and which has already been described. These eggs had probably been attacked by some minute parasitic Ichneumon.

Digitized by Google

(b.) In certain of the patches of eggs which were hatched in confinement, from an egg here and there, instead of the young larva a small black parasitic Ichneumon emerged by a somewhat irregular hole.

(c.) Many dead pupae were found pierced with several (as many as 9) large round holes. The cause of these was undiscovered, until from two or three pupae kept in the breeding cage, parasitic Hymenoptera emerged. (Ichneumonidae These were about 3/16 inch in length, black in colour with yellow markings at the origin of the wings and on the legs, the last pair of which had the femurs remarkably thickened.

These parasites must be of considerable value in checking to some extent the increase in numbers of the insects.

14. Remedies.—In attempting to combat the attacks of parasitic insects or fungi, it is impossible to lay too much stress upon the importance of watching for their first appearance and when found taking prompt and energetic measures for their destruction. On their first appearance plant-enemies can frequently be destroyed without much trouble but it is seldom that they can be completely got rid of when they have gained a firm hold. Every owner of coconut trees should be continually on the watch for the first signs of this caterpillar, which are shown conspicuously by certain of the leaves being partly eaten. The leaves attacked should be cut away, the big pocket-like nests searched for and completely destroyed. The pink patches of eggs which are fairly common on the trunk and under-sides of the leaves should be looked for and also the pupae suspended from the leaves. The butterflies may easily be picked of by hand, as during the day they remain motionless on the trunk and under the leaves. Other kinds of trees and shrubs growing near the coconut palms or amongst them must likewise be examined as they sometimes shelter eggs, pupae and butterflies.

15. The best methods of killing the various stages of the insect are either to burn them or to immerse them in a pail of water with which some carbolic acid or chloronaphtholeum has been mixed or a little kerosine oil poured on the surface. The methods of crushing them or cutting them up with a cutlass are unsatisfactory because not only do they take a much longer time, but there is considerable danger of some of the individuals not being killed.

16. These measures are applicable in the case of coconut or other palms the heads of which may easily be reached by climbing, but with cabbage palms which on account of their great height and the smoothness and thickness of their stems are only climbed with difficulty I recognise that they are impracticable and I am unable to suggest an effective remedy. For the coconut planter, who has any cabbage palms on his estate attacked by these insects which he is unable to reach and destroy, I am of opinion that the wisest plan to follow will be to sacrifice the more useless cabbage palms in order to provide for the greater safety of the more valuable coconut palms.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,

A. W. BARTLETT.
Government Botanist.

The Director,
Department of Science and Agriculture.

Note 1, Since the above account of the insect was written, specimens of the insect sent to the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington have been identified as Brassolis sophorœ, Linn.

Note 2. With reference to the destruction of the eggs, the Entomologist of the Imperial Department of Agriculture has kindly written and suggested that the following killing mixture should be used :—

Creosote Oil	5 parts
Carbolic Acid	2 parts
Spirits of Turpentine	2 parts
Coal Tar	1 part

This mixture can be carried about in a tin in the pocket and applied to the patches of eggs with a brush; it is said to have great penetrating power and will kill every egg touched by it. The Entomologist considers that this method is likely to prove more effective than the method which I recommended of scraping off and afterwards destroying the eggs, as there is less chance of any escaping.

Spraying the leaves with arsenate of lead is recommended for the destruction of the larvae feeding upon them, but as few planters possess the spraying apparatus required for this, the simpler and cheaper process of cutting out and burning the nests seems to me to be more preferable, and moreover, I have been informed, has been found to have been successful in lessening the numbers of this pest.

The Official Gazette
OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4TH, 1905.

I assent.
F. M. HODGSON,
Governor.

BRITISH GUIANA.

ORDINANCE NO. 27 OF 1905.

A.D. 1905.

An Ordinance to provide for the incorporation of the Bishop of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana and other persons as Trustees of the said Church, and to make provision for the Government of the said Church.

[4th November, 1905.]

WHEREAS by divers Ordinances provision has been made for the organisation and government of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana, commonly called the Church of England in this Colony, and whereas it is necessary and desirable to enable the said Church to provide for the organisation and government more fully and completely than as in the said Ordinances provided; and Whereas the Diocesan Synod of Guiana, duly summoned and convened under, and in accordance with, the provisions of the Diocesan Synod Ordinance, 1873, met on the third day of November, 1903, and having duly considered the matters and things hereinbefore mentioned, resolved to petition the Governor and Court of Policy to repeal the said Ordinance so as to enable the said Church to make all such Rules, Regulation and Canons, as may from time to time be necessary, for the general management, discipline and good government of the said Church and for administering the property and affairs thereof; and Whereas the said Synod has appointed the Right Reverend Edward Archibald Parry, Doctor of Divinity, Bishop of Guiana, the Honourable Charles Boughton Hamilton, Companion of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George and the Honourable Benjamin Howell Jones to represent them and to hold property for any of the uses or purposes of the Clergy and Laity of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana, and it is expedient that the Bishop for the time being of the said Church and such other persons as may from time to time be elected as Trustees of the said Church by the said Synod, should be incorporated and should have power to hold lands and other property in trust for the said Church:

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Diocese of Guiana Ordinance, 1905.

Interpretation of terms.

2. In this Ordinance, unless the context otherwise requires,—

"Synod" means the Diocesan Synod of Guiana.

"Diocese" means the Diocese of Guiana.

"Church" means the Church in the Diocese of Guiana.

"Bishop" means the Bishop of the Diocese.

"Incorporated Trustees" means the Incorporated Trustees of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana.

Constitution of Diocesan Synod.

3. The Bishop of Guiana and the Clergy of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana duly instituted or licensed by the Bishop, together with those lay representatives of the members of the said Church who at the commencement of this Ordinance have been duly chosen and elected in accordance with the provisions of the Diocesan Synod Ordinance, 1873, shall be, and shall be deemed to be, the Diocesan Synod of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana and shall be styled "The Diocesan Synod of Guiana."

Power to Synod to make Canons.

4.—(1.) The Synod shall have power to make all such Rules Regulations and Canons, as it may from time to time think fit, for the general management, discipline and good government of the Church.

(2.) Nothing in this or any other Ordinance shall be construed to prevent the Synod from having full power to alter the constitution of the said Synod, to provide as to the election, qualification and number of Lay Representatives in the said Synod, and generally to provide for the transaction of the business and proceedings thereof.

Incorporation of Trustees.

5. The Right Reverend Edward Archibald Parry, Doctor of Divinity, and his successors in office, as Bishop of the Diocese of Guiana, the Honourable Charles Boughton Hamilton, Companion of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George and the Honourable Benjamin Howell Jones and their successors in office as such Trustees as aforesaid shall be, and are hereby created, a body corporate by the name of the "Incorporated Trustees of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana," and by that name shall have perpetual succession, and shall and may sue and be sued in all Courts of law or equity and before all Magistrates and, subject to the Rules, Regulations and Canons, and the control of the Synod, shall have power to acquire and hold property both moveable and immoveable for the said Church and for all purposes connected with the administration of the affairs of the said Church and to sell, mortgage, alienate, or lease the same: Provided that in the event of the death or absence from the Colony of any one of the Incorporated Trustees, all or any of the powers hereinbefore conferred on the said Trustees may be exercised by the surviving or remaining Trustees.

Vesting of Church property in Trustees.

6. From and after the commencement of this Ordinance, Saint George's Cathedral in Georgetown, and all Churches, Chapels, Parsonage Houses, Schools and other Buildings, and all lands vested in any person, body of persons, or Trustees for the use of the Church of England in this Colony, or for the use of the Church in the Diocese of Guiana, shall be and the same are hereby transferred to and vested in the Incorporated Trustees for the time being.

Repeal: Schedule. No. 11 of 1902.

7. The Ordinances mentioned in the Schedule to this Ordinance are hereby repealed: Provided that this repeal shall not affect the rights or liabilities under any of the Ordinances hereby repealed of any person named in Schedule A to the Clergy List Ordinance, 1902.

Commencement.

8. This Ordinance shall come into operation on the fifth day of December, 1905.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 28TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1905.

HUMPHREY, Appellant.
KAPS, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of the Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District, dismissing an action brought by the appellant to recover an amount (after abandonment of excess) of $100 from the respondent as compensation for the use and occupation of a portion of a building on E ½ of lot 5, Robb's Town.

The respondent was for some time a monthly tenant of a part of the premises at a rental of $25 a month, J. B. Woolford being his landlord. On the 7th June, 1905, Woolford gave him a written notice that he had sold the premises to the appellant and required the respondent to quit and deliver up possession of the portion of the premises occupied by him on the 31st July, 1905. On the 30th June, Woolford gave the respondent a second notice in writing referring to the former notice and directing him to pay his rent for the month of July to the appellant. On the 20th July, transport of the premises to the appellant was duly passed, and on the 24th July, the appellant's legal adviser wrote to the respondent notifying him of the fact, and requesting him to deliver possession on the 31st July, or the 1st August, at latest, as the premises were required by the appellant for immediate occupation and the letter proceeded : "Your continued occupation of the said premises he now desires you to understand will be charged for at the rate of $16 (sixteen dollars) per diem at which figures alone he will rent them to you." To this letter the respondent replied by one written "without prejudice" by his solicitor, which was however by consent of counsel put in evidence before the Magistrate, and in that reply he questioned the sufficiency and reasonableness of the notice to quit, stated he could not obtain other suitable premises before the 30th September, when he would deliver up the one he was occupying and refused to acquiesce in the claim made for increased rent. The respondent asked the appellant, but without success, to allow him to remain in possession after the 1st August, and on 1st August paid appellant the rent for July, accepting after some demur a receipt without the qualification that the payment was made without prejudice. The respondent having remained in possession, the action was on the 14th August, begun.

The Magistrate dismissed the action on the ground that the respondent's occupation was not shown to have been by the appellant's permission, and based his decision on the case of Churchward v Ford, 26, L. J. (N.S.) Ex. 354.

Whether the English or the Roman Dutch law be applied in this case, the respondent's original tenancy or hiring was terminated, in my opinion, on the 31st July, 1905. Under the Roman Dutch law, the purchaser stepped into the vendor's shoes in respect of the lease, the lessee raising no objection to pay. Also the notice given by the appellant's attorney, on the 24th July, neither expressly nor impliedly cancels or waives the previous notice given by J. B. Wooiford, on the 7th June, which notice was treated by the respondent as a binding notice, when he, at an interview, asked the appellant to continue his tenancy and was refused, but that letter only intimates that the plaintiff is the person to whom possession must be delivered and gives the reason why possesion is required at the time fixed by the notice of the 7th June. It has, however, been argued that that notice was unreasonable and that the respondent was entitled to retain possession until he obtained another house suitable for his business. No authority has been cited in support of the latter proposition, the passage quoted from Voet (xix.2.18), applying only to the special cases mentioned by him where a lessor terminates a lease before its term has expired; and so far as the reasonableness of the notice is concerned, even if a month's notice is not in all cases enough to determine a monthly tenancy though I incline to think it is generally sufficient. (Vieira v. Millington, Inf. Civil Court, 24th Dec. 1889,) in the present case, the notice was one of nearly eight weeks and was, in my opinion, ample compliance with the law.

The respondent's original tenancy having expired, what was his position during the period in respect of which compensation for use and occupation is claimed? It is urged that compensation, on that ground, can be claimed only if there was an implied contract between the appellant and respondent, creating the relation of landlord and tenant between them, and that although primâ facie such contract is implied on proof of a plaintiff's title and of a defendant's occupation, any such inference is, in this case, rebutted by the appellant's refusal in his attorney's letter of 24th July, to permit the respondent to continue in occupation after the 1st August. No legal ground is, however, shown disentitling the appellant to alter the position originally taken up by him or preventing the inference that there was a tacit relocation when the respondent held over. The respondent having received notice of the assignment of the reversion, and having assented to the appellant's title by paying the rent for July to him, in my opinion, stood under both English law and the Roman Dutch law in the same relation to the appellant as to his original landlord, and was after the determination of the original tenancy, in the same position as any tenant holding over after the termination of his tenancy. It is clear, I think, on the evidence, that the respondent was not a trespasser claiming adversely to the appellant, and the appellant having abstained from taking any steps to eject him, he became a tenant from whom compensation was recoverable for useand occupation of the premises Van Leeu iv. 21. 6, V. & K. Thes. 671, (Bayley v. Bradley 5 C. B. 396, Jenner v. Clegg 1 Moo & R. 213), and as liability to pay accrued de die in diem, the present action was maintainable through the occupation, has not yet terminated.

The case of Churchward v. Ford cited by the Magistrate is inapplicable, since in that case the plaintiff sued for rent or compensation in respect of a period during which the defendant was in possession under an existing tenancy, to a third person, and the plaintiff's claim to stand in the shoes of that person, had not been recognised by the defendant; but in the present case, the respondent recognised the appellant's title to the premises by paying him rent for July and applying for permission to continue in occupation, and also the rent or compensation now claimed, is in respect of a period subsequent to the determination of the original tenancy under Woolford.

I have dealt with the question of the respondent's liability under English law as well as Roman Dutch law, counsel having argued the case as one governed by English law as to use and occupation, but I may add, without finally deciding the point, that actions for use and occupation under the Roman Dutch law, may, apparently without proof of an implied contract of tenancy, be maintained if the circumstances bring the case within the principle that no man can knowingly derive benefit from the property of another without becoming thereby (apart from any contract express or implied) subject to an obligation to compensate the owner of such property. But in cases where an implied contract of tenancy is sought to be made out, it is, I think, necessary that a tacit location or re-location in accordance with the principles of the Roman Dutch law, should be established. Writing is not necessary to the validity of any such letting of a house like the present (Grotius III. 19, 2, Van der Kees. Thes. 670, Van Leeu. Com. iv. 21. 6, Groenwagen, C. 1. iv. t. 65. 24, contra Schorer on Grot. ubi cit, Voet xix. 2. 11. But see xix. 2. 9); and such tacit letting is as a rule for an indefinite period, viz., as long as the premises are occupied (Van der Kees. Thes. 671, Van Leeu. Com. iv. 21. 6, Cens. For. I. 4. 22. 15.) The decision Victor v Courlois (2 Mems. 79) and Voet xix 2. 10 may appear to conflict with this, but the latter appears to refer only to cases of leases of houses where there is by custom a fixed time for quitting, (e.g. Lady Day) and it is impossible to extract any principle of general application from the meagre report of the decision cited, such as could outweigh the authorities quoted.

The question remains what compensation is the respondent liable to pay. It was properly admitted by counsel that the appellant could not claim the precise sum demanded in the letter of the 24th July, the respondent not having assented to that demand, but could only obtain reasonable compensation. The compensation payable, according to the Roman Dutch Law Authorities already quoted as to tacit relocation is, regard being had to the period of continued occupation, in proportion to the rent previously paid, and even by English Law, although not necessarily limited by the rent previously paid, is the market value of the tenancy to a prospective tenant, and not any peculiar value it may have to the existing tenant. These rules as to the amount of compensation in case of tacit re-location or holding over under an implied contract of tenancy are consistent with equity since both landlord and tenant know the rent or market value of the premises and if dissatisfied either of them can prevent a tacit re-location or implied contract of tenancy, the landlord by proceedings in ejectment or the tenant by giving up possession. In the present case, since it appears that the premises have been for nearly 12 years let for $25 a month, and that the appellant in an agreement between his brother and himself as to their occupation of the premises for the business they are about to carry on in partnership as jewellers, fixes the rent at $25 a month, I think result from adducing further evidence or referring the question of compensation to the Magistrate for decision, while such reference would necessarily involve expense.

The Court therefore reverses the Magistrate's decision and gives judgment for the appellant for an amount calculated for the eleven days' in question at the rate of $25 a month, with costs of appeal.

CLASS VIII. FRESH MEAT.

CLASS XII d. BREAD.

2. Forms of Tender containing Schedule of Articles, with terms and conditions of Contract, may be obtained from the Treasury, Georgetown, and New Amsterdam, on payment of 24 cents per set of original and duplicate, and paper of conditions, &c., and no Tender will be considered unless made on such forms.

3. The forms will be in duplicate, numbered. The original will bear the name of the Tenderer and the particulars of the prices tendered, the duplicate only the particulars of the prices tendered, without any mark or sign except the number to identify the Tenderer.

4. The original of every Tender must be accompanied by the names of two responsible persons who are willing to become bound together with the Tenderer to execute the Contract to be drawn up in the Registrar's Office in terms of this advertisement, and in accordance with the conditions and specifications set out in or attached to the Tenders, for the due supply of the articles named in the Tender. No Firm can be accepted as surety.

5. The Tenderer will enclose the original bearing his name and the names of his sureties in the prescribed form, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Government Secretary, on the outside of which there shall be written the words:—

"Name of Tenderer enclosed"—
"Tender for supply of*"

and at the same time send the duplicate of his tender, containing the prices tendered, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Auditor General as Chairman of the Committee, and only marked on the outside "Tender for the supply of*"

6. Tenderers are advised to send these documents by Post, registered.

7. Any tender sent to the Chairman bearing on its duplicate or on the sealed envelope any name, note or mark by which the Tenderer can be identified, will be rejected.

8. Every tender must be complete in itself, and state distinctly the respective prices or rates of the supplies tendered for. No tender dependent upon a sliding scale of prices or upon the "Market Rate" will be considered.

9. The Government will in no case bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender, and in all cases the acceptance of a Tender will be conditional on security for the performance being given to the satisfaction of the Governor.

10. Any Department or section thereof may be excluded from the operation of the Contract at the discretion of the Government, at any time during the continuance of the Contract.

11. The Government will retain the right of rejecting any Tender without assigning reasons, and prohibiting, without reason assigned, the acceptance of the Tender of any particular person.

12. The party whose Tender has been accepted must deposit at the Registrar's Office the fees for drawing up the Contract, and no account will be paid for any articles supplied until such Contract has been duly executed and a copy thereof lodged with the Auditor General.

13. The Contracts must be duly executed on or before the 31st of January, 1906.

14. The Contractor is required to pay all expenses of drawing up the Contract, including the cost of a copy for the Auditor General.

15. All articles are to be supplied on requisition from the Institution or Department requiring them. They are to be of the specified quality, and subject to the approval of the Officer in charge or the Head of the Department concerned. They are to be delivered in such quantities and at such times as may be required, at the cost of the Contractor.

16. Any articles not in accordance with the Contract will be returned, and if not replaced within a reasonable time by the Contractor by an article in accordance with the Contract, the article may be obtained elsewhere and charged to the Contractor.

17. The Contractor will also be liable on the approval of the Governor to a fine of five dollars for every day on which he neglects or delays to supply any such article.

18. Detailed Accounts are to be rendered monthly and in triplicate, as required by the Head of the Department supplied.

19. Any information Tenderers may desire, may be obtained at the Institutions affected, viz:—Lunatic Asylum, Public

OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor

GEORGETOWN, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8TH, 1905.

Court of Policy Notice.

HALL OF THE COURT OF POLICY,
Georgetown, Demerara,
4th November, 1905.

THE following Regulations, made by the Officer in charge of the navigation of the Rivers Barima, Barama and Waini and their tributaries, under Section 7 of the Rivers Navigation Ordinance, 1891, and approved by the Governor and Court of Policy on the 31st day of October, 1905, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,
J. HAMPDEN KING,
Clerk of the Court.

REGULATIONS FOR OIL-FUEL AND MOTOR LAUNCHES PLYING ON THE RIVERS BARIMA, BARAMA AND WAINI, AND THEIR TRIBUTARIES.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the North Western District Oil Launches Regulations, 1905.

2. In these Regulations the words "petroleum" and "volatile petroleum" shall be deemed to have the meanings assigned to them in the Proclamation issued by the Governor on the thirty-first day of August, 1904, under the Authority of the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

3. Except as is hereinafter provided, these Regulations shall apply to every vessel and boat propelled by reciprocating engines the fuel for which is petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol, or by internal combustion engines in which petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol is used, which ply on the Rivers Barima, Barama and Waini in all their parts or tributaries within the limits of the Colony.

4. Petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol carried in any vessel or boat for any of the purposes enumerated in the last preceding Regulation must be contained either in the service tank or tanks of such vessel or boat, in unopened tins or drums, or in tins or drums which having been opened are securely stoppered.

Digitized by Google

5. The service tank or tanks of any vessel or boat so using petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol for fuel must be constructed to the satisfaction of the Officer.

6. Open tins or drums containing petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol, and tins or drums containing petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol, which having been opened are not securely stoppered shall not be carried on any vessel or boat using petroleum or volatile petroleum or alcohol for the purposes enumerated in Regulation 3 : Provided that petroleum for illuminating purposes may be carried either in unopened tins or drums, in tins or drums which have been opened and are securely stoppered, or in separate glass, or earthenware vessels each of which contains not more than one gallon and is securely stoppered.

7. Smoking is prohibited in the vicinity of the engines and storage tanks of every vessel or boat using volatile petroleum as fuel.

8. These Regulations shall not apply to any vessel or boat using as fuel petroleum which when tested in the manner laid down in the Proclamation referred to in Regulation 2, does not evolve an inflammable vapour at a temperature below 200° Fahrenheit.

9. Nothing in these Regulations shall be deemed to exempt any vessel or boat to which they apply from complying with the North Western District Boat Regulations, 1901.

10. Any person committing a breach of any of these Regulations shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty-four dollars.

Made by the Officer in charge of the navigation of the Rivers Barima, Barama and Waini and their tributaries, under Section 7 of the Rivers Navigation Ordinance, 1891, and approved by the Governor and Court of Policy on the 31st day of October, 1905.

By Command,

Board of Agriculture Notice.

Georgetown, Demerara,
7th November, 1905.

THE following Report on the Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition held at Friendship, East Coast, on the 22nd August last, is published for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary.

Botanic Gardens,
28th August, 1905.

Sir,

I have the honour to report on the Agricultural and Industrial Show which was held at Friendship, East Coast, on Tuesday, 22nd inst.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
(Signed.) JNO. F. WABY.

The Director,
Science and Agriculture.

In company with Messrs. Ward, Mansfield and Garraway, I left Georgetown by the 7.30 train. The Show was held in the Wesleyan School-room at Friendship which was an excellent place for the purpose, it was just sufficiently large without crowding and the space was well allotted to suit the various sections, the only articles on the floor being the coconuts. Had the rough tables been covered with Turkey-red cloth, or some such material I do not think I could suggest anything that would have improved the Exhibition. Of course the room was hot, but the crowd of visitors was sufficient to account for that, at any rate it was quite prepared for any weather, a matter to be considered.

For the general arrangements of the Show I have nothing but praise. It was admirably arranged and must have been very gratifying to all the judges, for the prize-list had been carried out almost perfectly—a very few exceptions—so that in judging no time was lost in searching for the articles named in sequence.

The general exhibits of fruits and vegetables were exceedingly good both in quality and quantity, very few inferior articles indeed. In most cases the judging was difficult on account of the evenness in size and quality of the exhibits; fortunately each section had its own judges—no set of judges had two large sections as has previously been the case—so that the judging took comparatively a much shorter time than usual; it was completed by 1.30.

The manner in which the exhibits were put up deserves a word of commendation. I do not think in any previous show has so much attention been paid to this matter; nearly all the fruits and vegetables which could be placed in baskets and decent looking receptacles of an even character were done so, and the regular size of the boxes of the meals and starches made them appear to much greater advantage. In the economic section a little advice to those who make and exhibit the various articles would be of use, especially in cases where boxes are used. The bottles used are not of even size or shape, i.e., in one exhibit of 4 or 6 bottles there are frequently 2 or 3 shapes, or 2 or 3 sizes—in many cases also the corking is bad, stoppered with all sorts of things, and done in such a manner that let the article prepared be ever so good, it cannot keep good as air can get in. In the jellies the judges complain that the chief taste is sugar, in very few cases can the flavour of the particular fruit be detected and although the exhibits are variously named, they might be made of anything. In the pickles too there is generally only a strong flavour of vinegar—they look pretty with the various vegetables cut up, but nothing is added, as in the case of European pickles to give zest and piquancy, as is expected in these things.

Of Poultry there was not a large number but some very fair birds among them. These were in very fair cages, but stood on the ground, would have been better raised up on benches however rough.

Arts and Manufacturers.—There was a good display of needle-work and of many useful articles of apparel occupying about one-fourth of the space in the room.

The first thing we, of the Science Department, did on arrival was to fix up the Board of Agriculture exhibit, the staging for which had already been erected. This was a four-sided pyramid in the centre of the room, three sides graded in shelves for plants, fruits, vegetables and economics, and one side a triangular slope for fibres, ropes, etc. This exhibit was a very good one, much more elaborate than that of Bagotville, and very similar to that of the last New Amsterdam Exhibition. This was completed by 11 o'clock. Quite a new feature this time was an exhibit of 25 samples of growing rice in fruit, with straw full length.

The fact that I was not intended as a judge in this show seemed to upset the calculations of the Committee, so to save trouble I consented, though this caused me no little inconvenience, as it was impossible for me to judge and note at the same time and half of my noting had to be done late in the afternoon amongst the crowd of visitors. It was as well that I consented to judge, for experience in these matters was not to the fore in my co-judges.

Late in the afternoon I found that I was still awaited to judge gardens kept by a school-boy or girl. At 4.30 Mr. Ward and I set out, on our return to the station and took these Gardens en route. There were four of them.

His Excellency the Governor entered the show at 2.20 p.m.

EXHIBITS BY THE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE—

PULLIC EXHIBITS.

Class A.—Plants.

8 sets young fruit plants.

Class B.—Fruits.

2 bunches Bananas, Red or Buck, very poor.
6 „ „ Jamaica, 2 very good.
9 „ „ Chinese, 3 heavy bunches and 4 medium bunches.
7 „ „ Fig, 1 good bunch and one fully ripe.
14 Pine apples, these were very regular in size, but not large.
2 baskets Mangoes, 3 kinds, fair lots.
24 „ „ 1 kind, very good Exhibits, but little variety. I noticed some of them were marked with the wrong class number
2 „ Sapodillas very poor.
2 „ Sugar apples, fairly good, 1 lot overripe.
2 „ Soursops, 2 of these lots were good fruit, only 1 ripe fruit.
2 „ Custard apple, small, unripe.
4 „ Semitoos, 1 lot very fine
3 Water melons, 1 very fine oblong fruit.
4 Musk „ 1 fair-sized oblong fruit.
1 basket Grapes, small green, poor.
14 „ Seville Orange, good Exhibits,
16 „ Sweet „ very good clean exhibits; 1st prize exceedingly good.
9 „ Tangerine „ good.
14 „ Shaddocks and Grape fruits. These were much mixed, the one kind being numbered for the other, they were much alike in size, the grape fruits were very even.
8 „ Lemons. These were very good indeed: very regular in size; only one being of the rough kind so commonly exhibited.
22 „ Limes. A nice lot altogether, 4 good.
No Citrons. One of the lemon lots was so named.
20 baskets Avocado Pears. The best exhibits of pears we have had for many years, in fact I think the largest on record, some very good streaked fruits.
2 „ Pomegranate, fair fruit.
11 „ Papaws, ordinary kind, good fruits, most of them ripe.
2 lots „ 1 of the original long kind and 1 of the hybrid, good fruits but green.
29 „ Coconuts. Many of these were good regular sized nuts with thick flesh; these must have been difficult to judge.
9 large baskets Mixed Fruits, good competition.
1 box Jamoon fruit, very good; this was the only lot not on the list.

Class C.—Vegetables.

10 bunches Common Plantains, 2 of the bunches were exceedingly good.
5 „ Horse „ the individual fingers were large and good, but the bunches small.
8 lots Buck Yams, very good.
4 „ Yams, exceedingly good.
17 „ Bitter Cassava, a very fine collection indeed, very even tubers difficult to decide the one better than the other.
13 „ Sweet Cassava. The above remarks apply here also.
23 „ Tannias: exceedingly good and even.
7 „ Eddoes, also good, very large
19 „ Pumpkins. The best collection I have seen, 4 monsters, 2 long, and 2 oblong.
7 „ Squashes, 5 long and 2 round lots; exceedingly good.
3 „ Cucumbers, rather poor.
12 „ Breadfruit, good, none inferior.
2 „ Breadnut, too young.
11 „ Sweet Potatoes, very fair and clean.
11 „ Red Tomatoes, good, 3 very fine lots.
1 „ Yellow „ very fair.
5 „ Green Corn, ordinary.
18 „ Dry „ in cob; good exhibits, most of them very even.
2 „ Shallots, green, very ordinary.
3 „ Onions, small but sound, should not have been peeled.
38 „ Ochroes, excellent, very difficult to judge, some a little too old.

7 lots Beans. These were all collections of dry beans, seemed to be the same as those exhibited at Bagotville. I think these should be exhibited in their green condition fit for the table as French beans are.
1 „ Pigeon Peas: green, ordinary.
29 „ Peppers. These were very good, but 4 varieties give little scope.
17 „ Egg plant. These were very good.
5 „ Cabbage, poor, no heads.
6 „ collection Vegetables, good, one containing a choice long cucumber.
No Lettuce.

Class D.—Economic Products.

6 lots Creole Coffee, mostly Moka, one fair example, though not equal to those at Bagotville.
No Liberian Coffee.
5 lots Cacao Beans, poor.
6 „ „ pods, fair size, regular but little variety.
1 „ Rice, very white but small grain, I suppose the season is a little too early for rice.
2 „ Rice Flour.
3 „ Corn Meal.
6 „ Plantain Meal.
18 „ Cassava Meal.
22 „ Cassava Starch.
4 „ Arrowroot Starch.
} As usual these articles looked good, and were very uniform in their packages.
2 lots Honey. This was not good. One was thick and dark, the other fermenting.
3 „ Ginger, dry. Very poor. One of these samples was Chinese ginger quite green, freshly dug.
1 lot Tobacco, leaf. Scarcely second rate, poor aroma.
7 lots Pickles. Some of these were pretty examples, simply vegetables in vinegar, badly corked.
6 „ Hot Sauce, the usual thing, fiery looking.
4 „ Guava Jellies. (Only one at all clear.)
3 „ Other Jellies.
3 „ Stewed Guava, made of poor thin guavas and thin syrup.
7 „ Other Preserves. In the opinion of the Judges these might have been made from anything, the special flavour being absent.
16 „ Cassareep, the ordinary stuff, in irregular quantities.
13 „ Chocolates, good exhibits.
7 „ Castor Oil
8 „ Coconut Oil
} Fairly clear and bright.
2 „ Fresh Butter, very fresh, not attractive.
2 „ Ground Nuts, very poor indeed.
30 „ Cassava Bread. This was very good indeed.
5 „ Sea Island Cotton, 4 beautifully white, 1 dark.
3 „ Upland Cotton.
2 „ Egyptian.
On a separate table were placed:
1 plate Malacca Apples,
1 „ Golden „
1 „ Carambola fruits, very large.
2 „ Mammee apples.
2 „ Bread.
1 „ Mustard seed, very dark.
1 „ Engineering tools, well made.
1 small ship in bottle.
These seemed to have been received late and were not placed.

Class E.—Poultry.

11 Coops Fowls, 1 cock and 2 hens.
2 „ „ 1 cock and 1 hen.
5 „ Ducks, 1 drake and 2 ducks.
6 „ Pigeons, pairs.
6 „ Turkeys, pairs.
1 Demerara Fox—(Poultry ?.)
11 sets of Eggs, badly numbered of which there were:—
2 sets Turkeys' eggs.
7 „ Fowls' eggs.
2 „ Duck's eggs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 3RD DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1905.

ZACCHEUS FRASER, & Ors.

versus

E. L. JAMIESON, & Ors.

The plaintiffs who oppose the transport by the defendants of Plantations Golden Fleece, de Hoop and Rising Sun claim (1) to be declared the owners of the same which they allege are not the property of the defendants and (2) a deduction that their opposition is just, right and well-founded.

The claim of the plaintiffs who are in possession is based on acquisition by prescription of time it being alleged that they have been in undisturbed possession for the third part of a century. The plaintiffs also say that it is not competent for the defendants to pass transport of the said properties. The defence is a denial that the plaintiffs or any of them acquired by prescription of time or otherwise any right of property or that they or any of them were in possession for the third part of a century. It was also contended that the statement of claim disclosed no cause of action.

This contention I overruled.

From the evidence adduced it appears that Golden Fleece belonged originally to Mr. James Fraser and Rising Sun and de Hoop to Dr. Munro who also owned Foulis. Mr. James Fraser and Dr. Munro were the owners of slaves and the plaintiffs are the descendants with three exceptions of those slaves.

There are 29 plaintiffs, 14 oppose the transport of Golden Fleece and 15 oppose the transport of de Hoop and Rising Sun.

Besides the primary divisions there is a sub-division in the opposition to the transport of Golden Fleece, namely, as to the leeward and windward parts the latter of which has some special evidence.

Mr. Fraser and Dr. Munro both died and the manager of Foulis, one Chisholm, after the departure of the manager of Golden Fleece looked over the latter and received from the slaves who were still on the estate a third of the produce they raised as rent. Foulis was mortgaged to a Mr. Dunoon. Chisholm also overlooked Rising Sun, Dr. Munro's property, including no doubt de Hoop. After his death in Governor Barkly's time that is between 1849 and 1853 Foulis and Golden Fleece were overlooked by George Ross who took no payment as the people worked on the estate. He is described by Henry Cummings, the oldest witness called, "as a kind man who let us off the rent." George Ross was succeeded by Matheson who in his turn was succeeded by Alexander Ross who collected from the occupiers of the land at Golden Fleece what is called 'rates' explained to be a contribution towards the upkeep of the roads, the estate being a Sanitary District and Mr. Ross the Chairman of the local authority.

Digitized by Google

Apparently the same 'rates' as they are called were paid for de Hoop and Rising Sun. The lands on which were held in the same way as those on the leeward half of Golden Fleece. For some portion of this time the people were under the impression that Golden Fleece, de Hoop and Rising Sun belonged to the heirs of their original proprietors and it was under that impression it is said that they continued to make the payments towards the upkeep of the roads, in order to prevent the estates from getting into debt and being lost.

That this was in reality rent I have no doubt for one of the plaintiffs Charles Fraser says: "I remember "Frederick Fraser, he died this year. I remember he "leased the leeward half of Golden Fleece from Mr. "Alexander Ross. This included my bed." This plaintiff helped to collect the money $9 a quarter but says he only paid over whatever he was able to collect.

This was up to 10 or 11 years ago at which time Foulis must have been in cultivation for Henry Cumings says after Mr. Alexander Ross left I did not work on the estate, I went on working on my own ground. I paid no one after Mr. Alexander Ross left. Fordyce Cumings followed in the management of Foulis and while he was there Mr. Jamieson (the father of some of the defendants who has since died) arrived in the colony and resided at Foulis of which he is described to have been the Master. This Mr. Jamieson told the people on the estate (Golden Fleece) to keep the grave of James Fraser clean and to put a cocoanut tree near it, he also said they had better build houses on the estate adding if houses were built the creoles "might want to take away the "estate and they must pay a gill a year to enable "him to claim the estate." This payment was refused but the money collected as rates was paid over to Mr. Jamieson who after a time left the colony. A letter was written to him by Charles and Alexander Fraser, two of the plaintiffs, in the following terms:—

Paradise Village.
West Coast, Berbice.
8th February, 1892.

"Dear Sir,—Your message I have received from "Mr. Ross toward the planting of the cocoanuts and "regarding of the wire the twelve bundle cannot do "for the place. I expect the whole estate to be "wire of. Sir from since we was leasing Pln. Golden "Fleece we does have it tell to the public road. The "people who lease the land displease, have no "privilege for that small piece of reef which carry "on no depth at all. The contract which I have got "from Mr. Ross it is no satisfactory to my mind "Please, Sir, let the contract altered for five years, "whenever I think it fit for the cocoanut. I am "going to put it, in regarding the rice as soon as we "have seen the amount of wire we will know better, "we beg you please you could take this in mind we "are born children of Golden Fleece we have no "were to go. before any privilege should be given "to any one let we have the estate. Regarding the "post we will get growing post, I will not be "able to make no arrangement until I heard further "from you. What make the matter disturb my mind "owners of cattle they are so careless with them, "thing what have never happen before, it happen "now, so, if we could get the wire from the back to "the public road it will be good, and if any contract "should be given by Mr. Ross to us, it must be given "from the back as we did have it before that will "settle the whole question, for we have seen a great "deal of work to be done at the Savanna part if it "cannot be given to us it is no use, for we cannot "continue on that small reef. that all our privilege "we have in the Savanna part. Some gentleman "said, it is impossible for we to have the back alone "we should take it to the public road please you "could settle it for we Everybody send their best "respect and hope to see you once more.

"I am
"Sir
"Your Obdt. Servant,
"CHARLES FRASER &
"ALEXANDER FRASER."

"P. S.—This is our secret letter please you will "send an answer for me at Abary Post Office."

This letter seems to bear out the evidence as to Golden Fleece having been leased by Alexander Fraser and sublet. But the P. S. is difficult to understand and is unexplained in any way.

There was evidently a further attempt to put in writing a proposed lease but the fact that a contract was made is denied and there is no evidence adduced to show that any such was entered into with Mr. Jamieson except the reference to it in the letter. Later on Mr. Wardle comes on the scene and tells the people the estates Golden Fleece, Rising Sun, de Hoop and Washington have been leased to him and the people must pay him rent. Zaccheus Fraser says "Mr. Wardle asked me to pay rent. I said I would not pay rent but rates to keep up the estate if it belonged to Fraser or Jamieson, adding "now we "come to find the estate belonged to our Master we "do our own work. Last week we finished a portion "of the work given us by the Commissary."

Wardle it appears suggested a search being made in the Registrar's Office and the result of the search was that any further payment was refused and when transport was advertised the present opposition was entered.

From the evidence given before me there is no doubt in my mind that neither the plaintiffs nor their parents ever occupied the land with the intention of holding it as their own and it was only when the present plaintiffs were led to doubt the title of the Jamiesons that action was taken. But if this were all, being in the actual possession, they would have a right to retain it against any one who could not show a better title than themselves. Possession gives a right to defend and were there no evidence as to payments of rents the plaintiffs would certainly have a right to oppose any one endeavouring to dispossess them and to put claimants to proof of their own title.

As it is on the evidence I have no doubt, that rent was paid for the lands in question (except generally that on the windward half of Golden Fleece). The plaintiffs therefore have not remained as alleged in the undisturbed possession of the leeward part of Golden Fleece, or of Rising Sun and de Hoop and their contention as to acquisition by prescription fails.

There remains the question of possession which must also be of no avail because rent having been paid the possession is admittedly only that of tenants. It is desired no doubt that it should be gathered from the evidence adduced, that even if this rent has been paid it was not paid to Jamieson as being the owner but was a payment for the purpose of preserving the estates for the representatives of the old slave owners. But in the face of the admission that the lands were leased by Frederick Fraser from Mr. Alexander Ross who represented Jamieson and that money was collected from the people who were aware of this leasing. I cannot gather any such intention. There is no doubt in my mind that the lands were leased at a nominal rent, and that it was only when cattle destroyed the provisions that a dispute arose resulting in the discovery of the fact that the Jamiesons had no transport and the present opposition.

I now come to the windward part of Golden Fleece which stands on a different footing.

An agreement of sale was made between M. McKenzie, the manager of the original owners, and one Quacco Mitchell for the sale of a piece of land on the windward side of Golden Fleece at the price of 58 Joes or $366 67, transport to be passed when the purchase money was paid. The date of this agreement is 23rd January, 1840. The document itself is in such a worn state that it was agreed that the transcript in the Report of the Titles to Land Commission shall be taken as correct, except as to the dimensions. In the report these are given as 58 by 28 roods whereas the evidence gives them as 50 by 28 roods. On looking at the document, however, it is clear that one part of it is missing, just enough to admit of the word eight and part of the word windward. So I take it that in reality the dimensions as given in the Report are correct. According to the evidence no rent has ever been paid (except in one instance) for this land, a part of which was sold by Quacco Mitchell to George Fraser in 1842 (two rods and six feet), and another part (five rods) to David George in 1865. But there is no proof that Quacco Mitchell ever paid the purchase money himself. Those of the plaintiffs who gave evidence of their rights to this land are King Warren, James George, Nathan Fraser and Jeremiah McKenzie.

King Warren's claim is apparently to a piece of land which, he says, was given to his aunt Phillis Daniel, to whom it belongs; she is alive but is not one of the plaintiffs. James George has one bed of 2½ rods on this land which he got from his father David George, who purchased the five rods from Quacco Mitchell.

Nathan Fraser is the son of Alexander Fraser, one of the plaintiffs who is alive. He has a bed on the windward part of Golden Fleece and has worked it on his own account since 1886. This bed was given to Alexander Fraser by his mother Juliet Mitchell, the daughter of Quacco Mitchell. This witness says he paid once to Charles Fraser.

Jeremiah McKenzie says he got the bed he works (one of 2½ rods) 43 years ago, and has not been disturbed.

From the whole case as presented to me, none of the plaintiffs have made out their right to oppose on the grounds set forth in the reasons for opposition.

It was stated at the hearing that the defendants had no wish to deny the right of parties who have paid for the land and who have occupied it as owners.

But by the evidence before me, even with regard to the windward part of Golden Fleece those of the plaintiffs who obtained the beds they occupy, through the persons who purchased them, have not satisfactorily proved their right except possession of a bed each. Certainly not to the whole of Golden Fleece jointly as alleged.

I therefore declare the opposition of all the plaintiffs to be unjust, illegal and unfounded.

The question as to the right of the defendants to pass transport of Golden Fleece, Rising Sun and de Hoop, is a matter which will be settled when application to pass such transport is made.

I give costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 3rd DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1905.

GONSALVES, Appellant,

versus

HATMIL, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate of the Berbice Judicial District, who convicted the appellant on a complaint that he, on the 6th September, 1905, did have in his possession a bag containing 34 lbs. of flour and 12 lbs. of salt-fish, reasonably suspected of having been stolen contrary to law, sub-section 1, Sec. 96, Ordinance 17 of 1893.

The reasons of appeal are:

1. That the decision is erroneous in point of law.

(a.) Because there is no evidence that the goods mentioned were stolen goods or suspected of having been stolen.

(b.) There is no evidence of goods of similar nature having been stolen or lost.

(c.) There is no evidence that the defendant was in possession of goods reasonably suspected of having been stolen.

2. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury, there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict.

The sub-section under which the complaint was brought, is as follows:

"Every person who is charged before the Court with having in his possession or conveying in any manner, anything which is reasonably suspected of having been stolen or unlawfully obtained and who does not give an account to the satisfaction of the Court as to how he came by the same, shall, on being convicted, be liable to a penalty of one hundred and fifty dollars or to imprisonment for six months."

It is argued for the appellant that as there was no evidence of reasonable suspicion, either at the time of the arrest or at the time of trial, that a conviction could not follow even if the Magistrate did not believe the account the defendant gave as to how he became possessed of the articles. It is also argued that as there was no report of the loss of goods such as those in the possession of the defendant that no reasonable suspicion could exist. This reason is of no avail as there was no necessity to prove that goods had been stolen.

There is no doubt, as was said in Butts v. Brunker, 16th January, 1900, that there must be evidence that an accused person was in possession of goods as to which there is some reasonable suspicion that they were either stolen or unlawfully obtained, before he can properly be called upon to satisfy the Court as to how he obtained possession of them; and the grounds of suspicion should be such as to lead any reasonable person to the belief that the goods had been stolen or unlawfully obtained.

In this case, the police received a letter to the effect that a man called Manuel who had a shop in Wapping Lane was in the habit of buying stolen goods from the Asylum and that the time for selling the articles was between 12 and 4 o'clock in the morning.

In consequence of this letter, the police watched the appellant and saw him leave his shop in Wapping Lane between 6 and 7 p.m. in an empty donkey cart. They followed him for some distance in the direction of the Asylum and then fearing to be seen, as some of the attendants were coming along the road, they ambushed. In about half an hour, the appellant returned, the cart then had in it a bag. The police followed the cart and stopped it before appellant reached his shop and asked what was in the bag. The appellant said flour, and on being asked where he got the things from, he replied that he had taken them from his shop to take to Adelphi to a coolie and as it was getting late he had returned.

As he had left the shop with an empty cart only a short while before, this was obviously untrue and a reasonable suspicion would be aroused in a reasonable person on receiving such a reply under the circumstances, especially as some salt-fish was found under the bag. What was wanting in the case of Brunker and Butts is supplied in this case and a reasonable suspicion existed when the appellant was arrested, which justified his being called on to satisfy the Court as to how he obtained possession of the articles found in his cart. The appellant failed to satisfy the Magistrate who convicted him as provided for by the section under which he was charged.

I dismiss the appeal with costs.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 4TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1905.

GRIFFITH, plaintiff,

versus

LAURENCE, defendant.

The plaintiff, in this action, claims $410 as damages, on the ground that the defendant unlawfully ejected him from a shop and land which he possessed, and converted to his own use and wrongfully deprived the plaintiff of the use and possession of the goods in the shop and of the rice and cotton growing on the land.

The defendant, by his statement of defence, admits the plaintiff's possession of the shop and of the land in which the cotton was planted and (by his wife) of the land on which the rice was growing and that he ejected the plaintiff from the shop and took possession of the shop goods therein: he denies taking possession of the cotton or rice or preventing the plaintiff from continuing to cultivate and from reaping the same; and pleads that no force was used in ejecting the plaintiff from his shop and that he was ejected and possession of the goods therein was taken because he had broken the agreement and cheated and defrauded the defendant in the particulars, which is and are set out in the statement of defence.

The first question for decision is, what was the relation which existed between the plaintiff and defendant at the date of the events giving rise to this action?

The plaintiff was, at that date, occupying a building or part of a building on the defendant's plantation as a shop and carrying on the ordinary business of a retail shop-keeper therein. The question is, were that shop and business the shop and business of the plaintiff, for which he obtained the necessary goods by the aid of the defendant and on certain terms and conditions as to the conduct of the business agreed on between the parties to protect the defendant from pecuniary loss, or were they the shop and business of the defendant, carried on by the plaintiff as the defendant's shop-keeper or servant on the terms and conditions just referred to, with the additional understanding that when the business had cleared enough to pay the expenses of starting it, it should then and not till then, become the property of the plaintiff.

The former of these two alteratives is, in my opinion, established by the evidence. This conclusion is based not only on the evidence of the plaintiff but also on the evidence of the defendant, (1) that he took out licences in the plaintiff's name and intended them to be his; (2) that he asked Smith Brothers to supply the plaintiff with goods on his (the defendant's) guaranteeing payment, and it was only on their refusing to do so, that he authorised them to fill orders given by the plaintiff up to $150 and charge them to his (the defendant's) account; (3) that he declined to pay for goods ordered and delivered in excess of that amount; (4) that from time to time the plaintiff bought goods with moneys paid him by the defendant out of moneys received at the shop and previously handed over to the defendant's manager as agreed between them, and whenever goods were so bought, the cash bills were to the defendant's knowledge made out in the plaintiff's name, but no objection to or remark about this was ever made by the defendant; and (5) that he told plaintiff the business was his, (to quote the words of the defendant in giving his evidence) "I told him the business was his, was in his name and was to belong to him and not to me, so whatever he stole he would steal from himself and not from me." It may be added that as partnership between the parties is out of the question and the defendant, by his defence, denies the right of the plaintiff to take goods even from the shop for the use of himself and family, any interpretation of the evidence other than the one arrived at, would lead to the somewhat unreasonable conclusion that the defendant was intended and agreed to carry on, without any remuneration or reward for so doing, a business about to be started, more or less as an experiment, on the chance of obtaining it as his own at some future time, if and when sufficiently remunerative to pay all its debts.

Digitized by Google

The relation between the parties being as stated, the defendant would not have been justified in summarily ejecting the plaintiff from the shop and taking possession of the goods therein, even if the plaintiff failed to keep the terms and conditions agreed on as to the conduct of the business, and his conduct was proved to have been such as is mentioned in the particulars set out in the statement of defence, though the defendant might legally have applied another remedy. But in addition, these particulars are not established by the evidence which, at most, furnishes grounds for suspicion, in respect of some of them.

No actual force was used in ejecting the plaintiff, but inasmuch as he left owing to the peremptory order to leave forthwith given by his landlord who was on the spot and had the means of enforcing his order presently available, I think the non-user of actual force is not an answer to the plaintiff's claim but at most affects the extent of damages recoverable. The plaintiff is therefore entitled to some damages in respect of his ejection from possession of the shop and of the goods therein.

The defendant having (according to his evidence) given over to Cordis the land near the shop planted with cotton, the plaintiff is, in my opinion, entitled to some damages in respect of his eviction therefrom. But, on the evidence, the claim for damages in respect of the rest of the cotton land and of the rice plot, is not, in my opinion, made out.

The question remains what sum should be awarded as damages. The actions which would have been available for the defendant to recover the moneys he paid for the goods being under the Roman-Dutch law actions bonæ fidei he cannot successfully prosecute them now, having ejected the plaintiff from possession and recovered (according to his evidence) substantially the whole amount owing to him from the plaintiff's successor in the shop. Hence the principle of the English decisions Gillard v. Brittan 8 M. and W. 575, and Stephens v. Wilkinson, 2 B. and Ad. 320 is inapplicable, and the value of the goods taken by the defendant, the cost of which had to be borne by the plaintiff, is not the measure of damages in respect of their seizure as contended by counsel. The case more nearly resembles that of Brierley v. Kendall (17, 2 B. 936) and the true criterion in this case as to the sum to be awarded is the damage sustained by the plaintiff by reason of his being ejected and his business stopped summarily instead of in a legal and regular manner. Plaintiff states he never took any money from the business except to purchase goods for the shop, and yet according to his evidence the assets and liabilities of the business were only about equal on the 8th August after the business had been carried on for some months. From his evidence it appears that the only benefit he obtained by carrying on the business was board and lodging in the shop and an adjoining room for himself and his wife, and apparently (though this is not positively stated) for his son and daughter, and this benefit might have been terminated on the expiration of at most a few weeks' notice to the plaintiff.

There is very little evidence as to the value of the cotton crop, what there is, having been given by the defendant, and from that the value of the plaintiff's crop seems to have been not more than $4 or $5, two crops from a piece of land about twice the size of that near the shop cultivated by the plaintiff, having yielded about $14.

I assess the damages at $30 and give judgment for that amount.

[Second Publication.]

THE following TRANSPORTS and MORTGAGES are intended to be passed before one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of British Guiana on any day after Saturday, the 18th day of November, 1905, which such Judge shall be pleased to appoint, viz. :—

1. NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given, in accordance with the requirements of Section 10, Sub-Section 1 of the Cattle Stealing Prevention Ordinance No. 25 of 1905, that all persons who claim to be entitled to the use of any brand are required to notify the Inspector General of Police in writing of such claim.

After the expiration of six months from the date of this notice no person shall be allowed to continue the use of any brand of which the Inspector General of Police shall not have been so informed.

All persons who make such claims shall give particulars of the brand, the Christian and Surnames of (1) the person or persons claiming to be entitled to use it, and (2) the owner of the cattle (in cases of ownership by East Indians, full description of indenture), and also the name of the farm, estate or pasture lands on which the cattle are, and claimant's address.

Particular attention is drawn to the fact that any person who fails, after the expiratian of 6 months from the date of this notice, to submit to the Inspector General of Police their claim of being entitled to the use of any brand, will not be permitted thereafter under this Law to continue to use such brand.

Extract from abovementioncd Ordinance S. 10 s.s. (3).

"If any person shall, after the expiration of six months from the date of such notice, use any brand of which he shall not have given notice to the Inspector General as hereinbefore required, or with regard to which the Inspector General shall have intimated that such brand is not to be used by him, notwithstanding that he may have otherwise complied with the provisions of the Principal Ordinance he shall be subject to such and the like pains and penalties as if he had used such brand without complying with any of such provisions."

Within six months, of the coming into force of Ordinance No. 25 of 1905, hereinbefore referred to, all Cattle are required to be branded. Owners of Cattle are accordingly hereby requested to apply to the Inspector General of Police for brands.

Copies of this Notice will be found at all Police Stations for the guidance of persons who own cattle, and the Police have been directed to assist the public in any point not fully understood.

TENDERS FOR SUPPLIES FOR THE PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE COLONY FOR 1906.

TENDERS are invited for the following Supplies for the Public Service of the Colony for the Calendar Year 1st January to 31st December, 1906. Tenders must be sent to the Officials named hereinafter, not later than 12 o'clock, noon, on Thursday, the 23rd November, 1905.

CLASS XIIb. FLOUR.

CLASS XIIc. SUGAR.

2. Printed forms of tender containing Schedules of Articles, with terms and conditions of Contract may be obtained from the Treasury, Georgetown, and New Amsterdam, on payment of 24 cents per set, of original and duplicate and paper of conditions, &c., and no Tender will be considered unless made on such forms.

3. The forms will be in duplicate, machine numbered. The original will bear the name of the Tenderer and the particulars of the prices tendered, the duplicate only the particulars of the prices tendered, without any mark or sign except the machine number to identify the Tenderer.

4. The original of every Tender must be accompanied by the names of two responsible persons who are willing to become bound together with the Tenderer to execute the Contract to be drawn up in the Registrar's Office in terms of this advertisement, and in accordance with the conditions and specifications set out in or attached to the Tenders, for the due supply of the articles named in the Tender. No Firm can be accepted as surety.

5. The Tenderer will enclose the original bearing his name and the names of his sureties in the prescribed form, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Government Secretary, on the outside of which there shall be written the words :—

"Name of Tenderer enclosed"—
"Tender for supply of*"

and at the same time send the duplicate of his tender, containing the prices tendered, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Auditor General as Chairman of the Committee, and only marked on the outside "Tender for the supply of*"

6. Tenderers are advised to send these documents by Post, registered.

7. Any tender sent to the Chairman bearing on its duplicate or on the sealed envelope any name, note or mark by which the Tenderer can be identified, will be rejected.

8. Every tender must be complete in itself, and state distinctly the respective prices or rates of the supplies tendered for. No tender dependent upon a sliding scale of prices or upon the "Market Rate" will be considered.

9. Tender may be made to supply the articles comprised in a class to all or to any one or more of the Institutions or Departments of the Service.

10. The Government will in no case bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender, and in all cases the acceptance of a Tender will be conditional on security for the performance being given to the satisfaction of the Governor.

11. Any Department or section thereof, may be excluded from the operation of the Contract at the discretion of the Government, at any time during the continuance of the contract.

12. The Government will retain the right of rejecting any Tender without assigning reasons, and prohibiting, without reason assigned, the acceptance of the Tender of any particular person, and no Tenders for supplies to the Lunatic Asylum, Berbice, will be considered which do not expressly provide for the free delivery of such supplies, at that Institution.

13. After the Governor-in-Council has decided on the acceptance of Tenders, the names of the successful Tenderers will be published in the "Gazette."

14. The party whose Tender has been accepted must deposit at the Registrar's Office the fees for drawing up the Contract, and no account will be paid for any articles supplied until such Contract has been duly executed and a copy thereof lodged with the Auditor General.

15. The Contracts must be duly executed on or before the 31st of January, 1906.

16. The Contractor is required to pay all expenses of drawing up the Contract, including the cost of a copy for the Auditor General.

17. All articles are to be supplied on requisition from the Institution or Department requiring them. They are to be of the specified quality, and subject to the approval of the Officer in charge or the Head of the Department concerned. They are to be delivered in such quantities and at such times as may be required, at the cost of the Contractor (except when otherwise provided.)

18. Any articles not in accordance with the Contract will be returned, and if not replaced within a reasonable time by the Contractor by an article in accordance with the Contract, the article may be obtained elsewhere and charged to the Contractor.

19. The Contractor will also be liable on the approval of the Governor to a fine of five dollars for every day on which he neglects or delays to supply any such articles.

20. Detailed Accounts are to be rendered monthly and in triplicate, as required by the Head of the Department supplied.

21. Tenderers for supplies to Institutions in Berbice should state expressly whether they will make free delivery of supplies or not at the Lunatic Asylum, and at the Public Institutions in New Amsterdam. No Tenders for supplies for any Institutions in New Amsterdam will be considered that do not expressly provide for free delivery at a stelling in that town.

By Command,

N. DARNELL DAVIS,
Auditor General,
Chairman of Committee.

TENDERS FOR SUPPLIES FOR THE PUBLIC SERVICE IN BERBICE FOR 1906.

TENDERS are invited for the following Supplies for the Public Service in Berbice for the Calendar Year 1st January to 31st December, 1906. Tenders must be sent to the Officials named hereinafter, not later than 12 o'clock, noon, on Thursday, the 23rd November, 1905.

CLASS VIII. FRESH MEAT.

CLASS XII d. BREAD.

2. Forms of Tender containing Schedule of Articles, with terms and conditions of Contract, may be obtained from the Treasury, Georgetown, and New Amsterdam, on payment of 24 cents per set of original and duplicate, and paper of conditions, &c., and no Tender will be considered unless made on such forms.

3. The forms will be in duplicate, numbered. The original will bear the name of the Tenderer and the particulars of the prices tendered, the duplicate only the particulars of the prices tendered, without any mark or sign except the number to identify the Tenderer.

4. The original of every Tender must be accompanied by the names of two responsible persons who are willing to become bound together with the Tenderer to execute the Contract to be drawn up in the Registrar's Office in terms of this advertisement, and in accordance with the conditions and specifications set out in or attached to the Tenders, for the due supply of the articles named in the Tender. No Firm can be accepted as surety.

5. The Tenderer will enclose the original bearing his name and the names of his sureties in the prescribed form, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Government Secretary, on the outside of which there shall be written the words:—

"Name of Tenderer enclosed"—
"Tender for supply of*"

and at the same time send the duplicate of his tender, containing the prices tendered, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Auditor General as Chairman of the Committee, and only marked on the outside "Tender for the supply of*"

6. Tenderers are advised to send these documents by Post, registered.

7. Any tender sent to the Chairman bearing on its duplicate or on the sealed envelope any name, note or mark by which the Tenderer can be identified, will be rejected.

8. Every tender must be complete in itself, and state distinctly the respective prices or rates of the supplies tendered for. No tender dependent upon a sliding scale of prices or upon the "Market Rate" will be considered.

9. The Government will in no case bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender, and in all cases the acceptance of a Tender will be conditional on security for the performance being given to the satisfaction of the Governor.

10. Any Department or section thereof may be excluded from the operation of the Contract at the discretion of the Government, at any time during the continuance of the Contract.

11. The Government will retain the right of rejecting any Tender without assigning reasons, and prohibiting, without reason assigned, the acceptance of the Tender of any particular person.

12. The party whose Tender has been accepted must deposit at the Registrar's Office the fees for drawing up the Contract, and no account will be paid for any articles supplied until such Contract has been duly executed and a copy thereof lodged with the Auditor General.

The Official Gazette

OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15TH, 1905.

Proclamation.

By His Excellency Sir FREDERIC MITCHELL HODGSON, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Colony of British Guiana, Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

L.S.

F. M. HODGSON,
Governor.

WHEREAS under the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872, the Governor-in-Council is authorised to make proclamation with reference to the landing and safe keeping of Petroleum and other dangerous goods:

And whereas it is expedient that such proclamation should now be made:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, with the advice of the said Council, hereby make Proclamation as follows:—

I. In this Proclamation unless the context otherwise requires, "Volatile Petroleum" means and includes petroleum, petrol, gasoline, naptha, benzine, kerosine oil, rock oil, rangoon oil, Burmah oil, parafin oil, and their products, and any oil made from petroleum, coal, schist, peat, or other bituminous substance, and any product of them, which, when tested in the manner hereinafter prescribed, gives forth an inflammable vapour at a temperature below 85° Fahrenheit.

"Georgetown" means the area bounded East by the side dam between the old Plantation Sophia and Belair, and a continuation of the line of that dam to the Southern boundary hereinafter described.

South by the side dam between the old Plantations Houston and Ruimveld;

West by the Demerara River;

North by the Ocean.

"New Amsterdam" means the area within the municipal limits of New Amsterdam.

II. Volatile Petroleum shall be deemed to be specially dangerous goods within the meaning of the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

Digitized by Google

III. (1.) The tests applicable to Volatile Petroleum shall be those set forth in the Schedule hereto.

(2.) The tests shall be applied by the Government Analyst or any Assistant Analyst appointed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Ordinance, 1892.

IV. The Petroleum Magazine on Kelly's Dam, Georgetown, is hereby appointed a magazine for the storage of specially dangerous goods under the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

V. The iron and concrete building on the western side of the Government Laboratory, Georgetown, is hereby appointed a magazine for the storage of specially dangerous goods under the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

The iron and concrete building on the southern side of the Queen's College Science Class Room, Georgetown, is hereby appointed a magazine for the storage of specially dangerous goods under the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

The iron and concrete building, called the Skipping Magazine, is hereby appointed a magazine for the storage of dangerous goods under the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

VI. No Volatile Petroleum shall be imported into this Colony unless it be packed in strong iron or steel drums (insurance drums) of not more than 10 gallons capacity and cased in wood.

VII. No Volatile Petroleum shall be landed or removed between sunset and sunrise.

VIII. Except as hereinafter provided Volatile Petroleum shall not be imported or kept in Georgetown or New Amsterdam.

Outside Georgetown and New Amsterdam Volatile Petroleum may be imported and kept without restriction as long as Articles VI., VII. and IX. are complied with.

IX. (a.) On the arrival from abroad at the ports of Georgetown or New Amsterdam of a vessel containing Volatile Petroleum intended to be unloaded there, such Volatile Petroleum shall be discharged by the master under the supervision of the Customs Department either into some other vessel before the importing vessel goes alongside any wharf or stelling, or at any wharf or stelling.

(b.) Such last mentioned vessel shall forthwith proceed to deliver the Volatile Petroleum at its destination, if that destination be outside Georgetown or New Amsterdam .

(c.) If the destination of the Volatile Petroleum be inside the limits of Georgetown or New Amsterdam, it shall be discharged at any wharf or stelling from whence it shall be removed without delay to a magazine appointed for its storage.

X. It shall not be lawful to remove Volatile Petroleum from any magazine appointed for its storage without a written order from the Comptroller of Customs accompanying each vehicle and specifying in each case—

(a.) The description of Volatile Petroleum ;
(b.) The quantity to be removed ;
(c.) The destination of such quantity ;
(d.) The time in which removal is to be effected ;
(e.) The number of packages, their contents, and distinguishing marks.
(f.) The precautions to be taken by the person removing, both to protect the goods from ignition and to give notice to the public that dangerous goods are being conveyed.

Digitized by Google

It shall not be lawful to remove any Volatile Petroleum contrary in any particular to any matter specified in such order.

It shall not be lawful to remove Volatile Petroleum to any place within Georgetown or New Amsterdam except to a Magazine appointed for the storage of specially dangerous goods or from any Magazine to any other Magazine within those places, unless such petroleum complies with the following requirements:—

(a.) Is packed as prescribed in Article VI. or unless it is kept in separate glass, earthenware or metal vessels each of which contains not more than one gallon and is securely stoppered."

(b.) Unless the person removing it takes all such precautions as may be prescribed by the Magazine Keeper, both to protect the goods from ignition and also to give notice to the public that dangerous goods are being conveyed.

XII. It shall not be lawful for any person within Georgetown or New Amsterdam to keep Volatile Petroleum in any quantity exceeding one gallon, unless such petroleum shall be stored in a magazine duly appointed under the Petroleum Ordinance, 1872.

XIII. Every vessel in which Volatile Petroleum is kept shall have attached thereto a red label having in conspicuous characters the words—

"Very Dangerous."

"Caution."

"Great care must be taken in bringing any light near the contents of this vessel as they give off an inflammable vapour at a temperature of less than eighty-five degrees of Fahrenheit's Thermometer."

Not more than one vessel containing volatile petroleum shall be permitted to be unstoppered at one time whether the same be in a magazine or in any other place.

Nothing in this Proclamation contained shall apply to any Volatile Petroleum in the tank of any locomotive in use by land or water; or in any gas-making machine contained in any magazine mentioned in Article V. of this Proclamation.

This Proclamation shall come into force on the 1st day of December, 1905, after which date the Proclamation of the 31st day of August, 1904, shall be void and of none effect.

Given under my Hand and the Public Seal of the Colony, at the Guiana Public Buildings, Georgetown, Demerara, this 10th day of November, 1905, and in the Fifth Year of His Majesty's Reign.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

By His Excellency's Command,

CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

THE SCHEDULE.

Directions for Testing Petroleum.

Specification of the Test Apparatus.

The following is a description of the details of the apparatus :—

The oil cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2 inches diameter, $2\frac{1}{10}$ inches height (internal), with outward projecting rim $\frac{5}{10}$ inches wide, $\frac{3}{8}$ inches from the top, and $1\frac{7}{8}$ inches from the bottom of the cup. It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B.W.G.) tinned inside. A bracket, consisting of a short stout piece of wire bent upwards and terminating in a point, is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge. The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches. The cup is provided with a close-fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B.W.G.), which carries the thermometer and test lamp. The latter is suspended from two supports from the sides by means of trunnions upon which it may be made to oscillate ; it is provided with a spout, the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{16}$ inches in diameter. The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle, and its length is so adjusted that the bulb of the thermometer, when inserted to its full depth is $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches below the centre of the lid.

The cover is provided with three square holes, one in the centre, $\frac{5}{10}$ inches by $\frac{4}{10}$ inches, and two smaller ones, $\frac{3}{10}$ inches by $\frac{2}{10}$ inches, close to the sides and opposite each other. These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves, and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid.

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. Upon the slide being pushed back, so as to cover the holes, the the lamp returns to its original position.

Upon the cover in front of and in line with the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead, the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used.

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat-bottomed copper cylinders (24 B.W.G.), an inner one of 3 inches diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$ inches height, and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches diameter and $5\frac{3}{4}$ inches height ; they are soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B.W.G.), perforated in the centre, which forms the top of the bath in such a manner as to enclose the space between the two cylinders, but leaving access to the inner cylinder. The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about $\frac{3}{8}$ inches ; that is, its diameter is about $\frac{6}{8}$ inches greater than that of the body of the bath, while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder. To the inner projection of the top is fastened by six small screws, a flat ring of ebonite, the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite, to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup. The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath and of the oil lamp is $\frac{1}{2}$ an inch. A split socket, similar to that on the cover of the oil cup, but set at a right angle, allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders. The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe, and two loop handles.

The bath rests upon a cast-iron tripod stand, to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B.W.G.) flanged at the top, and of such dimensions that the bath, while firmly resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward-turned flange. The diameter of this outer jacket is $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches. One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp attached to it by means of a small swing bracket. The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1 inch.

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus, one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath, and the other for determining the flashing point. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top. Its range is from about 90° to 190° F. The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on the ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way. It is fitted with a metal collar, fitting the socket, and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches, measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with a collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described. It has a round bulb, a space at the top, and ranges from about 55° to 150 ° F. ; it measures from the end of the ivory back to the bulb, $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

The pendulum provided with the apparatus is two feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight.

Direction for Preparing the Sample for Testing and for Preparing and using the Test Apparatus.

1. Preparing the Sample for Testing.—About ten fluid ounces of the oil, sufficient for three tests, are transferred from the sample bottle into which the sample has been drawn to a pint flask or bottle, which is to be immersed in water artificially cooled until a thermometer introduced into the oil shows a temperature not exceeding 60° F.

2. Preparing the water-bath.—The water-bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the overflow pipe. The temperature of the water at the commencement of each test, as indicated by the long bulb thermometer, is to be 140° F.,

and this is attained in the first instance by mixing hot and cold water, either in the bath or in a vessel from which the bath is filled until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication ; or the water is heated by means of a spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) or by a gas burner, until the required temperature is indicated.

3. Preparing the test lamp.—The test lamp is fitted with a piece of cylindrical wick, of such thickness that it fills the wick-holder, but may readily be moved to and fro for the purpose of adjusting the size of the flame. In the body of the lamp, upon the wick, which is coiled within it, is placed a small tuft of cotton wool, moistened with petroleum, any oil not absorbed by the wool being removed. When the lamp has been lighted, the wick is adjusted by means of a pair of forceps or a pin, until the flame is the size of the bead fixed on the cover of the oil cup; should a particular test occupy so long a time that the flame begins to get smaller, through the supply of oil in the lamp becoming exhansted, three or four drops of petroleum are allowed to fall upon the tuft of wool in the lamp from the dropping bottle or pipette provided for the purpose. This can be safely done without interrupting the test. Where gas is available, a small gas jet may be used in the place of the oil lamp.

4. Filling the oil cup.— Before the oil-cup is filled, the lid is to be made ready for being placed upon the cup, i.e., the round bulb thermometer is to be inserted into the socket (so that the projecting rim of the collar with which it is fitted touches the edge of the socket), and the test lamp is to be placed in position. The oil-cup having been previously cooled by placing it bottom downwards in water at a temperature not exceeding 60° F., is now to be rapidly wiped dry, placed on a level surface in a good light, and the oil to be tested is poured in without splashing until its surface is level with the point of the gauge which is fitted in the cup. The lid is then put on the cup at once, and pressed down, so that the edge rests on the rim of the cup.

5. Application of the test.—The water bath, with its thermometer in position, is placed in some locality where it is not exposed to currents of air, and where the light is sufficiently subdued to admit of the size of the entire test flame being compared with that of the bead on the cover. The cup is carefully lifted without being shaken, and the test lamp lighted. The thermometer in the oil-cup is now watched, and when the temperature has reached 66° F., the operation of testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree.

If the oil-cup is provided with the automatic (Pensky's) arrangement for opening and shutting the slide, the clockwork is wound up by turning the knob from left to right, and set in motion by pressing the trigger.

If the slide is intended to be moved by hand, it should be drawn open slowly and shut quickly. The exact time to be observed in this operation is regulated by the swing of the pendulum supplied with this form of instrument. The opening of the slide should take the time of three oscillations, the shutting of the slide the time of the fourth oscillation of the pendulum. (By one oscillation is meant the passage of the ball of the pendulum from the greatest distance from the vertical on the one side to the greatest distance on the other.)

If a flash comes at the first applicatiou of the test flame (at 66° F.) or at any point below 88° F., the operation is to be repeated with a fresh portion of the oil which is cooled down to 55° F. before being placed in the cup. The first application of the test flame is made when the oil has reached 60° F.

In repeating a test, a fresh sample of the oil must always be used, the tested sample being thrown away.

If no flash takes place at 66° F., the operation is repeated at every degree rise of temperature until the flash occurs or until a temperature of 88 °F. has been reached.

If the flash takes place at any temperature below 85° F. the temperature at which it occurs is to be recorded. The fresh portions of the sample are then to be successively tested in a similar manner and the results recorded. If no greater difference than 2° F. exists between any two of the recorded results, the overage of the three results is the flashing point of the sample. In the event of there being a greater difference than 2° F. between any two of the three recorded results, the series of tests is to be rejected, and a fresh series of three similarly obtained, and so on until a sufficiently concordant series is furnished, when the average is to be taken in the manner already described.

If a temperature of 85° F. has been reached without a flash occurring, the testing officer shall certify that the samples do not consist of volatile petroleum : Provided that when all or any of the petroleum on board a ship or in possession of a dealer is declared by the master of the ship or the consignee of the cargo or by the dealer, as the case may be, to be of one uniform quality, the petroleum shall not be certified as volatile if the samples selected from the petroleum have their flashiug points, on an average, at or about 83° F, and if no one of those samples has its flashing point below 30° F.

Court of Policy Notice.

HALL OF THE COURT OF POLICY,
Georgetown, Demerara,
11th November, 1905.

THE following Regulations, made by the Governor and Court of Policy under the Explosives Ordinance, 1889, on the 31st day of October, 1905, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Clerk of the Court.

REGULATIONS AS TO THE IMPORTATION OF CERTAIN EXPLOSIVES AND THEIR STORAGE AND TRANSPORT WITHIN THE COLONY.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Explosives Regulations, 1905.

2. For the purposes of these regulations the word explosive means and includes Nitro-Compounds, Chlorate-Mixtures, Fulminates, and Detonators.

3. "Nitro-compound" means any chemical compound possessed of explosive properties or capable of combining with metals to form an explosive compound which is produced by the chemical action of nitric acid (whether alone or mixed with sulphuric acid) or of a nitrate mixed with sulphuric acid upon any carbonaceous substance whether such compound is mechanically mixed with other substances or not.

"Chlorate-Mixture" means any explosive containing a chlorate.

"Fulminate" means any chemical compound or mechanical mixture which from its great susceptibility to detonation is suitable to employment in percussion caps or any other appliances for developing detonation or which from its extreme sensibility to explosion and from its great instability (that is to say, readiness to undergo decomposition from very slight exciting causes) is especially dangerous.

"Detonator" means a capsule or case which is of such strength and construction and contains a fulminate in such quantity that the explosion of one capsule or case will communicate the explosion to other like capsules or cases.

"Outer package" means a box, barrel, case, or cylinder of wood, metal, or other solid material, of such strength, construction, and character that it will not be broken or accidentally opened, nor become defective or insecure whilst being conveyed, and will not allow any explosive to escape.

"Inner package" means a substantial case, bag, canister, or other receptacle, made and closed so as to prevent any explosive from escaping.

Importation and Transhipment of Explosives.

4. The master of every ship arriving in the Colony with explosives on board shall give notice to the Harbour Master when he visits such ship, of the fact that such explosives are on board.

5. Every ship loading or discharging explosives shall moor abreast of Fort William Frederick, but not nearer than 75 fathoms from low water mark on the east bank of the river, and no vessel arriving at the Port of Georgetown with explosives shall proceed up the river until such explosives have been discharged off Fort William Frederick.

6. Every ship lieing off Fort William Frederick and having explosives on board, shall carry at her mast-head, by day, a red flag not less than seventy-two inches square, and by night, a red light.

7. No fire or light of any description shall be permitted on board any ship or boat loading or discharging explosives except in the case of steamers which may use their engine fires.

8. No person shall carry lucifer or other matches whilst employed in the landing, shipment, loading, discharging or stowage of explosives. No person shall smoke or be in possession of a naked light whilst so employed.

9. Every boat, punt or other vessel employed for the landing, transport or shipment of explosives shall, whilst so employed, carry a red flag not less than eighteen inches square, hoisted on a pole not less than six feet in height above the gunwale.

10. No ship shall load or discharge explosives between sunset and sunrise, and no boat, punt or other vessel shall be employed for the landing, transport or shipment of explosives between sunset and sunrise.

11. The amount of the explosives conveyed in any one ship, boat or carriage at any one time from or to a magazine, shall not exceed 2,000 lbs., unless the carriage be enclosed on all sides with wood or metal, or the ship or boat have a close deck, so closed as effectually to protect the explosive against accident by fire from without, in which case the amount of the explosives conveyed shall not exceed the following :—

In any one other carriage ...	...	...	2 „
In any one ship or boat ...	...	...	20 „

KEEPING EXPLOSIVES.

12. No explosive shall be kept in any place or premises whether on land or on water not duly licensed as a magazine for the storage of explosives, or the premises of a person not duly licensed to sell explosives by wholesale or retail, under the Explosives Ordinance, 1889 :

Provided always that—

(a.) It shall be lawful for any person to keep without a license in private premises for his private use and not for trade purposes any amount not exceeding five pounds Avoirdupois in weight of any explosive;

(b.) The provisions of this Regulation shall not apply to the case of any person conveying explosives from place to place in accordance with these regulations.

13.—(1.) No nitro-compound, which shall have been more than six months in the Colony, shall be kept in any magazine unless the said compound has been examined by the Government Analyst who may, after such examination, either allow the said compound to be kept for such further period as he shall think fit or order the same to be either immediately used or to be destroyed in such manner and in such place as he shall specify.

(2.) Any expenses incurred in connection with the examination hereinbefore provided for shall be borne by the person in whose name the nitro-compound is stored.

14.—(1.) Every hulk or floating magazine shall be painted externally vermilion, and shall have the words "Explosives" legibly printed on both sides in large letters of white paint at least two feet in height and such hulk or magazine shall be moored fore and aft in the position laid down by the resolution appointing it.

(2.) Every magazine other than hulks or floating magazines shall have the words "Explosives" legibly printed on each side in large letters of white paint at least two feet in height.

PACKING OF EXPLOSIVES.

Rules with respect to the packing of explosives for removal.

15. Each class of explosive mentioned in Regulation 3 shall be separately packed and each case shall be legibly labelled.

16. An explosive, not being a fulminate, shall if not exceeding 5 lbs. in quantity, be contained in a substantial case, bag, canister, or other receptacle made and closed so as to prevent the explosive from escaping.

Digitized by Google

17. In every other case the explosive shall be contained in a double package.

18. If the explosive is a nitro-compound, the quantity of the explosive in any one outer package shall not exceed 50 lbs. If the explosive is picric, the inner package must be of such a nature as to effectually prevent any picric acid from coming into contact with any basic metallic oxide.

19. If the explosive is a nitro-compound or a chlorate-mixture the inner package shall be without any metal in its construction, and the inner or outer package, or both, shall be thoroughly waterproof. No one of the inner packages shall contain more than 10 lbs., and the aggregate quantity of the explosive in any one outer package shall not exceed 50 lbs.

20. If the explosive is a fulminate, and is of such character that it cannot be packed mixed with water, or that danger would arise from such mode of packing, it shall be packed in such manner as shall be specially directed by the Governor-in-Council.

21. Any other fulminate shall be packed as follows:—

In bags or coverings of calico, canvas or other material permeable to water, and containing each not more than 25 lbs. of fulminate, and so made and closed as to prevent any explosive from escaping. Such bags or coverings shall be packed in a case containing sufficient water to ensure the explosive being kept constantly wet, and such case (hereinafter called the inner case) shall be packed in an outer case containing sufficient water constantly to surround the inner case; and the inner case and the outer case shall each be of such strength, construction and character that it will not be broken or accidentally opened, or become defective or insecure whilst being conveyed, and will not allow any fulminate or water to escape; and the amount of the explosive in any one outer case shall not exceed 200 lbs.

22. Every package when actually used for the packing of one fulminate shall not be used for the packing of any other fulminate or for any other purpose.

23. On the outer case there shall be affixed in conspicuous characters by means of a brand or securely attached label or other mark the word "Explosive" with the name of the explosive followed by the words "Fulminate," and the name and address of the sender.

24. If the explosive consists of detonators and does not exceed 1,000 in any one consignment it shall be packed when the quantity does not exceed 5 lbs. in amount, in a single outer package; otherwise in a double package, the inner and outer packages being as defined in Regulation 3:

Provided that the detonators and the spaces between the same, and between the sides of the inner package and said detonators, shall all be filled, as far as practicable with fine sawdust or other similar material; a layer of felt or other soft yielding material shall be placed between both ends of all the detonators and the interior of the package in which the same are placed, in such a manner, and so secured, that both ends of the detonators will rest upon the said cotton wool or other material; every inner package, if of metal, to be lined throughout with paper or other soft material:

If the explosive exceeds 1,000 detonators in any one consignment the detonators shall be packed in inner packages, with sawdust and cotton wool as above described. Such inner packages shall be placed inside a substantial case of wood or metal, made and closed so as to prevent any of the inner packages escaping therefrom, and such case shall be placed inside an outer package in such manner and so secured as to leave a clear space of not less than three inches between the case and every part of the interior of the said outer package notwithstanding that such clear space may, if preferred, be filled with sawdust, straw, or other similar material, or may contain a light framework or battens of wood to keep the case aforesaid in position in the outer package; and

Where the number of detonators exceeds 5,000, such outer package shall be provided with handles or other contrivance by means of which it can be safely and conveniently carried:

Provided that in the case of electric detonators where the number in any outer package exceeds 3,000, such outer package shall be provided with handles or other contrivance by means of which it can be safely and conveniently carried:

25. The number of detonators contained in any one outer package shall not exceed 10,000 in number and if the detonators are electric detonators shall not exceed 5,000 in number. The number of detonators or of electric detonators contained in any one inner package shall not exceed 100 in number.

26. Nothing in these regulations shall be deemed to prohibit the use of an additional packing whether inner or outer provided that such additional packing shall be in either case in accordance with the requirements of these Regulations.

27. Whatever be the amount of the explosive and of whatever kind the following conditions shall be observed:—

(a.) The interior of every package, whether single or double, shall be kept free from grit and otherwise clean;

(b.) Every package, whether single or double, when actually used for the packing of the explosive, shall not be used for the packing of any explosive of any other kind or for any other purpose.

(c.) There shall not be any iron or steel in the construction of any such single package or inner or outer package unless the same is effectually covered with tin, zinc, or other suitable material;

Digitized by Google

(d.) On the outermost package there shall be affixed, in conspicuous characters, by means of a brand or securely attached label or mark " Explosive " followed by the name of the explosive or other description of the contents and the name and the address of the owners or senders and ;

(e.) The amount of the explosive in any single package or, if there is a double package, in any one outer package, shall not exceed the amount specified in the foregoing rules.

(f.) Explosives made up into cartridges or charges for mines, blasting or other like purposes, shall be packed in such manner and in such quantity as is required for the same explosive when not so made up; provided that where a double package is required, the enclosing case of such cartridges or charges, may, if it satisfy the conditions required for an inner package, be held to be such inner package.

MODE OF CONVEYANCE.

Rules with respect to the conveyance of explosives.

28. No explosive shall be conveyed from place to place unless packed in the manner provided for in the foregoing Regulations.

29. There shall not be conveyed in any carriage or vessel which is being used for the conveyance of an explosive, any explosive of a different kind of whatsoever nature which contains its own means of ignition, unless it is sufficiently separated therefrom to prevent any fire or explosion which may take place in one such explosive being communicated to another.

30. Except in the case of small consignments carried by railway, which may be unloaded at any time, explosives shall be loaded or unloaded only between sunrise and sunset.

For the purposes of this Regulation no consignment of more than half a wagon-load booked to one station shall be deemed to be a small consignment.

31. Whilst the explosive is being loaded on, or unloaded out of any carriage or vessel, no fire or artificial light, nor any article which is liable to cause or communicate fire or explosion, volatile petroleum or any spirit or oil or substance that gives forth an inflammable vapour at a temperature below 85 degrees Fahrenheit, when tested in the Abel-Pensky apparatus, shall be or shall be allowed to be brought, had or used dangerously near to such carriage, ship or boat, and no smoking shall be allowed in, on or dangerously near to the same :

Provided that when the light for the purposes of such loading or unloading is absolutely necessary a lamp of such construction, position or character as not to cause any danger from fire or explosion may be used ; and no person, while landing any explosive shall wear boots or shoes with iron or steel nails, heels or tips.

32. In the loading or unloading of any explosive, the casks and packages containing the same shall be passed from hand to hand and not rolled upon the ground; they shall not be thrown or dropped down, but shall be carefully deposited and stowed.

33. The explosive shall not be conveyed except in the interior of a carriage so enclosed on all sides with wood or metal, or in the hold of a ship or boat having a close deck so closed as effectually to protect the explosive against accident by fire from without. If the explosive cannot be so secured, it shall be completely covered with painted cloth, tarpaulin or other suitable material, so as to effectually protect it against communication of fire.

There shall not be any iron or steel in the interior of the portion of the carriage, ship or boat with which the case containing the explosive is in contact, unless the same is effectually covered with leather, wood, cloth or other suitable material.

34. In the stowing of the explosive, due precaution shall be taken by means of a partition or otherwise, and by careful stowing to secure such explosive from being brought into contact with, or endangered by, any other article or substance conveyed in such carriage or vessel which is liable to cause fire or explosion; and if the explosive is dangerously affected by water, due precautions shall be taken to exclude water from coming into contact with such explosive.

35. No explosive shall be conveyed in a carriage or boat whilst carrying or plying for public passengers, unless the quantity is less than 5 lbs. and notice has been given beforehand to the person in charge of such carriage or boat:

Provided that there shall not be conveyed in any such carriage, or boat any fulminate, detonators or nitro-compound, except—

(a.) Dynamite, which may be carried in the form of cartridges up to the limit of 5 lbs:

Provided that no detonators are carried in the same compartment.

(b.) Detonators, which may be carried to the number of 200; provided that in no case the amount of fulminate in the package or packages containing the detonators exceeds in the aggregate 5 ozs. (a certificate to this effect being given by the Company, firm, or person tendering the detonators for transport, or by its or his agent.):

Provided also that no dynamite is carried in the same compartment.

36. With respect to the conveyance by carriage or vessel of any explosive in larger quantities than 5 lbs., the following regulations shall be observed:—

Digitized by Google

The person in charge of the carriage or vessel shall not drive or conduct the same in a dangerous or reckless manner, and shall take all due precautions to avoid fire and explosion, and no person shall do any act or thing in relation to the explosive which tends to cause fire or explosion, and is not reasonably necessary for the conveyance of the explosive or for work immediately connected with such conveyance; and a person who is intoxicated shall not have charge of any carriage or vessel conveying explosive, and shall not be permitted to be in, or on, or attending the same.

37. No person shall forward to any warehouseman or carrier a consignment of explosives unless he has given notice to such warehouseman or carrier beforehand, stating the name and quantity of the explosive proposed to be conveyed and the name and address of the proposed consignee, and has had an intimation that the warehouseman or carrier is prepared to receive the consignment and a warehouseman or carrier shall not make such an intimation nor receive such consignment, unless he is prepared to receive it and forthwith to despatch the same, or to deposit it in a magazine or at a place at which a person is licensed to possess the same.

38. The carriage or vessel conveying the explosive shall be in charge of, and constantly attended by, some competent person, or by a sufficient number of competent persons, and such persons shall not, if the amount of the explosive conveyed exceed 100 lbs., stop or delay for a longer time than may be reasonably necessary, or stop unnecessarily at any place.

39. No person shall send for carriage upon any railway any consignment of an explosive, unless he has given to the officer in charge of the railway station previous notice in writing, which, at the option of the railway company may extend to forty-eight hours, of his intention to send such consignment, and stating the true name, description and quantity, and mode of packing of the explosive proposed to be conveyed, and his own name and address, also the name and address of the proposed consignee, and unless he has had an intimation in writing from an authorised officer of the railway that such consignment will be received.

40. No explosive which a railway company shall, by any notice or regulation for the time being in force, notify that they will not receive shall be brought, sent or forwarded to or upon any railway of the said railway company.

41. Consignments of explosives shall be sent to the forwarding station and shall be received by the railway servants only at such times between sunrise and sunset as the railway company may appoint; and every package containing any explosive proposed to be conveyed on any railway shall, immediately on arrival at the station, be unloaded and placed in a safe place under the special direction of the officer in charge of the station.

42. An explosive shall be removed by the consignee from the receiving station during the twelve hours of daylight after arrival; if this condition is not strictly complied with the railway company may return the consignment to the consignor at his risk and expense, and such packages shall, in the meantime, be kept as far away from the station buildings as possible in the wagon they were conveyed in, or, if unloaded, shall be completely covered with tarpaulins or other suitable material, and, if necessary, shall be protected by a police guard.

Digitized by Google

43. The railway company may refuse to receive any packages which they suspect to contain any explosive packed or sent in contravention of these regulations. And in case any package which the railway company suspect shall be upon any railway, the railway company may open, or require to be opened, such package, to ascertain the fact at the risk and expense of the consignor and may return the explosives contained in the packages to the consignor at his risk and expense, keeping the packages, pending such return, in the manner prescribed in the preceding Regulation.

44. Subject to the exception provided for in clause (c) hereof, no explosive shall be conveyed by passenger train, except of the kinds and in the manner hereinafter specified in this Regulation:—

(a.) Dynamite which may be carried in the form of cartridges up to the limit of 5 lbs:

Provided that no detonators are carried in the same compartment.

(b.) Detonators which may be carried to the number of 200; provided that in no case the amount of fulminate of mercury in the package or packages containing the detonators exceeds in the aggregate 5 ozs. (a certificate to this effect being given by the Company, firm, or person tendering the detonators for transport, or by its or his agent.):

Provided also that no dynamite is carried in the same compartment.

(c) Explosives may be carried by mixed trains on any line on which goods trains are not running, subject to the conditions that no more than one vehicle containing explosives is forwarded at any one time by a mixed train; that the precautions prescribed for conveyance by goods trains are observed; and that, directly a wagon containing explosives arrives at a section on which goods trains are running, it is detached from the mixed trains.

45. Not more than two carriages containing explosives shall be loaded or unloaded at any railway station or be conveyed by any one goods train at any one time; and the quantity of explosive to be contained in any one carriage shall not exceed two-thirds of the normal load.

46. There shall not be conveyed in the same carriage with any explosive any lucifer or other matches, fuzes, pipelights, acids, naphtha, paraffine, petroleum, or any other volatile spirit or substance liable to give off an inflammable vapour or liable to spontaneous ignition, or to cause or to communicate fire or explosion.

47. The consignor shall attach to the consignment note a certificate, in the case of dynamite and any nitro-glycerine compounds, that there are no signs of exudation of nitro-glycerine or of liquefaction. The consignor shall also certify that the explosive as been packed in accordance with these regulations. The above-mentioned certificate shall contain sufficient information to admit of all packages being easily recognised.

This certificate shall be valid for two months after date. But any railway company which accepts dynamite or other nitro-compounds for transport may demand a fresh certificate under the hand of the Government Analyst.

48. Packages containing dynamite or other nitro-compound shall be stowed in one layer only and secured so as to prevent movement during transit and the gross load in any one wagon shall not exceed five tons:

Provided that if the packages of dynamite are in rectangular form and are properly secured so as to prevent movement during transit, they may be stored in any number of layers not exceeding five, and the gross load in any one wagon shall not exceed five tons.

49. Five layers of packages in rectangular form and of uniform size (provided they are double packages and are so secured as to prevent movement during transit) may be packed one above another. Otherwise, not more than three layers of packages containing explosives shall be packed one above another. The loading and unloading of explosives when once begun shall be diligently proceeded with until the same is completed.

50. Except under the provisions of Regulation 44 (b) no detonators shall be carried in the same train with dynamite or other nitro-compound, or with chlorate-mixtures.

51. Wagons used for the carriage of explosives shall be examined to see that they are spark-proof and have been cleaned out before they are loaded. Hair, cloth, hides, or other suitable materials shall be spread on the floor of the wagon and between each layer of packages, except when the packages are covered with gunny or felt.

52. Wagons containing explosives shall be loaded and unloaded on sidings distant as far as possible from the station buildings.

53. When the goods train is being marshalled, wagons loaded with explosives may be shunted by a locomotive, if they are separatedfrom the engine by not less than three wagons containing no explosive nor easily inflammable substance or other nitro-compounds or chlorate mixture. The speed of these movements shall be restricted to 5 miles an hour; they shall be superintended by a duly authorised officer, who shall be held responsible for the observance of these orders. Flying shunts are strictly prohibited.

54. Wagons containing explosives shall be placed at the end of the goods train away from the locomotive and shall be close coupled to one another as well as to the adjoining wagons, and preceded and followed by three wagons not loaded with explosives or other traffic of an inflammable nature.

55. If the wagons employed in the transport of explosives are provided with brakes, the brakes thereon shall on no account be worked while the wagons are running with the train, nor shall brakes, other than iron brakes on vehicles immediately adjoining such wagons, be worked while such wagons are so running.

56. Wagons shall in every case be locked when loaded with explosives.

57. All operations connected with the transhipment of explosives shall take place between sunrise and sunset.

58. Whoever commits or is concerned in the commission of a breach of any of the foregoing Regulations shall upon conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

59. When any breach of these Regulations is committed, all persons in any way assisting or concerned in the commission of such breach, and the master or any other person having the control of any ship or boat on board of which such breach has been committed shall be severally answerable for such breach.

These Regulations shall come into force on publication.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 11TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1905.

PATRICK DARGAN,
SUSAN DODDS, Widow.

Ex parte the Administrator Guardians under the last will and testament of P. L. de Saffon, deceased.

This is a claim by the Administrator Guardians of the Estate of F. L. de Saffon to certain articles taken in execution on a judgment obtained by Patrick Dargan against Susan Dodds for rent.

The claim is based on the following grounds:

1. That the said articles so levied on are the bonâ fide property of the claimants and were not liable to be taken in execution for the debt or debts of Susan Dodds.

2. That the said articles were in the possession of the said Susan Dodds at the time they were taken in execution under a contract between her and the claimants by which she was entitled to the use only of the said articles in the premises used by her as a boarding house in consideration of a monthly payment of $10.

At the hearing it was agreed that the articles dealt with in this decision should be those mentioned in the inventory of the 14th June, 1904, a definite list of which was to be handed to the Court.

It appears that Mrs. Dodds left her house named Woodside, the mortgage on which was foreclosed by the Administrator Guardians, and rented from Mr. Dargan Sea View where she kept a boarding house.

In June, 1904, the present claimants levied on the furniture at Sea View which was advertised for sale and was sold—not in lots but as a whole. The Administrator Guardians bought the furniture themselves but did not remove it, allowing Mrs. Dodds to retain it on an arrangement to hire it at $10 a month. The agreement was not in writing. Mr. Culpeper, one of the Administrator Guardians, says the furniture was levied on for a debt due to the de Saffon estate, it was sold at execution sale and the proceeds were uplifted by the de Saffon estate.

Mrs. Dodds continued to carry on her boarding house but getting into arrears with her rent judgment was obtained against her on 26th August this year, and the articles claimed were levied on on 13th September last, at which time Mrs. Dodds, according to Mr. Culpeper's evidence, was also in arrear for the $10 a month for hire of the furniture, she having paid up to the end of May only.

During Mrs. Dodds' tenancy whenever she paid rent she did so to Mr. Bagot, through one of his clerks, under an arrangement by which such rent was to be applied to pay off a debt due by Mr. Dargan to a constituent of Mr. Bagot. It was sought to be argued that the clerk referred to was the agent of Mr. Dargan, as letters passed between him and Mrs. Dodds as to the rent, but it is clear from the evidence that the only agency was on behalf of Mr. Bagot to receive the rent, Mr. Dargan retaining in his own hands all questions as to the amount of rent and the tenancy.

There is no evidence that Mr. Bagot or his clerk knew of the sale except possibly by seeing the usual advertisement in the "Official Gazette," but it is argued that as this is a small community in which every one knows the business of his neighbour the fact that the furniture was purchased by the Administrator Guardians and let to Mrs. Dodds, must have been known to them as well as to Mr. Dargan. In the ordinary course of things this is undoubtedly so but Mr. Dargan says that he was unaware of this hiring and the Court cannot hold under the circumstances that he was aware of it. Another argument is urged that if he did not know of the sale it was through his own negligence in not perusing the "Official Gazette." But even if this is so it does not follow that he was aware of who the purchaser was or what arrangement was made between the Administrator Guardians and Mrs. Dodds. Mr. Dargan says he considered that that lady was insolvent and the furniture would be liable for the rent due to him to the extent of at least 6 months and had he known the furniture was hired to her he would not have let the rent run on.

As to the facts of the case, there are some points which are peculiar.

The levy was made on the furniture in the house where Mrs. Dodds was carrying on the business of a boarding-house keeper, it was not sold in lots but as a whole, evidently by some private arrangement, it was not removed but remained where it was and it was let to her to enable her to carry on her boarding house in the place which she occupied at a monthly tenancy, and at no time did the claimants give notice of their intention to terminate the hiring and to take possession of the furniture.

According to all the authorities on the subject regarding goods bought upon and left in or on (res invecte et illata), the house or property leased by or on behalf of the tenant such goods are bound to the landlord for the rent of his property by virtue of his tacit hypothec, provided they are bought there with the consent of the owner and with the intention of remaining there permanently and for the use of the hirer.

A good deal turns on the interpretation of the word "permanently." This expression cannot mean for ever and ever and must have a limit, it can only mean 'with long continuance' as defined by Webster, that is for an indefinite period, or for the whole of the tenancy or as was pointed out in the case of Baker v. Hirst & Co. 2 N. L. R., p. 55, to remain in contradistinction to en passant.

This is not a case of hire-purchase or hiring a furnished house. It is a hiring from persons who purchased the furniture as a whole after a levy by themselves. And who allowed the tenant the use of it, so long as she paid the hire without any limit as to time. Some of the articles now levied on, are not included in the i ventory of the articles purchased by th claimants.

The landlord's hypothec does not attach on the goods lent to a tenant for a short time or for a particular purpose or deposited or pledged to him, nor on articles which were left with him to be manufactured in the course of his trade. 3 Burge 590-92, De Freitas v. Strong. The furniture, in this case, although hired at a monthly rental, can hardly be said to have been lent for a short time. The evidence clearly goes to show that the payment was not exacted month by month but was allowed to run on. Indeed Mr. Culpeper's evidence proves that the hiring was for an indefinite time. It is argued also that the hiring was for a particular purpose, namely, to carry on the business of a boarding house, but I do not think the argument is good. A particular purpose can hardly have such a wide meaning as is sought to be put on it. A particular purpose would, I take it, be construed to mean such as would be attained by lending a picture for the purpose of copying or plate for a supper, or sending to an auctioneer to sell and such like. The articles to be retained only till the particular purpose for which they were sent, is accomplished. The hire of furniture for the purpose of enabling a person to carry on the business of a boarding house, without limiting it to any time, in my opinion, is for the purpose of being permanently used by the tenant, that is, not for such temporary use as would take it out of the landlord's hypothec.

No notice was given to the landlord of the purchase by the Administrator Guardians of de Saffon, and although he ought, no doubt, to have made himself aware of the sale at execution, a like onus did not rest on him as to the ultimate disposal of the articles. It is not like the case of Darson v. Leisseur, where all the creditors were aware of the purchase, or the case of De Freitas v. Strong, where the term was fixed within which the hire-purchase was to continue with conditions as to the delivery on non-payment of the hire, this fixing of a time being a material element in cases on the hire-purchase system as it is called. I am of opinion, therefore, that the landlord's hypothec prevails and I dismiss the claim with costs.

OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18TH, 1905.

Proclamation.

BRITISH GUIANA.

By His Excellency Sir FREDERIC MITCHELL HODGSON, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Colony of British Guiana, Vice-Admiral of the same.

L.S.

F. M. HODGSON,
Governor.

WHEREAS it has been made to appear to the Governor-in-Council that owing to the number of offences of Prædial Larceny in the North Essequebo Judicial District, in the County of Essequebo, it is expedient to declare that part of the Colony to be a Proclaimed District within the meaning of section 77 of the Summary Conviction Offences Ordinance, 1893:

I DO hereby by this my Proclamation declare the North Essequebo Judicial District to be a Proclaimed District within the meaning of the said Ordinance for a period of six months from the date of this my Proclamation.

Given under my Hand and the Public Seal of the Colony, at the Guiana Public Buildings, Georgetown, Demerara, this 13th day of November, 1905, and in the Fifth year of His Majesty's Reign.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
227. 17th November, 1905.

THE following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, is hereby published for general information.

By Command,
CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO ABOLISH "COMPULSORY PILOTAGE IN THIS COLONY, AND "TO MAKE OTHER PROVISIONS IN LIEU THEREOF."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows:—

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Pilotage Ordinance, 1905. Short title.

2. In this Ordinance, unless the context otherwise requires:— Interpretation of terms.
"Harbour Master" means the Harbour Master of the Harbour of Georgetown;
"Pilot" means any person licensed as a Pilot under this Ordinance;
"Master," as applied to a vessel, includes any person for the time being having the charge or command thereof:
"The Regulations" means Regulations made under this Ordinance and for the time being in force.

Abolition of Compulsory Pilotage.

3. From and after the commencement of this Ordinance, it shall not be necessary for the master of any vessel arriving off any River or Harbour of the Colony to take a pilot on board such vessel, but every such vessel may enter any such River or Harbour without a pilot. Pilotage not to be compulsory.

Licensing of pilots.

4. The Harbour Master, after due examination, may licence fit and proper persons to be pilots. Every such licence shall be in writing signed by the Harbour Master, and shall be in force for one year from the date of the issue thereof, but may be renewed from year to year by indorsement thereon by the Harbour Master: Provided that the Harbour Master shall not be bound to renew any licence, and before doing so may require any Pilot to satisfy him of his continued fitness to act as a Pilot.

Penalty on person acting as pilot without a licence.

5. Every person who acts or attempts to act as a Pilot without been duly licensed under the provisions of this Ordinance and without holding a licence for the time in force, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred dollars: Provided that nothing in this section shall prevent any person from rendering assistance to a vessel in distress, or under circumstances making it necessary for the master to avail himself of the best assistance which can be found at the time, until duly relieved by a pilot.

Duty of pilots to act as such when required.

6. Subject to the provisions of this Ordinance and of the Regulations, every pilot shall be bound to render his services as a pilot to the master of every vessel who may require them upon payment of the fees for the time being prescribed by the Regulations.

Production by pilot of licence when required.

7. Every pilot, while acting in that capacity, shall be provided with his licence and shall produce the same to any person by whom he may be employed, or to whom he may tender his services as a pilot, when required to do so.

Making of Regulations.

8.—(1.) The Harbour Master may make Regulations for all or any of the following matters:—

(a.) The approval and licensing of Pilot Boats;

(b.) For determining the description of Pilot flags and directions for their use;

(c.) Fixing the terms and conditions of granting licences to pilots;

(d.) Determining the qualifications to be required from persons applying for licences as Pilots whether in respect of their age, skill, time of service, character, or otherwise;

(e.) For fixing the fee to be paid by persons applying to be examined for licences as Pilots;

(f.) The government of Pilots, prescribing their duties, and the ensuring their good conduct and their constant attendance to and effectual performance of their duties, whether at sea or on shore;

(g.) Determining the manner in which application shall be made for the services of Pilots and as to pilots going to and returning from vessels;

Digitized by Google

(h.) For fixing the fees payable to Pilots;

(i.) The carrying out generally of the purposes of this Ordinance.

(2.) There may be annexed to the breach of any such Regulation a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars.

(3.) No Regulations made under the authority of this section shall take effect until they have been submitted to and approved by the Governor and Court of Policy, who may allow, disallow or alter the same as they may think proper.

Offences by Pilots and Others.

Various offences by pilot.

9. (1.) If any pilot commits any of the following offences,—

(a.) Keeps himself or is interested in keeping by any agent, servant, or other person, any public-house or place of public entertainment, or himself sells, or is enterested in selling in manner aforesaid any spirituous liquor, wine, tobacco, cigars, tea, opium, gange, charas, majoon, or bhang; or,

(b.) Commits any fraud or other offence against the revenues of Customs or Excise or the laws relating thereto; or

(c.) Is in any way directly or indirectly concerned in any corrupt practices relating to vessels, their tackle, furniture, cargoes, crews, or passengers, or to persons in distress at sea or by shipwreck, or to their property; or

(d.) Lends his licence to any person; or

(e.) Acts as pilot whilst suspended; or

(f.) Acts as pilot whilst in a state of intoxication; or

NOTICE.

APPOINTMENT OF LAND SURVEYORS.

THE Board of Examiners appointed by His Excellency the Governor under the Land Surveyors Ordinance, 1891, has arranged to hold an Examination on the 30th November and 1st December, proximo.

2. The Examination will be held in the Drawing Office attached to the Department of Lands and Mines, and will embrace the subjects named in Section 6 of Ordinance 20 of 1891, viz.:—Arithmetic, Algebra as far as simple equations, Plane Geometry, Plane Trigonometry, Practical Astronomy, Topographical Drawing, the practical use of the principal instruments used in Surveying and their adjustment, and the theory and practice of Land Surveying.

3. Any person desirous of appearing for such Examination must give notice to the Chairman of the Board of his intention of so doing on or before Thursday, 16th November, and must submit for inspection, on or before the 23rd November, a receipt from the Treasury for the deposit of the amount of the fee as required by Section 8 of Ordinance 20 of 1891 as amended by Section 10 of Ordinance 20 of 1904.

4. Candidates will be required to produce field notes and a chart of a survey made by themselves.

ARCHIBALD G. BELL,
Colonial Civil Engineer, and Chairman, Board of Examiners for Land Surveyors.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given, in accordance with the requirements of Section 10, Sub-Section 1 of the Cattle Stealing Prevention Ordinance No. 25 of 1905, that all persons who claim to be entitled to the use of any brand are required to notify the Inspector General of Police in writing of such claim.

After the expiration of six months from the date of this notice no person shall be allowed to continue the use of any brand of which the Inspector General of Police shall not have been so informed.

All persons who make such claims shall give particulars of the brand, the Christian and Surnames of (1) the person or persons claiming to be entitled to use it, and (2) the owner of the cattle (in cases of ownership by East Indians, full description of indenture), and also the name of the farm, estate or pasture lands on which the cattle are, and claimant's address.

Particular attention is drawn to the fact that any person who fails, after the expiratian of 6 months from the date of this notice, to submit to the Inspector General of Police their claim of being entitled to the use of any brand, will not be permitted thereafter under this Law to continue to use such brand.

Extract from abovementioned Ordinance S. 10 s.s. (3).

"If any person shall, after the expiration of six months from the date of such notice, use any brand of which he shall not have given notice to the Inspector General as hereinbefore required, or with regard to which the Inspector General shall have intimated that such brand is not to be used by him, notwithstanding that he may have otherwise complied with the provisions of the Principal Ordinance he shall be subject to such and the like pains and penalties as if he had used such brand without complying with any of such provisions."

Within six months, of the coming into force of Ordinance No. 25 of 1905, hereinbefore referred to, all Cattle are required to be branded. Owners of Cattle are accordingly hereby requested to apply to the Inspector General of Police for brands.

Copies of this Notice will be found at all Police Stations for the guidance of persons who own cattle, and the Police have been directed to assist the public in any point not fully understood.

S. LUSHINGTON, Colonel, R.A.,
Inspector General of Police.

TENDERS are invited for the following Supplies for the Public Service in Berbice for the Calendar Year 1st January to 31st December, 1906. Tenders must be sent to the Officials named hereinafter, not later than 12 o'clock, noon, on Thursday, the 23rd November, 1905.

CLASS VIII. FRESH MEAT.
CLASS XII d. BREAD.

2. Forms of Tender containing Schedule of Articles, with terms and conditions of Contract, may be obtained from the Treasury, Georgetown, and New Amsterdam, on payment of 24 cents per set of original and duplicate, and paper of conditions, &c., and no Tender will be considered unless made on such forms.

3. The forms will be in duplicate, numbered. The original will bear the name of the Tenderer and the particulars of the prices tendered, the duplicate only the particulars of the prices tendered, without any mark or sign except the number to identify the Tenderer.

4. The original of every Tender must be accompanied by the names of two responsible persons who are willing to become bound together with the Tenderer to execute the Contract to be drawn up in the Registrar's Office in terms of this advertisement, and in accordance with the conditions and specifications set out in or attached to the Tenders, for the due supply of the articles named in the Tender. No Firm can be accepted as surety.

5. The Tenderer will enclose the original bearing his name and the names of his sureties in the prescribed form, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Government Secretary, on the outside of which there shall be written the words :—

"Name of Tenderer enclosed"—
"Tender for supply of*"

and at the same time send the duplicate of his tender, containing the prices tendered, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Auditor General as Chairman of the Committee, and only marked on the outside "Tender for the supply of*"

6. Tenderers are advised to send these documents by Post, registered.

7. Any tender sent to the Chairman bearing on its duplicate or on the sealed envelope any name, note or mark by which the Tenderer can be identified, will be rejected.

8. Every tender must be complete in itself, and state distinctly the respective prices or rates of the supplies tendered for. No tender dependent upon a sliding scale of prices or upon the "Market Rate" will be considered

9. The Government will in no case bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender, and in all cases the acceptance of a Tender will be conditional on security for the performance being given to the satisfaction of the Governor.

10. Any Department or section thereof may be excluded from the operation of the Contract at the discretion of the Government, at any time during the continuance of the Contract.

11. The Government will retain the right of rejecting any Tender without assigning reasons, and prohibiting, without reason assigned, the acceptance of the Tender of any particular person.

12. The party whose Tender has been accepted must deposit at the Registrar's Office the fees for drawing up the Contract, and no account will be paid for any articles supplied until such Contract has been duly executed and a copy thereof lodged with the Auditor General.

13. The Contracts must be duly executed on or before the 31st of January, 1906.

14. The Contractor is required to pay all expenses of drawing up the Contract, including the cost of a copy for the Auditor General.

15. All articles are to be supplied on requisition from the Institution or Department requiring them. They are to be of the specified quality, and subject to the approval of the Officer in charge or the Head of the Department concerned. They are to be delivered in such quantities and at such times as may be required, at the cost of the Contractor.

16. Any articles not in accordance with the Contract will be returned, and if not replaced within a reasonable time by the Contractor by an article in accordance with the Contract, the article may be obtained elsewhere and charged to the Contractor.

17. The Contractor will also be liable on the approval of the Governor to a fine of five dollars for every day on which he neglects or delays to supply any such article.

18. Detailed Accounts are to be rendered monthly and in triplicate, as required by the Head of the Department supplied.

19. Any information Tenderers may desire, may be obtained at the Institutions affected, viz:—Lunatic Asylum, Public Hospital and Prison, New Amsterdam, and (as to the Lightship) at the Harbour Master's Office, New Amsterdam.

By Command,

N. DARNELL DAVIS,
Auditor General,
Chairman of Committee.

CLASS XIIb. FLOUR.
CLASS XIIc. SUGAR.

2. Printed forms of tender containing Schedules of Articles, with terms and conditions of Contract may be obtained from the Treasury, Georgetown, and New Amsterdam, on payment of 24 cents per set, of original and duplicate and paper of conditions, &c., and no Tender will be considered unless made on such forms.

3. The forms will be in duplicate, machine numbered. The original will bear the name of the Tenderer and the particulars of the prices tendered, the duplicate only the particulars of the prices tendered, without any mark or sign except the machine number to identify the Tenderer.

4. The original of every Tender must be accompanied by the names of two responsible persons who are willing to become bound together with the Tenderer to execute the Contract to be drawn up in the Registrar's Office in terms of this advertisement, and in accordance with the conditions and specifications set out in or attached to the Tenders, for the due supply of the articles named in the Tender. No Firm can be accepted as surety.

5. The Tenderer will enclose the original bearing his name and the names of his sureties in the prescribed form, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Government Secretary, on the outside of which there shall be written the words:—

"Name of Tenderer enclosed"—
"Tender for supply of*"

and at the same time send the duplicate of his tender, containing the prices tendered in a sealed envelope addressed to the Auditor General as Chairman of the Committee, and only marked on the outside "Tender for the supply of*"

6. Tenderers are advised to send these documents by Post, registered.

7. Any tender sent to the Chairman bearing on its duplicate or on the sealed envelope any name, note or mark by which the Tenderer can be identified, will be rejected.

8. Every tender must be complete in itself, and state distinctly the respective prices or rates of the supplies tendered for. No tender dependent upon a sliding scale of prices or upon the "Market Rate" will be considered.

9. Tender may be made to supply the articles comprised in a class to all or to any one or more of the Institutions or Departments of the Service.

10. The Government will in no case bind itself to accept the lowest or any Tender, and in all cases the acceptance of a Tender will be conditional on security for the performance being given to the satisfaction of the Governor.

11. Any Department or section thereof, may be excluded from the operation of the Contract at the discretion of the Government, at any time during the continuance of the contract.

12. The Government will retain the right of rejecting any Tender without assigning reasons, and prohibiting, without reason assigned, the acceptance of the Tender of any particular person, and no Tenders for supplies to the Lunatic Asylum, Berbice, will be considered which do not expressly provide for the free delivery of such supplies, at that Institution.

13. After the Governor-in-Council has decided on the acceptance of Tenders, the names of the successful Tenderers will be published in the "Gazette."

14. The party whose Tender has been accepted must deposit at the Registrar's Office the fees for drawing up the Contract, and no account will be paid for any articles

The Official Gazette

OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 25TH, 1905.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
235. 24th November, 1905.

THE following Bills, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,
CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

THE CUSTOMS DUTIES (DATE OF COMMENCEMENT) BILL, 1905.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

THE object of this Bill is to prevent loss of revenue by persons taking out of bond, or passing through the Customs, during the sitting of the Combined Court or before the coming into operation of a new Customs Duties Ordinance, articles upon which such Ordinance imposes a new or an increased duty.

Two attempts have been made by the Legislature to prevent these losses of revenue, but neither has been completely effectual.

The first was Ordinance No. 6 of 1898, which provided that when the Combined Court passed a resolution to impose any new or increased duty, the new duty should be payable from the time of the passing of such resolution until the passing of the Ordinance giving effect to the resolution.

The second was Ordinance No. 33 of 1902, which provided that the Governor might order that all entries for goods passed during the sitting of the Combined Court, should be subject to any change in the rate of duty made by the Court at such sitting.

But both Ordinances failed to provide for the interval which elapsed between the passing of the Customs Duties Ordinance or the end of the session of the Combined Court, and the coming into operation of the Customs Duties Ordinance. By section 28 of the Constitution Ordinance, (No. 1 of 1891) Ordinances come into operation on publication, and as the last act of the sessoin of the Combined Court is usually the passing of the Customs and Tax Ordinances for the ensuing year, an interval of a day or two must necessarily elapse before the Ordinance can be printed and published, and during that interval the old rate of duty is payable. If, therefore, a person wishes to pass entry upon the importation of an article upon which the duty is to be increased, while the Combined Court is actually in session, he must pay the increased duty, yet if he waits till the Court has adjourned, and then passes his entry before the Gazette containing the new Ordinances can be printed and issued, he pays only the old lower rate of duty. This defect in the law was taken advantage of this year during the the single day which elapsed between the adjournment of the Combined Court and the publication of the present Customs Duties Ordinance and this Bill is intended to prevent this in future.

The Bill provides that every Customs Duties Ordinance, is to be deemed to come into operation from the day when the Combined Court goes into Committee of Ways and Means, that is, from the time when the Court begins to discuss revenue matters and when the public get the first intimation of what changes are likely to be made in the Tariff.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO FIX THE COM-"MENCEMENT OF ORDINANCES IMPOSING DUTIES OF "CUSTOMS."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Customs Duties (Date of Commencement) Ordinance, 1905.

Date from which Customs Duties Ordinances come into operation.

2. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any Ordinance, every Ordinance passed by the Combined Court imposing any duty of Customs shall, unless otherwise provided in such last mentioned Ordinance, be deemed to have come into operation from and inclusive of the day upon which the Combined Court resolved itself into Committee of Ways and Means at the session at which such Ordinance was passed, and the duties of Customs imposed by such Ordinance shall be raised, levied and collected as from the said day, and every person who, on or after the said day, pays any duties of Customs, shall be bound to pay on demand any difference there may be between the amount so paid and the amount imposed by the said Ordinance, and such duties and the amount of any difference as aforesaid, shall be raised, levied and collected, subject to the provisions of any Ordinance now in force or which may hereafter be passed for the purpose of regulating the collection of the duties of Customs.

If the amount so paid as aforesaid, be greater than the amount so imposed, the difference shall be refunded to the person so paying by the Receiver General, upon the order of the Comptroller of Customs.

Repeal. No. 6 of 1898.

No. 33 of 1902.

3.—(1) The Ways and Means Resolutions Ordinance, 1898, is hereby repealed.

(2) Sections 2 and 3 of the Customs Ordinance, 1884, Amendment Ordinance, 1902, are hereby repealed.

THE PENSIONS ORDINANCE, 1903, AMENDMENT BILL, 1905.

Explanatory Memorandum.

The object of this Bill is to enable members of the Police Force who entered it before the 16th May, 1900, and who are promoted to any other office in the public service of the Colony to count their period of police service as service for pension when they retire. The Police Force is expressly excluded from the general pension law of the Colony. (Ord. No. 11 of 1903, s. 11), and therefore a policeman appointed to any other office loses for pension purposes the time he served in the Police Force, and as in almost every case any policeman so appointed would be a young and active man, he would not have served long enough in the Force to be entitled to anything from the Police Reward Fund.

The immediate cause of this question being raised is the desire of the Government to improve the Prison service of the colony by transferring suitable police constables to it, but as under present conditions this will entail complete loss of pension rights for the period of police service, a difficulty may be experienced in getting the more intelligent and better class of policemen to enter the Prison service. It is to remedy this, and also to prevent the injustice of a policeman who is promoted to an office in any department losing his police service for pension purposes, that this Bill has been prepared.

It is also proposed to refund his contributions to the Police Reward Fund to a policeman who is promoted to an office which is not pensionable, and also to a policeman who entered the Force after the 16th May, 1900, who is promoted to a pensionable office, which latter can be done under the law as it exists now, and no provision is therefore made for it in this Bill.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO MAKE PROVISION AS TO THE PENSIONS OF MEMBERS OF THE POLICE FORCE TRANSFERRED TO OTHER OFFICES IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows :—

Short title and construction.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Pensions Ordinance, 1903, Amendment Ordinance, 1905, and this Ordinance, and the Pensions Ordinance, 1903, hereinafter referred to as the Principal Ordinance, shall be read and construed together as one Ordinance.

Service of police constables promoted to other office to count for pension.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Principal Ordinance, whenever any non-commissioned officer or constable who entered the Police Force before the sixteenth day of May, 1900, is transferred or promoted to any pensionable office in the public service of the Colony, the time during which such non-commissioned officer or constable shall have served in the Police Force shall be counted as service for pension under the Principal Ordinance: Provided that such non-commissioned officer or constable shall cease to have any interest in or claim upon the Police Reward Fund.

Contributions to Police Reward Fund to be refunded to police constables promoted to non-pensionable office.

3. Notwithstanding anything contained in any Ordinance, whenever any non-commissioned officer or constable who entered the Police Force before the sixteenth day of May, 1900, is transferred or promoted to any office in the public service of the Colony which is not pensionable, the amount deducted from the pay of such non-commissioned officer or constable for and on account of the Police Reward Fund shall be refunded to him.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

This 14th Day of November, 1905.

Re Transport of Golden Fleece.

G. L. Jameson and others claim to pass transport by virtue of a title thereto by prescription. The transport was opposed and the Judge, in giving decision, stated that as regards the piece of land, 58 by 28 roods, on the windward side of the estate, by the evidence those "of the plaintiffs who obtained "the beds they occupy through the persons who "purchased them, have not satisfactorily proved "their right except possession of a bed each."

On this finding I am not satisfied on the general affidavits laid over on behalf of G. L. Jameson, that the persons wishing to pass the transport have acquired a title by prescription to the piece of land sold to Quacco Mitchell, they cannot have had the possession of the land for the necessary length of time. It is clear, from the Judge's finding, that other parties, that is to say, persons claiming through Quacco Mitchell, have had the possession although they were unable to prove pedigree etc. I cannot pass transport including this piece of land that was sold to Quacco Mitchell.

GONSALVES.

An objection was raised at the hearing that Myra Semple had mistaken her remedy, her claim being to certain moveables the procedure in which is by way of interpleader and not by way of opposition. This objection is sound and I uphold it. Application was then made to strike out her name as one of the plaintiffs under Order xiv. r. 13, she having been improperly joined in the action.

On considering the point, I have no doubt that the Court has power to strike out any plaintiff who has been misjoined in an action. But a difficulty presents itself in the fact that the claim of J. E. Duke is partly to what are moveables and partly to immoveable property. I think, however, in order to save multiplicity of action, the most just course will be for the Court to exercise its power by striking out the name of Myra J. Semple as one of the plaintiffs and to let the other plaintiff, Jane Eliza Duke, proceed with her action so far as her claim to immoveables is concerned.

In accordance with the dicisions under the Rule, the defendant is to be paid such costs as have been occasioned by such joinder of the plaintiffs.

GENERAL JURISDICTION.

This 18th Day of November, 1905.

GILES, Plaintiff,
versus
LANGEVINE et al, Defendants.

The plaintiff seeks to set aside a judgment obtained by the second defendant in an action brought against the first defendant, as executor under the will of the late Grace Godfrey, dated 4th January, 1897, on the ground that the said will was revoked by a later will made by the testatrix on the 4th April, 1903, of which the defendant Langevine is not executor.

It is not contested that Grace Godfrey on the 4th January, 1897, made a will disposing of all her property and that Langevine was executor thereof, nor is it open to doubt, that the alleged will of the 4th April, 1903, (if genuine) revoked the previous will and that if that will was revoked the judgment must be set aside. The sole question for decision therefore is whether the alleged will of 4th April, 1903, is genuine.

It is alleged that the execution of the will took place on the 4th April, 1903. The testatrix was then seriously ill and only four days from death. The will which purports to be executed by the mark of the testatrix, was read aloud in the room in which she was lying ill in bed, but apparently the testatrix was not told it was about to be read and asked to listen and say whether it accurately represented her wishes but it was read on account of some objection raised by one of the attesting witnesses. Both the witnesses to the execution of the will, and also the man who had it prepared for her signature say she never spoke but merely groaned nor indeed does it appear she was asked whether she approved of it. One of the witnesses to her signature states that when a pen was held out to her, she having been raised in the bed extended her hand a little way and touched it, but the other says he did not see whether the pen was put against her hand or she of herself touched it, and that he does not know whether she understood what she was doing. This witness can hardly therefore be said to have witnessed any signature or acknowledgment of her signature by the testatrix as although signature by a mark is sufficient, the mark must be shown to be in reality the mark of the testatrix, hence two subscribing and attesting witnesses being required by law to the signature of a testator, we doubt whether the will in dispute could be held to be sufficiently attested even if it were not open to objection on other grounds. But in addition to this, we are not satisfied that the testatrix knew and understood what she was doing and actually signed it intending it should operate as her will. The evidence of E. de Lyon and M. Gibbons who are interested in supporting the will, contradicted as it is by the evidence of Inniss and Liquorish, the two attesting witnesses, and of Giles, on the important point whether the testatrix spoke at the time, is of little value; and even it be taken as established (a point which we think open to doubt) by the evidence of Giles and Inniss, that the testatrix, on being raised in her bed, extended her hand a little and touched a pen presented to her, this does not of itself establish that she recognised she was assenting and giving effect to a paper purporting to be her last will and which had just been read, and acknowledged it as such. The uncertainty attending the question is increased by the evidence of her medical attendant Dr. Belmonte. Dr. Belmonte states that he saw the testatrix on the 4th April, but later in the day than the time of the supposed execution of the will. He has no positive recollection of visiting her on that day, but fixes the day by reference to a book in which he usually enters the date or dates on which a patient is to be visited, the entry being struck out if the visit is not made, and he adds "it did not happen that I had to strike out a day so far as I remember but I can't be sure." On the other hand, the evidence of Charlotte King, is that he came on the 3rd not on the 4th April, and the evidence of Richard Miller, is inconsistent with the visit being on the 4th, as he says on that day the testatrix could not speak. Dr. Belmonte says that on the occasion of this visit, she could speak and "could understand but was not very bright. She was compos mentis, she knew what was being done." In a later part of his evidence he says "I think that on the 4th she understood every thing. She gave me her hand and replied to my enquiries," but he adds "I don't know if she was fit to make a will." He further states "up to then she could perfectly understand what was said to her." According to this evidence, the Doctor was not sure when he visited her that she was in a fit condition to make a will though she could speak and understand and reply to questions. If this visit took place on the 4th April, it is difficult to understand why the testatrix, if competent to make a will and her state was such as the Doctor describes, said nothing when the alleged will was being read and executed earlier in the same day; and if this visit was on the 3rd, then the Doctor's evidence does not show what the condition of the testatrix was, on the morning of the 4th, and it is admitted by both parties that she became much worse after this visit, whatever be its date.

It may be the case that the testatrix was dissatisfied with Cæsar's treatment of her and determined to alter her will, and that her family desired her to do so; but after careful consideration of all the evidence, we are not satisfied that she executed the alleged will of the 4th April, knowing and intending that the document should be her will; and as the burden of proving this lay on the plaintiff, the action is dismissed with costs.

GENERAL JURISDICTION.

This 18th Day of October, 1905.

DeFreitas et al, Plaintiff,
versus
Exor. of J. R. JARDIM, Defendant.

In this action the plaintiffs claim, as three of the heirs, ab intestato, of the late J. R. Jardim, a declaration that certain gifts made by her will are illegal and void and that the testatrix died intestate as to the subject-matter of those gifts, an account of the estate of the said J. R. Jardim, and of the defendant's dealings therewith, and payment and delivery to them of any money and other property to which they may be found entitled.

Digitized by Google

The gifts to which exception is taken are of three classes:

(1) gifts to Roman Catholic Bishops for offering masses for the repose of the souls of the testatrix or her late husband:

(2) a gift to a Roman Catholic Bishop in Madeira for distribution among the poor of the city of Funchal, and

(3) gifts to Roman Catholic Bishops for the use or benefit of Roman Catholic Churches.

It is contended that the gifts of the first and third classes are illegal and void, on the ground that gifts by will either of movables or immovables to any Roman Catholic Church or institution or to any Roman Catholic priest or other minister are invalid. The validity of the gift for the benefit of the poor of the City of Funchal, is questioned on the ground that it is not for the benefit of the poor of the testatrix' place of domicile, and that for such poor only could a gift by will be made.

The gifts of the first class for offering masses are legacies sub modo, i. e., legacies for a certain object or purpose (Cens. For. III. 8. 28). Such legacies, if the object fails through non-performance by the donee, fail altogether (Voet xxxv. 1. 9, Grotius II 23. 8) but, if the object is illegal, it is regarded as not written (pro non scripto habetur), and the legatee acquires the legacy absolutely. (Voet xxxv. 1. 13, Dig 35. 1. 37). In the present case, it is not suggested that the masses will not be said, and therefore no question as to failure of the legacies on that ground arises, and as the plaintiffs, if the object is illegal, would gain nothing, unless the Roman Catholic Bishop to whom the gifts are made for the object specified, is debarred from taking gifts by will (a point considered later on in this judgment), it is unnecessary to consider whether the object (modus) of the gifts, vizt., the offering of masses is illegal.

The gift of the second class is a legacy burdened with a fidei commissum in favour of the poor of Funchal. The poor of the Roman Catholic religion are not by reason of their religion precluded from claiming the benefit of a legacy for the poor, (Decision of the Senate in Holland, 16 Nov. 1724, cited in Bynk. Quoes. J. P. III. 1), provided the term poor used in the will is construed (as it must be in the present case) in the ordinary sense and not as meaning those who have taken the vow of poverty. Nor are we aware of any authority for the argument that a gift by will to the poor is valid only if given to the poor of the testator's domicile, and the authorities cited are not, we think, sufficient to establish this; the passage in Van Leeuwen's Commentaries (III ix. 4 and note) and the Advysen there referred to, relating to cases where a gift has been made to "the poor" without specifying of what place. The local Ordinance passed 26th August, 1793, throws no light on the present question though it clearly recognises the validity of (at any rate) some kinds of legacies to the poor. As a gift therefore could legally be made by will to the poor of Funchal, and as a fidei commissum does not fail owing to the incapacity of the fiduciary to take the legacy (Voet xxx. 3 and 9, and 30; xxxvi. 1. 21, and 42), it follows that whether a Roman Catholic Bishop can legally take a legacy or not, the gift to the poor of Funchal will take effect, and is not void.

A gift by will to a Church is not void on the ground of uncertainty for though a church has not as such a definite legal personality, it is treated as a quasi legal person and the gift is taken and administered by the governor or minister thereof. (Van Leeu. Com. III 9. 3.) Voet (xxviii. 5. 4) says that if gifts are made by will to a church, what is left goes, not to the church funds but rather to the deacons for the use of the poor. If this passage be taken as referring to Roman Catholic Churches as well as to churches of the Reformed Religion (see Groenwegen, De leg. ab. C. I. 2. 15) it will apparently follow that the gifts to a Roman Catholic Bishop for the use of Roman Catholic Churches stand on the same footing as the gift to a Roman Catholic Bishop for the poor of Funchal and for the reasons already given will take effect and not be void.

But it is open to doubt whether the passage cited includes Roman Catholic Churches, hence it is necessary to determine with reference to these gifts as well as to the gifts for offering masses, whether by the law of this colony a Roman Catholic Bishop or a Roman Catholic Church is debarred from taking gifts by will.

It is clear that under the later Roman law no distinction was made between Christian Ministers or Christian Churches in this respect, but gifts by will to any Christian Ordained Minister or any Christian Church were deemed valid. (See laws in the Code and Digest and Novels, cited by Voet. xxviii. 5. 2.) Placaats, Edicts or Ordinances restricting the freedom of testation given by the later Roman Law were however enacted by the Courts of Holland and the States General on (1) the 28th October, 1446, (2) 6th July, 1515, (3) 20th March, 1524, (4) 16th October, 1531, (5) 4th May, 1655, and (6) 14th October, 1655. These appear to have been of general application (unlike the one of 19th October, 1520, which was limited to Brabant and Limburg and Over Maes) and to have altered what was previously the general Roman Dutch Law, by limiting the capacity of Roman Catholic Ecclesiastics and institutions to take under wills. It appears from three passages (Bk. ii 5. 7, and 16. 3 and Bk. II 22. 42) in Grotius Introduction to Dutch Jurisprudence (written A. D. 1620, and published A. D. 1631) and from an opinion of his (Holland Cons. III. B. 310, written in 1614) that Roman Catholic Ecclesiastics and Institutions were under no such disability at the time he wrote. But even if the Placaats, &c., previously issued were in the time of Grotius obsolete and abrogated by disuse, which in view, of Voet's language (xxviii. 5. 3) and Groenwegen's statement (De leg. ab. C. I. 2. 5) is open to doubt, it is nevertheless clear from what is said by Van Leeuwen, (Bk. III. 3. §§ 13 and 14 of his Commentaries published 1678), by Voet (Lib. xxviii. 5. §§ 3 and 4. Ad. Pandectas, published 1698) by Bynkershoek (Lib. III 1 and 2. Quœs. jur. priv. published 1745) by Van der Keesel, (Thes. 284, published 1800) and by Van der Linden (Ins. I. 9. 4, published 1806) that the Placaats or Ordinances of the 4th May, 1655, and 14th October, 1655, were in force and formed part of the Roman Dutch Law, up to the time that body of law ceased to exist in Holland as a living system of jurisprudence. It is also we think the better opinion, looking at the words and intention of these placaats that by them, gifts by will, whether of movables or immovables, to any one being an ordained person in the orders of the Roman Catholic Church, as well as similar gifts to monastic or other similar orders or to ghostly institutions (as e.g. Churches) of the Roman Catholic form of religion were at that date and subsequently illegal in Holland. This construction of the placaats is further supported by the authorities already cited which speak of them as prohibiting gifts to Popish Priests. It follows from what has been said that in the present case, the gifts by will to a Roman Catholic Bishop and for Roman Catholic Churches, are illegal and void if those placaats form part of the law of this colony, or as the will in question is a Demerara will, if the placaats form part of the law of Demerara.

The general law of Demerara and Essequebo (so far as it remains unaltered by legislation) is declared by Ordinance of the 4th October, 1774, to be the Roman Dutch law therein indicated, and in Art. 1 of the Articles of Capitulation 1803, that law is retained in force. There is no evidence that we are aware of which shows that the placaats in question (to quote the words of Ordinance of 4th October 1794) were "transmitted to the Director General and the Court of Essequebo or to the Commander and Court of Demerara," to be the rule of their judgments, and the previous words of the Ordinance, rendering applicable in Demerara and Essequebo, "all the laws of Holland in general," must, in our opinion, be construed just as the similar rule that English colonists take the English common and statute law with them to a new colony, vizt.; with the qualification that so much of the law of Holland in general was introduced, as was applicable to the situation of the Dutch colonists in Demerara and Essequebo and the condition of the united colonies. None of the conditions set out in the preambles of those placaats, as the reasons for their enactment existed in the united colonies; those placaats (as is evident from their preambles) grew out of local and polical circumstances, were the outcome of the long struggle between the Roman Catholic and Reformed Churches and were designed to prevent the Roman faith being re-established in Holland, and to restrain Roman Catholic parents from dealing unfairly with children who joined the Reformed Churches. No questions similar to those provided for by these placaats could arise among the original Dutch colonists, who, apparently, devoted their time and attention to their material advancement rather than to religious disputes, and among whom for many years, even for the discharge of the ordinary functions of religion, but little provision was made, there being as late as the year 1808, (according to history) only one Church in Demerara and Essequebo, vizt., the Dutch Reformed Church on Fort Island. We think, therefore, that just as the English statutes of mortmain have been held to be the outcome of local political circumstances and not to form part of the law of a colony to which the general English law was taken. (Attorney General v. Stewart 2 Mer. 143, approved in, Mayor &c. of Canterbury v.

Wyburn et al. A. C. (1895) 89) so these placaats have never been part of the law of these colonies. This conclusion is strengthened by the fact mentioned by counsel for the plaintiffs, that the validity of bequests like those made in the present instance, has never before been questioned, although for over fifty years there has been a considerable Roman Catholic element in the colony and the possibility of raising the question, has, no doubt, arisen, and also by the facts that the Roman Catholic Church or its ministers (has and have so far as we are aware) never been subjected by any Ordinance to any disability, but, on the contrary, has and have been not merely tolerated, but expressly recognised by Ordinance, grants or gifts from the public revenues being made in aid of its ministers as well as in aid of the ministers of the several Reformed Churches in the colony for more than fifty years, (See Clergy List Ordinance of 16th November, 1853, which (among others) makes provision for a Roman Catholic Bishop, and later Ordinances providing for Ministers of Religion, and Cf. Ord. 1 of 1843, section 3), and that by Ordinance 10 of 1904 (section 5), the validity of previous bequests to the Roman Catholic Church is impliedly recognised. The fact that in Cape Colony by Act of 2nd September, 1858, these placaats were declared not to be in force, is not, we think, sufficient to countervail the foregoing considerations and to show that the placaats were introduced into all the Dutch colonies, as there is nothing before us to show whether the placaats had previously been recognised in Cape Colony or under what circumstances that Act was passed; and apparently from passages cited in a work on the law of Ceylon from (Ramanathan, 1845-1855, p. 1327. Godinho v. Koening. Vand. rep.) the placaats have never been recognised in Ceylon. We have not, however, the means of verifying these citations.

The placaats under consideration not being part of the law of this colony, the gifts made by the testatrix's will to Roman Catholic Bishops and for the benefit of Roman Catholic Churches are, in our opinion, valid; and having regard to this conclusion, it is unnecessary to consider whether the evidence put forward as to the plaintiffs being some of the next-of-kin of the testatrix, is sufficient, coupled with that afforded by the recognition of them in her will, to establish their kinship.

The action is dismissed with costs.

THIS 21ST DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1905.

versus
DE PAIVA.

This is an action claiming damages for slander.

It has been proved that the words "You are the biggest thief in Demerara" were spoken by the defendant to the plaintiff in presence and hearing of certain other persons. The defendant, although he denies in his statement of defence that he spoke or published any of the words charged, in his evidence practically admits having done so.

The words used cannot be said to be mere vulgar abuse as the defendant has pleaded justification and in his defence sets out the specific facts which he intended to prove in order to show that the plaintiff was a thief. It is stated that the plaintiff while in the defendant's employ and in the employ of the White Cocoanut Tree rum-shop, was guilty of fraudulently appropriating certain sums of money.

These charges of misappropriation must be proved in the same way as if the plaintiff were on his trial on an indictment. I do not consider any of the charges have been proved. It seems to me most peculiar that all the persons whose goods, or acknowledgments, it is alleged, the plaintiff put in the till to cover his alleged defalcations, should have at once, on plaintiff's request, acknowledged their debts and subsequently paid up although they received nothing from the plaintiff. D'Araouje, who says that he never authorized anyone to sign a good in his name and never authorized the plaintiff to put a good of his in the cash, has paid the goods as "a favour" without any protest. There is no proof as to Harrison having paid any money to the plaintiff for the defendant, on the contrary the evidence shows that the plaintiff borrowed $15 from Harrison who told him to pay it to Carlos Gomes. It is clear that Santos got $2 24 worth of liquor, he had no money and did not wish it charged to him as he and de Paiva were not friends. The plaintiff says he advanced the money and charged himself at the end of the week. It appears that all the plaintiff's drawings are charged to him at the end of the week. There is nothing to show the plaintiff's version is not the correct one. The $49 93 was accounted for by plaintiff's memo. of what he had drawn from the cash, and D'Araouje's, father and son, goods. The plaintiff was entitled to draw money from the cash on account of his salary. This memo. was writtten by Carvalho, the defendant's book-keeper and produced by the plaintiff to make up the balance of the cash and there is nothing to show that if he had not been dismissed, that he would not have charged himself with the amount on the following Saturday. It is said that 75 per cent. of the cash sales after deducting the expenses therefrom shows the nett profit made and that as the stock-taking did not show a profit of 75 per cent. of the cash sales less expenses, therefore the plaintiff has been guilty of larceny. In my opinion no Magistrate on such evidence alone, would send the accused on for trial, if he were sent on for trial no jury would be justified in convicting.

As regards the alleged fraudulent appropriation by the plaintiff at the White Cocoanut Tree, Joaquim Pereira says he heard one Marques speaking to plaintiff to get him a loan of $17 from the shop and the next morning he found a good of Marques in the cash for $40. Marques is not called as a witness. There is not the slightest evidence that the alleged good of Marques is fictitious and a forgery.

The defendant also endeavoured to show that the plaintiff's previous character was so notoriously bad that it could not be impaired by any fresh accusation even though undeserved. I allowed the plaintiff to be cross-examined as to his previous conduct as such conduct would affect his credit as a witness, but the defendant is bound to take the plaintiff's answer and cannot call evidence to contradict it. The defendant called Remigio Ferreira to prove that the plaintiff had overdrawn his pay at the Grape Vine rum-shop. Such evidence I think was wrongly admitted. But taking that evidence it does not prove that the plaintiff was of such a character that he could suffer no damage by being slandered.

It is proved that Antonio D'Andrade refused to listen to plaintiff's application for employment on account of defendant's slander.

The plaintiff was a person in receipt of good pay. The plea of justification, which was not proved, and the defendant's conduct of his case appear, to me to be an aggravation of the damages. I assess the damages at $200, for which amount there will be judgment with costs.

MEUSA
versus
WILLS & ANOR.

The plaintiff claims from the defendants the sum of $175 as money had and received by them to and for her use.

J. P. King, deceased, by his will bequeathed to the plaintiff one-half portion of the back building, situate on the west half of lot 67, Bent Street. The whole property including this house has been sold by the defendants who are the executors under the will. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants, in consideration of her allowing the property to be sold without reserving her share in the house and not opposing the transport, personally undertook to pay her $175, being one-half of the appraised value of the house. I do not consider that the evidence shows that the defendants undertook any personal liability. The plaintiff herself desired that the property should be sold as she was unable to make use of an undivided half of a house and the defendants undertook to pay her what was due to her on the sale of the house.

It is contended on behalf of the plaintiff that there being a specific bequest to the plaintiff the property so bequeathed vested immediately on the decease of the testator in the legatee and she is entitled to the legacy freed of all claims or mortgages on it.

Executors who take no beneficial interest under a will do not by entering into possession of or adiating the property of a testator make themselves liable as heirs do to the payment of all his debts. Freyhaus v. Cramer, 1 Knapp 107. The defendants therefore have not by administering the estate of the deceased made themselves responsible to pay the debts in full.

It was stated by the defendants that the assets of the estate were not sufficient to pay the debts in full without realizing the properties or some of them specifically bequeathed. If the estate of the testator is not sufficient to satisfy all the legacies in full all the legacies will have to abate or be reduced proportionately unless the wording of the will shows a clear intention of the testator to the contrary. See 1 Maasdorp Ins. of Cape law, 184, and authorities there cited. There is no such intention shown in the testator's will in this case. The testator by his will provided that all his debts should be paid as soon as practicable after his death. The executors were entitled to sell the immovable property, although specially bequeathed, in order to pay the debts of the estate. With the consent of the parties the defendants have filed accounts which have been practically accepted by the plaintiff as correct. The testator's estate consisted of half lot 67, Bent Street, lot 18, Lodge Village, and some lumber, &c. The half lot, Bent Street, and the lumber have been sold and the nett proceeds, after deducting the amount of the mortgage, &c., received by the executors, was $471 03. They have paid out $451 14. The estate of the deceased consists therefore of $19 89 and lot 18, Lodge Village, which is valued at $25 or $44 89 in all. The executors have charged no commissions. The legatees must bear their portion of the debts. Half lot 67 was bequeathed to testator's daughters, Theresa McKinnon, Marion King and Trasaka King, with the exception of half of the house; half of lot 18, Lodge Village, was bequeathed to Isabella King and the other half to Annie and Theresa McKinnon. The value of lot 67 was $950, less $175, being half the value of the building. Theresa McKinnon, Marion King and Trasaka King were entitled therefore to $775, the plaintiff to $175 and Isabella King and Annie Theresa McKinnon to $25. There is $44 89 to divide between them, that is Theresa McKinnon, Marion King and Trasaka will be entitled to $35 68, the plaintiff to $8 06 and Isabella King and Annie and Theresa McKinnon to $1 15. The executors have, however, only $19 89, of this sum, plaintiff is entitled to $3 57, for which amount there will be judgment, but as the plaintiff has practically failed in her case there will be no costs.
